4 OTHER TAXES BEGIN IF BOOST IN EARNINGS TAX IS VOTED DOWN

Head of Citizens' Group Cites Choice in July 14 Election—Many Still Undecided, Poll Indicates.

Four other tax increases will be levied against St. Louis taxpayers unless the earnings tax increase is approved at the special election July 14, Harry F. Harrington, general co-chairman of the Citizens Committee for the Earnings Tax, said today.

A letter pointing out that the four alternate tax increases will be eliminated automatically if the earnings tax increase is approved will be sent this week to all property owners in the city, Harrington said.

"Our job between now and July 14 is to inform the maximum number of St. Louisans that they are really choosing between two forms of taxation designed to raise the same amount of money, the $4,500,000 needed to balance the city's budget this year," Harrington said. He is president of Boatmen's National Bank.

"St Louisans can vote for the earnings tax amendement, and non-residents who work in the city will pay one-third of the $4,500,000," Harrington added. "The four alternate tax increases will die before they are ever levied. Or St. Louisans can vote against the earnings tax amendment, and the four alternate tax increases, which already have been enacted by the Board of Aldermen, will go into effect at once."

Many "Undecided."

An intensive educational campaign is needed during the week remaining before the earnings tax election because of "the number of undecided voters," Donald Gunn, former president of the Board of Aldermen, said today. Gunn is a general co-chairman of the Citizens Committee for the Earnings Tax.

Gunn said that a pilot survey of attitudes toward the election was encouraging in that it indicated those voters who are aware of the real issues at stake in the election tend to favor the proposed charter amendment on the earnings tax.

The survey was made for the committee by Edward G. Doody and Associates who reported it indicated that a substantial number of voters have not made up their minds which way to vote.

Of those who said they already had decided how to vote, almost three of every four were in favor of the earnings tax increase, the survey showed.

"The earnings tax amendment will obtain the 60 per cent 'yes' vote it must have to pass only if enough voters have been informed of their choice in this election," Gunn said.

Breakdown on Poll.

A total of 202 St. Louisans, 100 women and 102 men, were telephoned by the survey firm. Of that number, 34 said they were not going to vote.

Of the remaining 168, a total of 8.3 per cent said they were going to vote against it, and 68.5 per cent had not made up their minds or refused to say how they were going to vote.

A total of 63.7 per cent of the 168 who said they expect to vote in the special election indicated they knew that only passage of the earnings tax amendment can prevent the levying of the four other tax increases which have been enacted.

These are higher tax rates on

FAMILY CHARGES POLICE BEATING IN MAN'S DEATH

St. Louisan Alleged to Have Been Struck by Elsberry Officer—Inquiry Started.

St. Louis police today were investigating circumstances of the death of Raymond Briscoe, 4953 Wren avenue. Briscoe died yesterday at Christian Hospital of injuries which members of his family said were suffered when he was knocked down by an Elsberry (Mo.) policeman last Monday.

Briscoe, 48 years old, returned to St. Louis after the incident and collapsed yesterday morning at his home. He was taken to the hospital by police. Dr. B. T. Williams, coroner's physician, said death was due to an abdominal hemorrhage which resulted from a ruptured spleen.

Mrs. Briscoe told St. Louis police the man who struck her husband identified himself as the "marshal of Elsberry." The alleged attack occurred in back of Briscoe's clubhouse in Elsberry, a Lincoln county community about 55 miles northwest of St. Louis.

Police quoted Mrs. Briscoe as saying her husband arose from his bed and went to the back yard about 2 a.m. When he did not return quickly, she said, she went to the yard to investigate.

She said she found her husband lying on the ground, bleeding about the head. A man wearing a sport shirt and slacks was standing over him. She noticed a badge pinned to his shirt, she said.

Mrs. Briscoe said the man told her he had hit her husband and that he added, "Don't give me any lip or I will arrest him." The man then helped carry Briscoe into the clubhouse.

The man was quoted by Mrs. Briscoe as saying he had been sitting nearby in an automobile with his wife. He became angry, he said, when he saw Briscoe run into the yard dressed only in his underwear.

Briscoe's son, Albert, 12, told

Queen Receives Wild Welcome In Chicago, Reviews Guard

21-Gun Salute Greets Her—She and Prince Have Whirlwind Schedule.

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II stepped ashore in Chicago today amid the thunder of Army artillery, ships' whistles, and the cheers of thousands of spectators massed around Buckingham Fountain landing.

Police struggled to hold back other thousands trying to approach the reviewing stand on the dock.

The royal yacht Britannia's barge brought Elizabeth and Prince Philip ashore promptly at 10 a.m. The yacht was moored outside the breakwater.

A 21-gun salute began when the launch started toward shore. In close formation, a flight of jet fighter planes roared low over the scene. Hundreds of small pleasure craft followed the barge.

It looked like an amphibious assault, a scene reminiscent of World War II.

So began the Queen's 13-hour stay in Chicago. She looked rested after spending all day Sunday on the voyage from Parry Sound, Canada, to Chicago.

Ambassadors Attend.

United States Chief of Protocol Wiley Buchananan greeted the Queen and Philip officially. The royal couple then passed down a long line of officials, including the ambassadors to the United States from the United Kingdom and six Commonwealth nations.

An honor guard of soldiers, sailors and marines stood at attention while the band saluted Elizabeth with "God Save the Queen." It followed with the "Star Spangled Banner."

Prince Philip stood beside Canada's Prime Minister Diefenbaker during the playing of the anthems.

Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois and Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago escorted the Queen as she reviewed the guard of honor.

With prows pointed toward shore, 28 United States warships—the greatest concentration in Lake Michigan since the war of 1812—lined up in tight formation during the ceremonies. The white-uniformed crews were massed on deck, standing at attention.

SECRET SERVICE MEN TO ATTEND GRAMMAR SCHOOL

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—Travelers from Gettysburg report a small group of Secret Service agents is busily engaged in moving into rented homes and preparing for grammar school next year.

The reason is that Maj. John S. Eisenhower, the President's son, has moved with his wife and their four children to Gettysburg. Three of the children, who have been in private schools in Alexandria, Va., will attend public school in Gettysburg next fall.

A law passed after the assassination of President William McKinley directs the United States Secret Service to protect the President and members of his family. As a practical matter, it is not necessary to maintain a watch over John Eisenhower and his wife, Barbara, but the President's grandchildren rate 24-hour protection.

The youngest, Mary Jean, won't be 4 until next December. So she's too young for school. David, 11, will be in the sixth grade next year; Barbara Anne, 10, in the fifth grade, and Susan, 7, in the second grade.

EISENHOWERS END 4-DAY HOLIDAY AT MARYLAND LODGE

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower drove back to the White House today after spending an extended weekend at their Catoctin mountain lodge at Camp David, Md.

The President got in 72 holes of golf during the fuor-day holiday.

Mr. Eisenhower originally was scheduled to depart yesterday, but he decided to stay an extra night. This enabled him to avoid holiday traffic and to play a late-afternoon round of golf with George E. Allen, a friend and Gettysburg farming associate, thus playing an 18-hole round at the Gettysburg Country Club, each day since arriving Thursday.

At Camp David, he and Mrs. Eisenhower were weekend hosts to Allen, Gen. and Mrs. Alfred M. Gruenther, former Treasury Secretary and Mrs. George M. Humphrey and soft-drink executive William E. Robinson.

Insults for Russia Blossom In Guest Books at Red Exhibit

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—The Soviet Union has set up a direct pipeline to find out what effect the Soviet exhibition has upon American viewers.

Visitors have been asked to give their impressions in several guest books scattered around the $10,000,000, six-acre cultural and scientific exhibit.

Perhaps the books will be taken back to Moscow for careful scrutiny by cold war strategists. If so, here's some of what they will read:

"Big Brother is watching you."

"I saw this on July 4, a date commemorative of American independence—thank God for it."

"Russian music is for the birds—if they'll take it."

"Why don't you practice what you preach and the world situation might be a little better?"

"It's not the showcase that counts—it's action and good will."

"So what else is new?"

"Let my people go. (signed) a Jew."

"I note that you display vividly the German cruel treatment of your people. I have not seen pictures of your treatment of the Poles or the people of Latvia, Hungary, to mention a few."

"I missed seeing your typical Russian home (dump) and your labor camps (slave camps.)"

"Weren't there many Jews in the throwing off of the yoke of the Czar? But not a Jewish name is among your great leaders. How come?"

A few other comments showed warm enthusiasm:

"Twenty years ago we looked down at you. Today we fear and respect you. Good luck. More power to you."

"Forward to Communism. (Signed) Bill."

FIVE-DAY FORECAST: WARM FOR TWO DAYS, THEN COOLING TREND

WARM weather is expected to continue in the St. Louis area tomorrow and Wednesday, with a cooling trend beginning Thursday and Friday, the Weather Bureau said today in its extended forecast.

The five-day forecast: Continued warm tomorrow and Wednesday, becoming cooler Thursday or Friday with a few light showers over the weekend; temperatures will average about normal for the period; normal highs are around 90, normal lows in the upper 60s.

ACTION TO OUST HOFFA PLANNED BY TEAMSTERS UNION'S REBELS

Attorney for Group Says Legal Steps Will Be Taken to Prevent Boss From Succeeding Self.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—An attorney for a group of rebel Teamsters Union members says he will take legal action soon to oust James R. Hoffa as president of the union.

Godfrey P. Schmidt said yesterday that the aim of the 12 rank-and-file members would be to have Hoffa disqualified or expelled from the Teamsters so that he could not be a candidate to succeed himself.

Schmidt, who recently resigned as a member of a three-man board of monitors appointed by a federal court to ride herd on the Teamsters, said he hoped the monitors would join in the action.

He said about 263 charges had piled up against Hoffa and his administration since last August, only to lie collecting dust while rank-and-file Teamsters and union officials hostile to Hoffa's regime had been disciplined or ousted.

'Substantial Enough.'

"These charges are substantial enough to oust Hoffa as provisional president" of the Teamsters, Schmidt said in a television interview.

The attorney, who said he did not mean Hoffa should be ousted without trial, indicated he would ask Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts, who set up the board of monitors, to name a referee to examine the charges and arrange for a union trial.

Schmidt was an original member of the board of monitors set up by Judge Letts in a compromise settlement of a suit by the rank-and-file Teamsters who charged that Hoffa's election was "rigged."

He declined to estimate his chances of forcing Hoffa's ouster or to guess how long the procedure might take.

'Contribution to Cleanup.'

Schmidt also said Hoffa's ouster would not erase corruption in the union, the nation's biggest, any more than "getting rid of Hitler" by itself would have erased Nazism. But he said it would be "a very substantial contribution to a cleanup which is long overdue."

Reminded that some of Hoffa's close associates would be in charge of the Union anyway, at least until a new election could be held, Schmidt said, "We must take action slow. . . . We can't use a blunderbuss. . . . The best way to start it is by taking action at the top."

It was when he was asked if he thought Hoffa could win in a democratically-conducted election that Schmidt revealed his strategy of trying to get the Teamsters boss disaqualified or expelled to block him from seeking the office again.

'Might Run for Life.'

He said an expulsion "might run for life" or might be merely for a set period of years.

Schmidt said it was his own opinion that Hoffa could not win re-election in a fairly conducted election. He said he thought a nation-wide poll was right two years ago when, he said, it found that 75 per cent of the Teamsters did not want Hoffa.

Reminded that many anti-

MANY OFFER HELP; PARENTS DECIDE TO KEEP TRIPLETS

SOUTHPORT, N.C., July 6 (AP)—A poor tenant farm couple with 10-day-old triplets said today they have received so many offers of help they will not consider any longer putting the babies up for adoption.

"I don't think I can possibly part with them," said 35-year-old Mrs. Nathan B. Miller, as she waited for doctors to release her and the girl triplets from the hospital here.

The father, a $25-a-week farmhand, said an unidentified long distance telephone caller had offered thousands of dollars for the children.

"I believe he said $50,000 each," said Miller, who is hard of hearing. "But it may have been $5000. I may be poor, but nothing would make me part with any of my family for money . . . I think the offer was an insult."

No detailed list of gifts and offers of help had been made, but the Millers have received promises of furniture, clothing, food and money. An anonymous donor said he would pay for $100 worth of groceries, provided they kept the babies.

The Millers have three other children.

Mansfield Charges Butler Aids G.O.P. by Criticizing Democrats

Senator Says Party Chairman Furnishes Republicans With Campaign Fodder.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Senator Mike Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, said today that Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler was helping the Republicans by his criticism of Democratic congressional leaders.

Mansfield, the assistant Democratic leader of the Senate, said Butler's attacks "will not do us any good, but furnish fodder" for President Eisenhower and the G.O.P. National Committee.

Butler said yesterday in a TV interview that more progressive Democratic leadership is needed in Congress to provide a party record for the 1960 election campaigns.

At the same time a Republican Senator, Jacob K. Javits of New York, said his party "doesn't have as clear an image to the American people as it needs to have."

Mansfield, replying to Butler's criticism that the Democratic leadership in the Senate and House is steering too conservative a course, told a reporter:

"I think it would be far better for the Democratic National Committee and its leadership to get behind the responsible leadership shown by Senator Lyndon B. Johnson in the Senate and Speaker Sam Rayburn in the House and remember that the same factors will decide the elections in 1960 that decided the elections in 54, 56, and 58.

"The record on which the Democratic party will run next year, as in other years, will be the record of the Democratic party in Congress.

"On that basis," Mansfield said, "with proper support from the national committee, the party will be victorious next year in the presidential and congressional elections."

Rayburn said he might have an answer to Butler's statement

HE DISSOLVES PARLIAMENT BUT DENIES AIM TO BE DICTATOR

Returns to 1945 Constitution Under Which He Plans to Put Into Operation His 'Guided Democracy.'

JAKARTA, July 6 (UPI)—The Indonesian Cabinet resigned today, giving President Sukarno—and his army backers—full executive powers to run the country. Sukarno immediately denied any intention to become a dictator.

Observers believed the army, largest in Southeast Asia, would be the guiding force when Sukarno puts into operation his "guided democracy." His plan has been described as something like a Communist politburo, but the army itself is the strongest anti-Communist force in Indonesia.

Sukarno dissolved Indonesia's parliament, discontinued the provisional constitution, and returned to the 1945 constitution under which he plans to set up his guided democracy, but it was no victory the president could shout about.

The army was clearly the biggest winner so far. Army commanders under the leadership of Lt. Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, the chief of staff, probably will decide what sort of guidance they will give Sukarno's guided democracy.

Heavy Army Pressures.

Sukarno was described as disgusted with developments. He acted under heavy army pressure in issuing the decrees. Nasution said the bar imposed on political activities in June will remain in effect "to safeguard security."

Sukarno, in accepting the cabinet's resignation, asked Prime Minister Djuandra and the other ministers to remain temporarily until a new cabinet is appointed. Djuandra then went before the assembly to inform it officially of the government decree.

The constituent assembly, meeting to write a new constitution, had refused a proposal to return to the 1945 constitution under which Sukarno helped win Indonesian independence. Sukarno then dissolved the assembly.

Sukarno said the assembly's failure to act created a situation which endangered unity and the safety of the nation and constituted an obstruction to progress.

Sukarno, dressed in the white uniform of a commander-in-chief, read a prepared statement in front of his Jakarta palace outlining his plans. He returned recently from a world tour.

In a talk with reporters following the ceremony, he denied any dictatorial aims.

"Not a Dictator."

"I'll be part head of the state and part leader of the government," he said. "But one thing is certain. I'm not a dictator."

Nasution in a statement shortly afterwards said the "urgency of returning to the 1945 constitution as we know is to obtain political stability, particularly in the executive field."

It was the seventeenth cabinet to resign in Indonesia's 14-year-old history. Djuandra said he had no other choice but to resign when Sukarno abolished the 1950 provisional constitution under which it was formed.

There was little doubt here the army will have a much bigger say in the next government but just how big remains to be seen. Some believed the army may have as many as half the posts in the advisory government to be set up. It had four in the cabinet resigning today.

As result of his decree Sukarno has become tremendously dependent on the army to hold the opposition in check while at the same time preventing the Communists from exploiting the split between the Moslems and the nationalist group.

About the only way the parties can be held in check is by force, and most observers believed the army was willing to do that if necessary. The Communists were demanding representation in any new government and the Moslems were expected to demand the same.

The army also needs Sukarno for he is still the only man around whom the nation can ral-

RUSSIA CLAIMS 2 DOGS, RABBIT MADE SPACE TRIP

LONDON, July 6 (UPI)—Two dogs and a rabbit were fired into space by the Soviet Union and returned to earth in "good" condition, the Moscow radio said today.

The broadcast said the dogs were named Daring and Snowflake. It said one of them was making its third rocket trip.

The broadcast said the space vehicle carrying the animals was launched into the "upper layers of the atmosphere" on July 2 by a single-stage geophysical ballistic rocket of medium range.

There was no other indication of the height to which the animals were fired. But the reference to the return indicated the latest firing was not another Laika-carrying earth satellite. It may have resembled the American tests in which monkeys Able and Baker were fired 300 miles up and recovered alive.

HOLIDAY HIGHWAY DEATHS REACH 274; BELOW ESTIMATE

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—The nation's Fourth of July traffic cost 274 lives in the extended 54-hour weekend.

It was deadlier than the last two-day Fourth—that of 1953 when a record 262 highway deaths were counted. This year's toll fell far short of the National Safety Council's pre-holiday estimate of 350.

Accidents killed 517 Americans in all in the Independence Day weekend. Besides the 271 highway deaths there were 178 drownings and 65 deaths in other types of accidents including plane crashes, falls, fires and shooting accidents.

The count began at 6 p.m. Friday, with the start of the after-work vacation trip departures, and ended at midnight Sunday.

Texas led the state totals in traffic deaths with 22. Illinois was second with 16 and also reported two drownings. In Missouri 12 persons were killed in traffic accidents and two persons were drowned.

Cops Admit Error.

DULWICH, England, July 6 (UPI)—Police here wrote 12 motorists letters of apology for giving them speeding tickets after clocking them on a hill 440 yards long. A judge ruled that the law calls for speeding tickets only when the distance measured is at least 528 yards.

ASIA AWAITS NEW CRISIS OVER REDS LOSING FIVE MIGS

Big Chiang Victory in Air — Peiping Said to Have 2400 Planes Menacing Formosa.

TAIPEI, Formosa, July 6 (AP)—The Nationalist Chinese Defense Ministry said today the Chinese Reds have concentrated 2400 planes within 700 miles of Formosa.

The Military Information Service, news medium of the Defense Ministry, said Canton and Shanghai are among the sites where the Reds have air bases.

Fear of a new crisis in the Formosa strait area was increased by Sunday's air battle in which four Nationalist Sabrejets were said to have shot down five of 12 attacking Communist MIGs.

(United Press International said a Peiping radio broadcast termed the Nationalist Chinese claims "sheer fabrication." It said only one MIG was lost when the Nationalist Sabrejets "intruded" into Red Chinese air space and it "fell into the sea due to too sharp a dive at high speed.")

The official Central Daily News said the battle, which the Communists are accused of having started, "is a possible prelude to the new crisis which the Communists are planning to create in the Formosa strait."

It said this crisis would be more serious than the one created by the big artillery bombardment which the Communists launched against the Quemoy islands in August last year.

Another official newspaper, the Chung Hua (China) Daily News, said a new crisis would not be confined to the offshore islands "because it is quite possible that the Communists might stage air raids on Taiwan (Formosa) itself."

The China News, an independent, English-language daily, quoted a "military source who preferred anonymity" as saying the Communists had the strength to wage a large scale air war against Nationalist China.

Some of the Nationalist pilots credited with kills Sunday said

Queen's Visit Costing Chicago Plenty---About $5000 an Hour

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright 1959.

CHICAGO, July 6—How much is it costing Chicagoans to have Queen Elizabeth here for 13 hours? About $5000 an hour, is one estimate. Here is how the $65,000 package breaks down:

For Mayor Daley's 1000-invitation dinner—$25,000. Private contributors have made up the cost, Daley said.

Landing dock where the Queen stepped ashore, $8000. New curbs and gutters along Lake Shore drive—$20,000; dredging of a berth for the yacht Britannia—$5000. New plaza next to the new landing dock—$6000; painting traffic signals along Lake Shore drive—$1000.

There was a brighter side, however, swank Michigan avenue shops reported that the queen's visit was creating an almost unprecedented demand for evening gowns.

"We had more requests than we could handle," said a representative of one fashionable establishment.

Some evening gowns were flown in from New York to meet the demand, she said. Most women bought gowns in the $150-to-$500 range.

ISRAEL HAVING TROUBLE TRYING TO FORM A NEW GOVERNMENT

Ben-Zvi Opens Talks With Parties After Ben-Gurion Quits—Caretaker Cabinet Governs.

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector, July 6 (AP)—Israel was finding it difficult today to form a new government following David Ben-Gurion's resignation as Prime Minister. He quit last night after a 10-day row over sale of Israeli arms to Germany.

President Itzhak Ben-Zvi began preliminary talks with parliamentary factions on the formation of a cabinet to replace the 15-member coalition government that, as is customary, is staying on as a caretaker government until a new one is formed.

Ben-Gurion refused to sit with the caretaker government, saying he will have "nothing to do" with the four ministers from the left-wing Ahdut Avoda and Mapam parties which led opposition to the arms deal and refused to quit the cabinet. Ben-Gurion has no authority to dismiss them.

Early Vote Urged.

Consequently, Ben-Gurion's Mapai party proposed that the date for Israel's next parliamentary elections be advanced from Nov. 17 to Sept. 26 to shorten the critical transition period. Parliament would have to approve any changes in the election laws.

The four ministers caused the four-year-old government to topple by voting against the sale of 250,000 mortar shells to West Germany. Most of them have already been delivered to the Bonn Government.

The Israeli press has been calling the arms sold to Germany grenade throwers, but the Defense Ministry in Bonn said this seemed to be a mistranslation of the German word for mortar shells.

In his letter of resignation Ben-Gurion accused the four ministers who led opposition to the arms deal of violating the principle of collective cabinet responsibility by their action. All cabinet members had pledged in 1957 to support cabinet decisions or resign.

The 71-year-old prime minister said he turned in documents with his resignation showing that all cabinet members attended a meeting on Dec. 14, 1958, when the arms deal was approved unanimously.

Not until mid-April of this year, Ben-Gurion said, did the four ministers suddenly express their opposition to him in a private letter. The matter was not raised again until a German newspaper report on the arms sale was reprinted by an Israeli newspaper.

Newspaper's Attack.

The Nationalist newspaper daily Heruth accused the government of "trampling on our national honor, wounding the feelings of the survivors of Nazi slaughter and defiling the memory of our millions of martyrs."

Opponents of the sale said they thought it prejudiced Israel's position with the non-western powers.

Ben-Gurion and his supporters argued that West Germany cannot be identified with Hitler's Germany. By admitting Nazi guilt and paying reparation, they said, West Germany has showed willingness to redress injustice. They argued that friendly relations with West Germany are imperative to Israel's own defense and security.

Ben-Gurion has served as prime minister for all but two of the 11 years the state of Israel has existed. He retired voluntarily from 1953 to 1955 because of a dispute with his cabinet.

HAGERTY IS BACK AT DESK AFTER APPENDIX OPERATION

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty returned to his desk today, still convalescing from an appendix operation. He entered Walter Reed Army Hospital June 22 with an acute inflamed appendix.

"I feel pretty well, but I don't want to fight with any of you yet," Hagerty said as he met newsmen for the usual morning briefing.

He said he planned to remain at the White House through lunchtime today and thereafter will gradually lengthen his time at work until he resumes his full duties.

FIVE KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., July 6 (AP)—A truck-trailer and an automobile collided near here Saturday night, killing five persons. The only survivor in the car was a 2-year-old boy.

The highway patrol said the car apparently drifted across the center line of U.S. Highway 66, brushed another automobile and then slammed head-on into the truck. The dead were Mrs. Wanda White of Caney, Kan., and three of her children: David Allen, Mark Andrew and Sharon Elaine, and James P. Roberts of Caney.

late in the night, polishing the arrangements for the program.

Along with Gov. Stratton, the chief executives of six other states, and the mayors of 35 major Midwest cities, were in Chicago to meet Elizabeth and Philip.

The governors' group included James T. Blair of Missouri, and among the mayors was Raymond R. Tucker of St. Louis.

Police Commissioner Timothy O'Connor estimated more than 1,000,000 persons lined the route the Queen followed through Chicago. He said he believed 50,000 massed around Navy pier where Elizabeth and Philip came ashore.

Veteran police officers were astounded at the turnout.

"It's the biggest I've ever seen," said one. Reporters who covered the appearances in Chicago of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and President Truman, while he was in office, said the crowd today was much larger.

President Eisenhower sent a special automobile from Washington, with a White House chauffeur, to carry Elizabeth through the first part of her Chicago tour.

Motor Trip Through City.

By United Press International.

After the first round of pomp and ceremony, the Queen and Philip were whisked up the Outer drive, past the glass-fronted apartment buildings up the Gold Coast, then back down swank Michigan avenue to the heart of the city.

The first stop was at the International Trade Fair, where the royal party spent 35 minutes touring the exposition on Navy Pier in an electric cart.

During her stay here the Queen was to spend two hours and 50 minutes touring Chicago's streets, a precise three hours and 45 minutes dining or lunching with a handpicked cross-section of Midwest society and dignitaries.

The first break in the Queen's busy day came between 12:05 and 12:50 p.m. when the royal couple rested in their suite at the Drake hotel before a luncheon, hosted by Gov. and Mrs. Stratton, at the Ambassador West hotel. Four hundred invited guests of the Governor attended the luncheon.

After another brief respite in their hotel suites, the royal party was to start a procession down Lake Shore drive to the University of Chicago campus, a tour through the campus, and then a stop for an hour at the Chicago Museum of Science and Industry.

The museum tour was to be followed by a brief stop at the Chicago Art Institute. Then Elizabeth and Philip were to be taken back to the Drake to rest and dress for a whirl of evening activities.

For most spectators, the high point will come tonight when the royal pair—formally dressed for Mayor Daley's 1400-guest dinner—will be driven down Michigan avenue behind the smart black horse troop of the Shriners' Medinah temple.

The dinner in the Conrad Hilton hotel is the high spot for Chicago society, although only guests at the Queen's table are to be presented to the Monarch and her husband.

After the dinner the royal party will stop briefly in the imperial suite of the Conrad Hilton, then go to the Buckingham Fountain landing and depart. Some time later the Britannia will start back up Lake Michigan for Canada.

The only other stop in the United States made by the Queen on her 15,000-mile North American tour was when she spent a few minutes on the American side of the border during ceremonies at Moses-Saunders dam near Massena, N.Y., June 27 with Vice President Nixon.

STATE DEPARTMENT WON'T RELEASE HARRIMAN REPORT

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—The State Department said today it does not plan to make public former New York Gov. Averell Harriman's report on his June 23 conversation with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Department press officer Lincoln White said "I suppose" the department will reply "shortly" to Senate Democratic whip Mike Mansfield's demand that a copy of the Harriman report be made abailable to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Other officials said the department would not make the report public because it was a communication from a private citizen, not a government official, and it was up to Harriman to release it if he wished. Harriman was reported to have told the department that Khrushchev talked tough, threatening to use force, if necessary, to back Red demands that the West get out of Berlin.

GOVERNORS, 20 U.S. GIRLS IN RUSSIA CELEBRATE JULY 4

TIFLIS, U.S.S.R., July 6 (AP)—Seven American governors and 20 American college girls celebrated July 4 at the crossroads of Asia and Europe Saturday night.

They toasted freedom and private enterprise and joined in singing "America the Beautiful." The celebration took place in the dining room of the Intourist (official Soviet travel service) Hotel.

Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida proposed the toast. The orchestra added to the festivities by playing American jazz.

Following their arrival here from Kiev, the touring governors visited the city in a sightseeing bus.

Govs. William G. Stratton of Illinois and Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, who left the tour early, returned to New York yesterday convinced the Russian people want peace.

Stratton said he was impressed most by "how cordial the Russians were to strangers. The people were friendly, very cooperative and helpful."

Reid Comment on Suez.

TEL AVIV, July 6 (AP)—Ogden R. Reid, new United States ambassador to Israel, told newsmen yesterday he hoped the United Nations would provide a solution to the impasse over the United Arab Republic's blockage of the Suez canal to Israeli shipping.

O.A.S. MEETING ON DOMINICAN INVASION CLAIM

Cuba, Venezuela Accused of Backing Attacks—Ministers Parley Sought.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—The Organization of American States was called into session today to consider the Dominican Republic's invasion charges against Cuba and Venezuela.

The three countries have placed their armed forces on a war footing. Reports from Cuidad Trujillo, the Dominican capital, quoted high government officials as referring publicly to the possibility of "open belligerence."

The O.A.S. was expected to summon a special meeting of the foreign ministers of the 21 member nations to discuss the tense Caribbean situation.

Dominican Ambassador Virgilio Diaz Ordonez told the O.A.S. last week that Cuba and Venezuela backed invasions of his country June 14 and June 20. He said 3000 men were training in Cuba and 25 warplanes had been obtained by Venezuela in preparation for a new invasion.

Cuba and Venezuela heatedly denied the charges. They said that the Dominican Republic planned to bomb Santiago, Cuba, and Maracaibo, Venezuela.

Diaz Ordonez told the O.A.S. that a threat to the peace existed which required that the foreign ministers be summoned under terms of the Rio mutual assistance treaty. He said speedy action was needed to avoid "catastrophe" and "bloodletting."

It was doubtful that the Dominican Republic could get the 14 votes needed to invoke the never-before-used foreign ministers provision of the treaty. Instead, the O.A.S. probably will call the ministers meeting on broader grounds, such as to discuss economic problems and means for strengthening representative democracy.

Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt said in Caracas last night he would refuse to permit any O.A.S. representative to enter his country to investigate the Dominican charges.

Cuban Minister of State Raul Roa said his government was completely opposed to any foreign ministers' meeting to discuss the charges.

Jailed in Cuba in Plot Against Castro

HAVANA, July 6 (UPI)—Ten men and a woman accused of "preparation of a counter-revolution" against Premier Fidel Castro's government have been imprisoned in the western province of Pinar del Rio, reports reaching here said today.

The group will be tried by a civilian tribunal.

Alfred Louis, a British subject who was sentenced to death as a "war criminal," also entered the provincial prison. His appeal has been denied and British diplomats have been trying to get the sentence reduced. It was believed officials may commute the sentence to 30 years at hard labor.

Truman Spoiled U.S. and Soviet Good Relations, Kozlov Says

Russian Refuses to Elaborate on Off-Hand Remark—Rides Cable Car, Visits Redwoods, Vineyards.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6 (UPI)—Soviet Deputy Premier Frol Kozlov said last night former President Harry Truman was responsible for "spoiling good relations" between the United States and Russia.

He made the comment during a quiet stroll before retiring to his hotel. He did not elaborate.

Newsmen accompanying Kozlov on the Nob Hill walk pointed out that his route was similar to that which Truman usually takes when he visits San Francisco. That drew a chuckle from Soviet Ambassador to the United States Mikail Menshikov, who accompanied Kozlov.

"The same route, yes — but not the same road," Menshikov said.

The deputy premier nodded in agreement.

"Truman was responsible for spoiling good relations between our countries," Kozlov said. "Roosevelt was a great man and established very good relations. He had the greatest respect in our country."

Neither Kozlov nor Menshikov could be drawn into a more detailed statement.

At his home in Independence, Mo., Truman declined comment on Kozlov's remark.

Rides on Cable Car.

The deputy premier, who leaves for Detroit this afternoon, had sidestepped political issues since he arrived in northern California with his delegation on Friday.

He interrupted his walk last night long enough to ride one of San Francisco's cable cars. He rode the car down Powell street to Market, the city's main street.

Kozlov looked through a cigar store and finally bought seven postcards. An aid stepped forward and paid for the cards with 40 cents. He left the three cents change.

"He's the capitalist," Kozlov joked.

When the group returned to the top of Nob Hill, Kozlov paused to study the stars for a moment. "Where's Mars?" he asked. And then as an afterthought, Kozlov remarked: "Let's have an American-Soviet alliance against the Martians."

A newsman commented that such an alliance might be necessary.

Kozlov turned abruptly to the newsman and said: "I agree with you."

Other Points on Tour.

During the day, Kozlov toured the lush wine-producing Sonoma valley, the historic redwoods and the Russian river area north of San Francisco.

He walked through the Korbel vineyards and sampled the firm's champagne. The deputy premier described the Sonoma valley as a spot which "God must have designated especially for vineyards."

By the Associated Press.

Affably, Kozlov agreed to strapping a six-shooter about his bulky waist, hoisting his 200 pounds atop a listless cowpony named Splash and waving a 10-gallon hat in unconvincing imitation of a Western movie star. He declined to take the gun out of its holster.

From the winery he went to the Bohemian club at Bohemian grove, which has been mentioned as a possible site for a heads of government summit meeting. It is deep in a forest of towering redwoods about 80 miles north of here. The grove was part of a Czarist colony more than a century ago. The Czar sold it in 1841.

As the final event of his tour, arrangements were made for Kozlov and his party to visit the Berkeley campus of the University of California and its Lawrence radiation laboratory and be briefed on such matters as the laboratory's six-foot-long bubble chamber, largest in the world, which recently began operation as a means of detecting atomic particle tracks.

FOUR KILLED, SEVEN HURT IN HEAD-ON HIGHWAY CRASH

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., July 6 (AP)—Four persons were killed and seven critically injured in a head-on collision of automobiles near Cape Girardeau yesterday.

The dead were identified by the Missouri Highway Patrol as Patricia Ann Stafford, 18 years old, Milo Goodpasture, 18; June Moore 26, and Paul Hahn, 29, all of Cape Girardeau.

AILING GOV. LONG READY TO RETURN TO BATON ROUGE

Weakened by Arduous Campaign Swing—No Sign of His Next Move.

WINNFIELD, La., July 6 (AP)—Gov. Earl K. Long, his waning strength sapped further by an arduous weekend campaign tour, planned a return today to the state capital at Baton Rouge. He was hopeful of again picking up the reins of state administration.

He spent the night at his farm home here, which he refers to as his "pea patch." He arrived near exhaustion.

Long's enemies, presumably, were well prepared for his advent on the capital scene, from which he was forcibly removed May 30 for mental treatment at a Galveston, Tex., institution.

But there was no clue as to what awaits the ailing 63-year-old governor. Nor was there any sign from him on what his next move may be to tighten his hold on a shaky political domain.

Long won release from mental observation June 26. In the ensuing 10 days, he moved erratically about the state from Winnfield to Covington, New Orleans, Baton Rouge and, finally, on a barnstorming tour Saturday in which he launched his 1959 campaign for re-election.

In the midst of his journeying, last Wednesday, Long suffered what was described as a slight heart failure.

This led his doctors to caution him against Saturday's campaign-opening stump tour. But Long ignored them to travel some 300 miles in 98-degree heat from one corner of Louisiana to the other. He ended up Saturday night hoarse and shaken.

It was revealed that the Governor became noticably ill at one stage of the Fourth of July trek. He recuperated to a degree Saturday night at Lake Providence, his final stop on the tour.

But he was feeling poorly when he arrived at Winnfield yesterday afternoon. He napped for a while, then was propped up in bed while doctors gave him a check-over.

Long finally turned in for the night, after sitting for a time in a rocking chair.

KEYSERLING SAYS G.O.P. POLICIES AID RATHER THAN CURB INFLATION

Study Blames Monetary Restrictions and Lack of Economic Growth for Rise in Prices.

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, July 6 — An economic study group charged yesterday that the Administration's "spurious" campaign against inflation had retarded achievement of "our most profound objectives" while actually making inflation worse.

The report, by the conference on economic progress, was prepared by Leon H. Keyserling, Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors under President Truman. The conference is a privately supported organization, labor and farm representatives and business men.

It stressed a basic theme long advocated by Keyserling — that the "new inflation" of 1955-57 was caused or aggravated by a deficient rate of economic growth, rather than by the "classic" reason of excessive demand.

Reversal of Restraint.

The report's chief recommendation was for a reversal of the Administration's policies of restraint on Government spending and "tight money." It called for a "much bigger federal budget and a much more liberal monteary policy than we now have."

It said the Administration was pursuing again the policies "which converted the recovery of 1955 into the stagnation of 1956 and 1957 and the recession of 1957-58." It warned that these policies might mean a rate of economic growth in the 1958-64 period as "deficient" as the 2.4 per cent annual rate of 1953-59. A 5 per cent growth rate is "what we need and can readily achieve," the report held.

"The effort to substitute stability for progress has achieved neither," Keyserling charged. "The upside-down policies, which have aggravated the wasteful idleness of our resources, have diluted the value of the dollar by diluting the strength of the nation."

'Spurious Crusade.'

The Administration's "spurious crusade" against inflation, the report said, "has come to pervade the thought and action of a large part of the nation. The natural desire of the average family to be protected against inflation has been played upon to induce acceptance of regressive national economic policies, which have helped those who need help least at the expense of those who deserve help most."

Keyserling, as in the past, said the inflation of 1955-57 was fundamentally different from the wartime and earlier post-war inflation. He said there were "a variety of causes" for the later inflation, but he stressed the role of "administered prices" by large industries. He rejected the claim that rising wages had forced up prices, saying that "in many of the key industries where price inflation occurred, during the period leading up to the economic recession, there was a widening margin of profit per unit of production and sales."

"In the long run," he said, "it is becoming clear that an economy fluctuating from high growth to low growth to stagnation to recession to recovery, generates more net price inflation than resulted from a stable and moderately satisfactory rate of growth short of the abnormalities of wartime.

"Correspondingly, the nature of the 'new inflation' makes it clear that a continuation of the misguided campaigns against inflation will yield a sorry harvest of price inflation in the future."

'Immature Nation.'

Keyserling told newsmen that "we are an immature nation in our economics."

Present policies, he said, are "stultifying and smothering American productive capacity and technology. It is high time the bell was sounded."

By the Associated Press.

The Keyserling study did not attack specifically the one issued a week ago by the cabinet anti-inflation committee headed by Vice President Nixon. However, Keyserling told reporters he considered the earlier document a political stump speech and a "paste pot reiteration" of the Administration's legislative program.

PAIR OF GIRAFFES TO ARRIVE AT ZOO ABOUT JULY 20

A pair of camelopards, commonly known as giraffes, will arrive at St. Louis Zoo about July 20 following a quarantine period at Clifton, N. J., Director George P. Vierheller said today.

The new giraffes will be placed in an enclosure across from the zoo's pair of reticulated giraffes. Federal law requires quarantine for hoofed animals entering the United States.

Giraffes are native to Africa south of the Sahara desert. With four giraffes in the same area, Vierheller said, zoo visitors will be able to see the entire collection in one glance.

The two reticulated giraffes now at the zoo arrived here from Africa last September.

FLETCHER WANTS TO DELAY APPEAL ON SCHOOL OUSTER

A petition seeking additional time to carry out the appeal of George H. Fletcher from a circuit court ruling removing him from office as commissioner of school buildings for the Board of Education will be filed with the Missouri Supreme Court, Fletcher's attorney, Daniel P. Reardon said today.

Reardon said he will ask the court to grant him 180 more days in which to have the transcript of the testimony prepared. George A. Jensen, attorney for the plaintiffs in the ouster suit—three members of the Board of Education—said he would not object to the request for more time. Deadline for filing the transcript is this month.

Fletcher was ordered removed from office by Circuit Judge Theodore A. McMillian last December after a trial. He found Fletcher guilty of gross misconduct in allowing unauthorized persons to influence him in making promotions, in hiring unneeded employes because of political pressure and in certifying a false and fraudulent payroll.

MAN BURIED IN COLLAPSE OF DITCH IN CRESTWOOD

A man was buried under a pile of earth today when the walls of a ditch being dug for a sewer in Crestwood collapsed.

Construction workers, police and firemen were still digging after 30 minutes in a frantic effort to rescue the man. The cave-in occurred in a new residential subdivision near the 9200 block of Ewers avenue.

A pipe was reportedly inserted in the pile of earth so the man could breathe. A second man was also trappd by the cave-in up to his waist. He was rescued.

EAST SIDE POLICE FADE PAIR LOADED WITH LOADED DICE

Two St. Louisans in possession of 24 sets of dice, most of which were loaded, were arrested last night by East St. Louis police. A third man with them also was held.

John Terry, who said he lived in a hotel in the 2300 block of Olive street, and George Fletcher, 2600 block of Park avenue, were arrested at Twenty-third and State streets.

Terry, who was in a tavern near the intersection, was carrying four sets of dice, all loaded. Fletcher was in an automobile parked outside the tavern with John (Yankoo) Furmanck, 4300 block of Maryland avenue. Twenty pairs of dice, two decks of cards and a green felt cloth were found in the car.

Fletcher and Furmanck were arrested after they gave unsatisfactory answers to police officers who wanted to know why they were parked outside the tavern. The arrest of Terry followed. Terry and Fletcher were booked suspected of possessing gambling equipment and Furmanck was held on a disorderly conduct charge.

TRIAL SCHEDULED TO OPEN FOR WAGERING TAX EVASION

Trial of George Stoffey on a charge of attempting to evade the 10 per cent federal wagering tax was scheduled to begin today in United States District Court in East St. Louis.

Stoffey, who gave his address as 60 Hilltop drive, East St. Louis, was one of a number of suspected bookmakers arrested May 6, 1957 in a series of raids on the East Side.

The raids grew out of an investigation of operations of the North Sales Co., which reportedly acted as a clearing house for bookmakers. Thomas D. Clancy, James Prindable and Donald Kastner, partners in operating the company, have been convicted and are awaiting sentencing for attempted evasion of the wagering tax.

CITY ASKS TO BE MAJOR POULTRY CONSUMING AREA

A request that St. Louis be designated a major consuming area under the Federal Poultry Products Inspection Act has been made by city officials, it was announced today.

The designation would require that all poultry sold in St. Louis, including that produced elsewhere in the state, pass Government inspection for wholesomeness.

At the suggestion of United States Representative Leonor K. Sullivan (Dem.), St. Louis, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker has initiated the request. The designation is made by the Department of Agriculture.

LACLEDE GAS CO. IS CRITICIZED BY INDUSTRIAL USER

Firm's Attorney Charges Utility Is 'Johnny-Come-Lately' With Natural Gas.

By THOMAS W. OTTENAD
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 6 — Laclede Gas Co. was criticized sharply at a Federal Power Commission hearing today as a "Johnny-come-lately" trying to deprive industrial firms in the St. Louis area of needed supplies of natural gas.

The criticism was voiced by Oscar Cox, an attorney for Missouri Rolling Mills Corp., 5800 Manchester avenue, which is opposing an application by Laclede for increased supplies of gas.

"Industries have a greater need for gas than utility firms and other Johnny-come-lately users," he said.

Cox was referring to the fact that many large industries in the St. Louis area began using natural gas 30 years ago when Laclede was manufacturing its own gas supplies. Laclede switched to full natural gas some time later.

Operations Geared to Gas.

"It appears that Laclede wants to take gas away from old industrial firms whose operations have been geared to the use of gas for many years," he said. "It wants to do this and yet does not want to curtail gas supplied to Laclede's industrial customers.

"It also seeks to supply more gas for heating homes on the theory that the housewife is more important than the wage earner or the firm that supplies his pay check."

Cox's criticism came during the fourth day of a hearing before an FPC examiner. Laclede seeks to compel Mississippi River Fuel Corp., operators of a pipeline bringing natural gas supplies to the St. Louis area, to increase quantities of gas it furnishes to Laclede for resale to residential and business customers.

Missouri Rolling Mill Corp., a manufacturer of steel products, is one of a group of industrial firms in the St. Louis area using natural gas in their production operations. The firms, which purchase gas directly from Mississippi River Fuel, have intervened in the FPC hearing in opposition to increasing supplies to Laclede if this will mean curtailing the amount of gas available to industrial users.

J. David Mann, an attorney for Laclede, said the utility firm does not want to take gas away from industrial customers of Mississippi "if they are legally entitled to it." He said one purpose of the hearing "is to determine what these industries are entitled to."

Witnesses for Mississippi have testified previously that the pipeline system is now operating at capacity. Any increase in supplies furnished to Laclede will mean curtailment for industrial customers, they stated.

'Interruptible' Consumers.

Mann disputed this view. He said Mississippi has sold gas even during periods of peak use of gas with a large portion going to industrial firms that supposed to use gas only in non-peak periods. These firms are called "interruptible" consumers since their gas supplied are cut off when temperature drops below specified levels and they use other fuels.

Mann said that Mississippi furnished 25,000,000 cubic feet of gas to such interruptible customers on peak days last winter, adding:

"It is clearly our position that if Mississippi is selling gas to interruptible customers on peak days, we are entitled to our proportionate share of that gas."

The first witness for industrial firms opposing the Laclede application was Harry Frech Jr., assistant plant manager for the Winchester Western division of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. at East Alton, Ill. He said natural gas furnished by Mississippi River Fuel is used by the Olin firm in manufacturing brass and copper products, ammunition and explosives.

A predecessor of the Olin concern signed its first contract with Mississippi in 1928, he said.

POLICEMEN TRAP BALL PARK AREA THEFT SUSPECTS

Youths Captured After Trying to Remove Hubcaps — Other Weekend Robberies.

A special police watch, assigned to patrol the Busch Stadium area because of thefts from parked automobiles during baseball games, paid off yesterday after a policeman spotted two youths stealing hubcaps from a car.

The youths were captured after a chase of several blocks in which two shots were fired by the officer.

Patrolman Eugene Smith, wearing civilian clothes and on foot, reported he saw the youths drive up to a parked vehicle in the 3500 block of University street and remove the hubcaps.

Fires Two Shots.

He said he identified himself and ordered them to halt. Instead they ran to thier machine. Smith fired a warning shot and then a second shot.

The fugitives drove south on Garrison avenue one block to St. Louis avenue, where they turned west. There policemen in a patrol car, hearing the shots and seeing the pursuit, gave chase and arrested the youths at Grand boulevard and North Market street.

One idetnified himself as Robert Ditzeman, 17 years old, of the 1500 block of Cass avenue. The other youth was 16 years old. They were booked as suspected of larceny and for passing through two stop signs in the chase.

Filling Station Robbed.

Charles Davis, proprietor of a filling station at 4710 Washington boulevard, reported he was robbed of $38 early yesterday by a man who entered the place and pointed a short-barreled pump shotgun at him.

Davis said the robber, a Negro, threw a paper bag on the floor and said: "Fill it." Davis did so and the man fled on foot, the victim reported.

Hugh Townsend, 1915A Marcus avenue, reported he was robbed of $118 early yesterday by two men who forced their way into his automobile when he stopped for a traffic signal at Cote Brilliante and Euclid avenues. They ordered him to drive west to Warwick avenue, where they took his wallet and fled on foot.

Lawrence Brown, 5327 Ridge avenue, reported he was robbed of $35 and a wristwatch valued at $55 by three Negro youths who knocked him down at Twenty-third street and Franklin avenue early yesterday.

Miss Lazanne Walters, 1901 North Market, told police she was thrown over an iron fence into a church yard early yesterday by two men who tried to rob her.

She said the men, Negroes, accosted her at Locust street and Ewing avenue, demanded money and, when she said she had none, threw her over the fence of St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church. She was treated at City Hospital for abrasions of both arms.

Mrs. Margaret Bunts, 5754 Chamberlain avenue, reported she put an intruder to flight by hitting him on the head with a lamp base after he forced his way into her apartment Saturday night.

She told police the man, a Negro, gained entrance by breaking glass in a door. He struck her in the face but she countered with the vase. She said he fled with his face bleeding badly.

46 in City and County Treated For Injuries Laid to Fireworks

35 Children, 11 Adults Hurt — Roman Candles, Sparklers and Crackerballs Most Dangerous.

Forty-six persons were treated at city and county hospital for injuries caused by fireworks over the Fourth of July weekend, the Lighthouse Society for the Blind reported today.

Robert A. Roberge, prevention of blindness director of the society, said his check showed that legal fireworks were responsible for most of the mishaps. Roman candles, sparklers and crackerballs proved to be most dangerous, he said.

Thirty-five children and 11 adults were among the injured. Most seriously hurt was Joseph H. Grasser Jr., 10 years old, of 528 Oaks court, Webster Groves. He underwent surgery at St. Joseph Hospital, Kirkwood, Saturday night for removal of fragments imbedded in his leg. He was hurt when a Roman candle exploded.

The final total of fireworks injuries was expected to go higher. Roberge said he planned to check with doctors in St. Louis county to see how many persons were treated in addition to those who went to hospitals.

Roberge said four persons suffered eye injuries. A 3-year-old girl was hurt when a crackerball, which looks something like a pistachio nut, exploded in her mouth. A 27-year-old man suffered severe burns of the hand when a Roman candle exploded.

Most of those hurt suffered second or third degree burns, Roberge said. One first degree burn of the eye, inflicted by a sparkler, was reported. The bulk of the injuries occurred in the county.

NO SETTLEMENT IN SIGHT IN AUTO MECHANICS' STRIKE

The labor dispute which has shut down service and parts departments of 88 automobile dealers in the St. Louis area entered its fifth week today with little prospect for settlement this week.

E. J. Barry, federal mediator who has been handling talks between the Machinists District 9 and the Greater St. Louis Automotive Association, said no meetings between the two were scheduled this week and none would be unless requested by either side.

Barry said the deadlock still centered about the question of a pension plan. He said it would be "pointless" to hold a meeting this week, since neither side has indicated a willingness to change its views on the issue.

INTRUDER SEIZED WHEN HE IS FOUND ASLEEP IN HOME

Albert Calvin, 2232 Baker street, East St. Louis, was arrested early yesterday after he was found sleeping on the couch in the home of Mrs. Golden Jones, 2243A Baker street.

Calvin also was identified by Mrs. Viola Beardson, 1900 block of Russell avenue, East St. Louis, as the man she saw standing next to her bed a few hours earlier. The man fled when Mrs. Beardson awoke and screamed.

Mrs. Jones said she found Calvin asleep on her couch when she arrived home. He had removed all the electrical fuses and placed them under a pillow. He apparently entered the house through a side window, police said.

REPORTS BEING SLUGGED, ROBBED IN EAST SIDE ALLEY

James Clark of Esther, Mo., was robbed of $32 early yesterday by two men he accompanied into an alley in the 1300 block of Broadway, East St. Louis.

Clark said after he entered the alley with the men they slugged him and took his money. He refused medical attention.

A tape recorder valued at $200 and two men's suits valued at $180 were stolen from the home of the Rev. M. R. Lemons, 3320 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, he reported to police yesterday.

LIQUOR AGENTS RAID HOME IN BRENTWOOD

Man and Woman There Are Charged With Selling Without License.

Two persons were arrested and charged with liquor violations in Brentwood yesterday in an apparent drive by federal agents in St. Louis county.

Mrs. Evelene Crump, of 1428 Withrow avenue, Brentwood, and Laverne Buckley, 1338 Banneckker avenue, Richmond Heights, were charged with selling intoxicating liquor without a license in warrants obtained by Brentwood police.

Federal agents said they purchased whisky and beer in Mrs. Crump's home at 3 p.m. yesterday.

County and Brentwood police waited outside while the agents made the buys, it was reported. A quantity of whisky and beer was confiscated.

Mrs. Leola Whitlock, 8723 Agnes avenue, Brentwood, a sister of Mrs. Crump was charged in a warrant with interfering with a police officer. She attempted to retrieve some of the confiscated beverages, police said.

The raid was the fourth of the weekend in the county by liquor agents. Four persons were charged with liquor violations in three raids in Webster Groves and the North Webster area Saturday.

MAN ARRESTED IN FLORIDA AS ALTON KILLING SUSPECT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 6 — Andrew C. Acker, sought for four years in connection with a murder near Alton, has been arrested in Orlando, Fla., the Federal Bureau of Investigation here announced yesterday.

Acker, who lived at 104 Dooley drive, Alton, disappeared in May 1955, about 10 days after the body of Leroy Stiritz, Alton newspaper vendor, was found in a creek bed near East Newbern, Ill. A federal fugitive warrant was issued charging Acker with flight to avoid prosecution for murder.

Stiritz was an employe of the Alton News for which Acker worked part-time. Police said Acker had been living in Orlando under an assumed name.

Beating Alleged

a reporter today that he awoke as his mother and the policeman were bringing his father back into the clubhouse. He said he heard the man threaten to take Briscoe to jail.

"My dad could not remember what happened in the yard," Albert said.

Briscoe and his son were home alone yesterday when Briscoe became ill and collapsed in the kitchen. Albert tried to telephone his mother, who had spent the night with relatives on the East Side, but could not reach her. He then called police.

Dr. Williams said Briscoe had several broken ribs. Briscoe also was suffering from cirrhosis of the liver, the coroner's physician said.

A reporter telephoned the home of LaDelle Berkbigler, city marshal of Elsberry. Mrs. Berkbigler answered and said her husband did not wish to talk to newspapermen.

Mrs. Berkbigler later said she and her husband would testify at the inquest tomorrow into Briscoe's death. She added that they would not discuss the incident before the inquest.

Briscoe was a laborer employed at the Moloney Electric Co., 5390 Bircher Boulevard.

Sukarno

ly—the popular hero who helped win independence.

Under Sukarno's guided democracy there will be a cabinet and a "people's congress" with advisory powers only. Sukarno himself will appoint the members of the planning council and the advisory council, and he will exercise a semi-veto over ony decisions of the peoples congress.

Sukarno had virtually supreme powers when his nation was formed 14 years ago, but since then its economy has been disrupted by rebel activities and its many political parties have failed to pull together. He came to the conclusion western-style democracy would not work here.

He tried to get parliament to approve his plan but failed. One of his chief opponents was the Masjuma Moslem party which considered the plan too leftist.

The 1945 constitution gave way in 1950 to one calling for general elections. It was only provisional, and the Assembly elected in 1955 never finished a permanent constitution.

Political observers here believed the army forced Sukarno to take personal control of the country.

Deputy Chief of Staff Col. Achmed Jani told a press conference that the country had made the largest arms purchases in its history.

Jani just returned from an arms purchasing trip in which he signed deals with England, France, West Germany, Yugoslavia, Sweden, Denmark, Italy, and Pakistan and renewed agreements with the United States and Czechoslovakia.

He said he had made arrangements for delivery, within two years, of tanks, armored vehicles, artillery and complete facilities for a small arms factory.

Earnings Tax

real estate and personal property, gasoline, sales by merchants and manufacturers and a charge for collecting household rubbish.

If the charter amendment is approved, the earnings tax will be increased from one-half of 1 per cent to 1 per cent.

The League of Women Voters of St. Louis reported today that "an unusually small number of applications for absentee ballots for the earnings tax election have been made to date."

St. Louisans may vote at the Board of Election Commissioners office at 208 South Twelfth street any week day between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., if they will be away the day of the election, the League said. Absentee ballots may be requested by mail and returned to the Election Board office by 6 p.m. the day following the election.

FIVE NORTH CAROLINA NEGRO PUPILS APPLY FOR TRANSFER

SNOW HILL, N.C., July 5 (UPI)—Five Negro boys applied today to the Greene County Board of Education for reassignment to white schools for the 159-60 school term.

The board delayed action until its August meeting because the deadline for such applications is July 14. There were indications more applications would be made.

The applications were the first such integration requests in the county. A few scattered and generally unsuccessful attempts have been made to integrate schools in prominently-rural eastern North Carolina.

DRIVING WHEN INTOXICATED RESULTS IN 60-DAY TERM

Willie Davis, a laborer, of 5253 Maffitt avenue, was sentenced to 60 days in the city workhouse today for driving while intoxicated.

Police testified they stopped Davis on June 11 after an automobile he was driving struck a uarked car in the 5000 block of Lotus avenue but failed to stop. He was drunk at the time, police said.

Davis denied that he had been involved in the accident. He was found guilty by Police Judge Morris Rosenthal.

Alleged Victim

RAYMOND BRISCOE

Hoffa

Hoffa union leaders thought the Teamsters chief would win anyway, Schmidt said that was just their own idea.

Schmidt said he had received threats by telephone, letter and postol card in connection with his activities. He said he had no way to link them with the Teamsters hierarchy but that he had referred them to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and other agencies.

Asked if he expected action on the threats, he replied firmly: "I do."

Alleged Extortion.

By the Associated Press.

Schmidt's statements on legal action against Hoffa were made as the Senate Rackets Committee prepared to look into alleged extortion deals in New Jersey and financial transactions involving Hoffa's friend Ben Dranow.

Dranow, a former Minneapolis department store executive, is not a member of the Teamsters Union. He invoked the Fifth Amendment in earlier questioning by the Rackets Committee.

Dranow was described as too ill to appear last week when his name figured prominently in testimony about Sun Valley, a Florida resort development, and about non-union jackets bought for union members.

A.D.A. Calls for Passage of Labor Legislation.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Americans for Democratic Action today told Congress it should "not permit the unholy alliance of the Teamsters and reactionary employers to block action" on a labor-management controls bill.

In a statement furnished Chairman Graham A. Barden (Dem.), North Carolina, of the House Labor Committee, which has just finished three weeks of closed hearings on the controversial subject, A.D.A. national chairman Robert R. Nathan said:

"The American people want a labor reform bill now. . . . We call upon Congress to steer a course of reasonableness between —the Teamsters' desire for no legislation and the reactionary employers' demand for a union - busting measure which, just like the Teamsters' position, means no legislation. The American people want a bill, not excuses."

Air Battle

the Communist planes were MIG-19s, the latest model supersonic jet fighter, and not MIG-17s as reported earlier.

Reports attributed here to Nationalist agents on the mainland said the Red Chinese decided at a military conference last weekend to create a new crisis in Formosa strait.

The battle was the biggest in the Formosa area in nine months. The Nationalist air force said the four Nationalist Sabrejet pilots were on a routine patrol south of the Matsu islands at the northern end of the strait, when they were jumped by the 12 MIGs. In a swirling 13-minute battle four MIGs plunged into the water.

A fifth MIG was reported hit both from the air and by anti-aircraft guns on the Palchuan (White Dog islands, 11 miles south of the Matsus. It, too, plunged into the strait. The pilot bailed out and was rescued by a Nationalist boat but died later.

Four other United States-made Sabrejets were ordered to the battle, but it was over before they arrived. All the Sabrejets returned safe to their base in northern Formosa, the Nationalists said.

The pilots were acclaimed as heroes by the new chief of the general staff, Gen. Peng Meng-chi, and the commander in chief of the air Force, Gen. Chen Chia-shang, who rushed to the base as soon as they heard of the battle.

The Peiping radio today broadcast that two American warships "intruded into Chinese territorial waters around Pingtan island and the Paichuan areas" Saturday and Sunday. Peiping issued what it called its "54th serious warning" against such alleged intrusions.

The Communists engaged in mild shelling of the Quemoy islands, 150 miles south of the Matsus, today. The Defense Ministry said 35 shells were fired up to about 2 p.m.

Bear Attacks Fishermen.

BANFF, Alberta, July 6 (AP)—A grizzly bear charged into a fishermens' camp at Chephren lake today and attacked Alex Semochuk, his son, Tom, and Frank Winchester, another fisherman. All suffered severe injuries.

16 IN THREE RAFTS ARE OVERDUE ON RUGGED UTAH TRIP

GREENRIVER, Utah, July 6 (AP)—Sixteen persons who set out last week in three rubber rafts for a float trip down the Green river to its junction with the Colorado river are overdue at Hite, Utah.

Pilot Jim Hurst said he had spotted two persons today beside an SOS sign in sand in rugged Cataract canyon through which the Colorado boils south of its junction with the Green river.

Hurst, who operats an airport here, said Holmes O. Miller of Bakersfield, Calif., was leader of the float party which included several children. He said he tried to discourage Miller from making the trip down the treacherous river.

Hurst said the Miller party had expected to leave the river at Hite yesterday or the day before.

VETERANS HONOR HERTER

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 6 (AP)—World War II veterans of the Eighth Armored Division Association ended a three-day meeting yesterday by selecting Secretary of State Christian Herter as the American who contributed most toward the cause for peace in the last year.

In a telegram to Herter, the association said the award was made for "maintaining and continuing the foreign policy of the United States during times of great stress."

MOTHER WHOSE BABY DIED AFTER BEATING SENTENCED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CARROLLTON, Ill., July 6—Mrs. Richard Wood, whose 11-month-old son died after a beating, was sentenced to one to three years in prison today on her plea of guilty of conspiracy.

Her husband, a tenant farmer, received a sentence of eight to 14 years last Wednesday for manslaughter.

The Woods told Green county authorities they buried the baby last March 4 when they found him dead the morning after he was beaten by Wood for crying. Mrs. Wood, 21 years old, and the mother of a 3-year-old girl, claimed she tried to stop her husband from striking the child.

6-MONTH ENLISTMENT BILL IS SENT TO WHITE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—A bill extending the military reserve enlistment program for four more years was passed by the Senate and sent to the White House today.

The measure provides the basis for the program under which young men up to 18½ years old may enlist for six months' active duty training and 7½ years in the reserve. For those over 18½, the program embraces six months of active duty training and 5½ years in the reserve.

The bill would continue the program until August 1, 1963. The Senate passed it by voice vote.

'CHICAGO MOB' AT GLITTERING FLORIDA WEDDING

MIAMI BEACH, July 6 (UPI)—Miami Beach "cooled off" today after the wedding Saturday of Sam (Mooney) Giancana's daughter and a reception at the Fontainebleau hotel attended by the "Chicago mob."

Giancana, questioned by the Senate Rackets Committee last month on Chicago pinball and prostitution rackets, was wet-eyed as he gave his 19-year-old daughter Bonnie away to bridegroom Anthony Tisci. The bridegroom is the son of the secretary to Illinois Congressman Rowland Libonati.

The wedding at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church drew about 200 persons, including women with jewels a-glitter. At the reception in the Fontainebleau, grim-lipped toughs guarded the doors for gate-crashers.

Miami crime commissioner Dan Sullivan was an interested spectator at the hotel. "This makes me sick," Sullivan said. "This was obviously the Chicago mob, not the usual New York and Jersey mob that frequents the Beach."

U.S. AND BRITAIN STALLING TEST BAR, RUSSIAN SAYS

GENEVA, July 6 (UPI)—Soviet delegate Semyon Tsarapkin today charged the United States and Britain with deliberately stalling the nuclear test bar talks, which h said have made "no progress at all" in the last two months.

Tsarapkin accused the United States and Britain of "procrastinating" and "making no steps" since April 27, when Moscow introduced its so-call "vetoless" scheme for a limited quota of on-site inspections to check suspected illegal blasts.

United States Ambassador James J. Wadsworth pointed out that the Russians still have not their inspection scheme is workable despite persistent western prodding.

Series of Chicago Fires.

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—Thirty-one firemen were treated for smoke inhalation and injuries yesterday at separate extra-alarm fires in a small hotel, a crowded apartment building and a warehouse. Total damage of the fires was estimated at $150,000.

Butler

later. Meanwhile, Rayburn told reporters, "We'll just let Mr. Butler stew with Mr. Mansfield's statement for a while."

Johnson's comment was terse: "Mr. Butler and Mr. Morton (Senator Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, chairman of the Republican National Committee) are both entitled to their opinions."

Senator Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican Senate leader, made no effort to hide his pleasure.

Butler said "quite a few Democrats around the country are unhappy about the progress that has been made" in the current session of Congress. He expressed hope "that the attitudes and policies of the leadership will change." He mentioned no names.

In hinting at a possible revolt within the Democratic party, Butler said:

"When the younger members of Congress go back to their districts this fall and are asked by the people about the record of accomplishment, they will return here in January in a fighting mood because they know they will have to have a solid record of accomplishment in order to win re-election."

Would Invite Veto.

He criticized the recent strategy of the Democratic leaders in Congress in toning down some legislation to avoid a veto by President Eisenhower, saying:

"I hope that we will be laying a bill upon the President's desk even though knowing in advance that he may vetc it and letting it be known and then we will take the issue to the American people."

Meanwhile, Butler announced that Democrats representing every section of the country will join in a party relations conference here next Friday and Saturday. It will consist mostly of panel discussions.

The Republican party also announced a series of "mobilization training schools" for G.O.P. workers in key states.

In another weekend political development Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts, said in an interview that a booming crop of favorite sons and the abolition of some primaries are stifling the people's voice in the choice of presidential candidates.

Kennedy, who is expected to announce this fall that he will seek the 1960 Democratic presidential nomination, said:

"If states are going to abolish presidential primaries and favorite sons are going to block off national candidates from running in their states, the effect is going to be to deny the people a voice in the selection of the party nominees."

The latest governor to mark his state as out-of-bounds is Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, who said last week he favors sending a favorite son delegation to the party convention.

Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown has made it clear he wants no outsiders bidding for California's big delegation. Govs. Robert B. Meyner of New Jersey and G. Mennen Williams of Michigan are potential candidates who have posted "no poaching" signs on ther preserves. Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler wants Kentucky in his corner.

Gov. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota was instrumental in getting his state to abolish its presidential primary. Gov. Michael V. Di Salle of Ohio has been talking lately about a favorite son movement there. Gov. J. Millard Tawes of Maryland has told associates he would like to keep his state's delegation uncomitted. In Florida, Senator George A. Smathers wants to be the favorite son.

All of this could add up to a reduction of tne market places for Kenedy's political wares, leaving primaries only in New Hampshire, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, South Dakota and Oregon. However, Kennedy has made it clear to friends he will not hesitate to step in and contest some of the favorite sons if he feels it necessary.

PHILADELPHIA PORT CLOSED

PHILADELPHIA, July 6 (UPI) —The port of Philadelphia was shut down today in a dispute between the International Longshoremen's Association and the Philadelphia Marine Trade Association. There were no meetings scheduled and the Federal Mediation Service said the situation was still stalemated over the method to be used to unload sugar from a Cuban vessel.

Missing Plane Found.

HOWARD, Colo., July 6 (AP) —Wreckage of a single-engine plane in which a Denver oil man disappeared 39 days ago was found yesterday in a mountain pine thicket. Searchers said a body in it undoubtedly was that of Paul Fullop who was flying from Denver to New Mexico.

12 DEAD IN KARACHI IN WAKE OF HEAVY RAIN

KARACHI, July 6 (AP) — Twelve persons were reported dead today in a rainstorm that flooded Karachi. Sixteen buildings collapsed in the storm.

SRINAGAR, Kashmir, July 6 (AP)—One of the worst floods of recent years has cut off hundreds of villages in the Kashmir valley, demolished hundreds of mud houses, washed away many wooden bridges and drowned many cattle. Three persons have perished, according to unofficial count.

If you're smoking more now but enjoying it less...
CHANGE TO CAMELS—A REAL CIGARETTE

The best tobacco makes the best smoke

First thing you'll notice is how much more satisfying each smoke becomes. The full, rich flavor of Camels tastes clean and fresh every time. And that easygoing mildness gives you more to enjoy. No other cigarette equals the Camel blend of costly Turkish and domestic tobaccos. The best tobacco makes the best smoke. Could be that's why more people smoke Camels than any other cigarette—and have for 10 straight years. How about you?

WEEKEND AUTO DEATHS IN THIS AREA RISE TO 4

One person was killed yesterday and another died of injuries suffered earlier in separate automobile accidents in the St. Louis area. The deaths brought the number of traffic fatalities in the area to four over the Independence day weekend.

The latest deaths were: Dale O. Klotz of Brighton, Ill., and James Enge, 1964 Tudor avenue, East St. Louis.

Klotz, 27 years old, was killed when he apparently lost control of his southbound machine which struck a culvert and caromed across the roadway and hit another car on U.S. Highway 67 near Brighton, about 30 miles north of St. Louis. Klotz was alone.

Enge, 19, died at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis of injuries suffered in a headon collision late Saturday night about four miles north of East St. Louis.

Girl a Victim.

Miss Wylowdean Fuller, 18, of 1919 McCasland avenue, East St. Louis, was killed in the accident and five other persons were seriously injured.

Both Miss Fuller, and Enge were passengers in an automobile driven by Clemie Cannon, 1130 Tudor avenue, East St. Louis. Illinois State Police said Cannon, 20, was attempting to pass an automobile which was waiting to make a left turn and drove into the wrong lane.

He collided with another machine driven by Terry Thweatt, 2117 Dewey avenue, Granite City. Cannon, Thweatt and three other passengers in Cannon's automobile were injured.

Police said Cannon was arrested in Fairmont City for speeding through an intersection, about five and one-half hours before the accident.

Hitchhiker Killed.

Also killed over the weekend was William Stewart Shae of Des Moines, who had hitchhiked a ride in an automobile which plunged down an embankment and over-turned several times on U. S. Highway 40 near Wentzville. Driver of the machine, Ernest L. Williams of Kansas City, escaped injury.

Major Minor, 905 North Vandeventer avenue, was seriously injured and two other persons suffered minor injuries yesterday when their automobile failed to make a sharp curve and ran off Kehr's Mill road, St. Louis county.

Minor was treated for a head concussion and internal injuries at St. Louis County Hospital. His wife, Evelyn, and John Butler, 4206W Lexington avenue suffered shock and possible internal injuries.

John Hancock, 3718 Rutger street, was struck yesterday in the 1200 block of South Thirty-ninth street by an automobile which did not stop. He was in serious condition at City Hospital with a compound leg fracture.

Hancock, 65, told police he was sitting on a rock leaning against a building when the machine backed out of an alley and struck him. The car then proceeded north on Thirty-ninth street.

Mohamed V in Spain.

SEVILLE, Spain, July 6 (AP) —King Mohamed V of Morocco arrived yesterday from Algeciras en route to Montreaux, Switzerland. After a rest in Montreaux he is to confer with French President Charles de Gaulle in Rambouillet Aug. 3.

FORMER MILITARY BRASS AIDS LOBBY INQUIRY — SO FAR

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Any former generals and admirals who do not provide information voluntarily about their contractors will be subpenaed for questioning, a House investigation chief said yesterday.

Chairman F. Edward Herbert (Dem.), Louisiana, said his House Armed Services investigations subcommittee so far has received good co-operation.

The group begins hearings tomorrow on reports of lobbying, influence or pressure tactics on behalf of particular weapons or individual services.

The activities of former military officers and civilian officials who later went to work for defense contractors is a principal phase of the inquiry. Questionnaires have been mailed to such individuals. The first scheduled witness is Deputy Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr.

NEW TRIAL GRANTED IN SUIT AGAINST DEPARTMENT STORE

A new trial has been granted in a damage suit in which Sonnenfeld's, Inc., women's clothing store which formerly operated at 610 Washington avenue, won a $60,000 jury verdict against Scruggs Vandervoort Barney department store and two other defendants last April 18.

Circuit Judge James E. McLaughlin sustained defense motions for a new trial which alleged the court erred in admitting certain testimony and in its instructions to the jury.

Sonnenfeld's, which went out of business last May 29, had sued the department store; a Scruggs saleswoman, Mrs. Laurine Westerbeck, and National Associated Mills, Inc., of Indianapolis, hosiery manufacturers. Sonnenfeld's alleged it suffered losses when Mrs. Westerbeck, a former Sonnenfeld employe, used customers' records taken from that store to solicit business in her new job.

SATCHMO ADDS SURPRISE NOTE TO JAZZ JAMBOREE

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP) — Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong's famous trumpet sounded a dramatic, surprise finale Saturday night to Lewisohn stadium's fourth annual jazz jamboree.

He was originally scheduled to appear on the program, but because of his recent serious illness in Italy, no one expected him.

In the midst of the finale, he casually strolled onto the stage. He blew a few random notes and then drifted into his theme, "Sleepy Time Down South." He added a rousing vocal chorus for good measure, and then swung into "Back Home Again in Indiana" and "Gypsy."

KENORA, Ontario, July 6 (AP)—A windstorm hit the suburban community of Norman Saturday, churching up a funnel of water 120 feet high along the Winnipeg river. A 14-foot boat was tossed 100 feet in the air and dropped on a car occupied by Herbert Mason. He was unhurt.

CREW ABANDONS BURNING SHIP ON LOUISIANA BEACH

CAMERON, La., July 6 (AP)—The master and crew abandoned the burning Belgian motorship Anvers early today after the vessel was beached. The Coast Guard said magnesium explosions prevented any attempts to board the ship and fight the fire.

The ship's master, Henri Sanglier, and the remaining 11 men on the vessel were taken to Cameron, five miles southwest of where the Anvers was beached. Two lifeboats with 26 other crew members, including the master's wife, were towed into Cameron earlier.

At least six persons—two members of the Anvers crew, two navy seamen and two Coast Guard firefighters—were injured, none seriously.

The Anvers, which sails out of Antwerp, was towed to within three miles of shore, before it was abandoned. The 442-foot vessel was bound from Freeport, Tex., to Lake Charles, La. It was anchored about six miles south of Cameron, when the fire broke out.

TALKS RESUMING IN STEEL DISPUTE

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Negotiators for steel management and labor went back to the bargaining table today after a three-day weekend, ready to try again to reach agreement before a strike deadline only eight days away.

Both sides were asked if the weekend of rest had produced any new ideas to bring to the talks.

R. Conrad Cooper, top industry negotiator, replied, "We'll see" and shrugged his shoulders. Union head David J. McDonald merely explained that his weekend was interrupted three times to make television appearances. He did not comment further.

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell said yesterday that he believed there was a "good possibility" of agreement before the extension of the current contract expires July 14.

Mitchell, who was interviewed in Washington on a radio program, said he saw a "heart-warming sign" in the quick response of the industry and union to President Eisenhower's plea to keep the negotiations going beyond the original June 30 contract expiration date.

The companies and the United Steelworkers of America agreed to extend the contract until July 14. Before the contract was extended, a strike on July 1 had been set.

Scattered wildcat strikes followed the contract expiration last week. They were mostly at Ohio and Pennsylvania steel mills and among Great Lakes ore boat crewmen who are members of the Steelworkers Union.

MAN, 49, KEPT CONFINED BY PARENTS FOR 17 YEARS

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 6 (UPI)—Fort Worth health authorities today planned court action to free a 49-year-old man from an outbuilding where his parents confined him for 17 years because he "used to run off and ride streetcars."

Two city patrolmen making a routine call on the near southeast side found the man yesterday. They said he apparently had not seen daylight during his long confinement behind his parents' home.

Police said neighbors told them about the "sick boy" in the outbuilding. They said the man became troubled when his 20-year-old wife left him. Police then checked with the man's relatives who told them he was kept under lock and key after he had been in two mental institutions.

Falls on Coffee Cup, Dies.

COLLINSVILLE, Okla., July 6 (AP)—Teddy Ray York, 15-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond York, died yesterday when he fell from his bed onto a coffee cup. A jagged edge of the cup severed the infant's jugular vein.

BRITAIN FACES SUSPENSION OF NEWSPAPERS THIS WEEK

LONDON, July 6 (UPI)—Britain's national newspapers appeared again today but were expected to be forced to suspend before the end of the week.

The London papers are not directly affected by either of two strikes which have closed most magazines, provincial newspapers and printing shops. But a walkout of ink workers in support of printers has cut off their supply. The papers are pooling their ink stocks but they will last even with limited size only till Wednesday or Thursday at best.

OFFERS PLAN TO ABOLISH, REORGANIZE SUPREME COURT

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—A plan to abolish the present Supreme Court and reorganize it as a 17-man tribunal of state judges was introduced today by Representative Overton Brooks (Dem.), Louisiana.

The proposal was in the form of a constitutional amendment. To go into effect, it would have to be approved by a two-thirds vote in the House and Senate and by three-fourths of the states.

The resolution would abolish the high court within a year of adoption of the proposed amendment. Congress then would establish judicial districts of contiguous states.

Brooks said the reorganized court would be formed of justices selected from the highest appellate court of each district. Each would serve a three-year term, and justices would be selected in turn from each state in the district.

MUNICIPAL WORKERS PICKET NORWICH (CONN.) CITY HALL

NORWICH, Conn., July 6 (AP)—Striking municipal employes today set up a picket line outside City Hall in their demand for higher pay, but refrained from interfering with the city's 300th birthday celebration.

The 78 striking members of Local 14164, United Mine Workers, agreed to let the seven-day tercentenary celebration get under way without interference from picket lines. They also promised not to picket the big 300th anniversary celebration ball tonight, a highlight of the week-long program. Gov. Abraham Ribicoff and his wife are due to attend the ball.

The chief issue is a demand for a 15 per cent across-the-board wage increase for the municipal employes who now receive pay ranging from $1.41 to $2.25 an hour.

6 KILLED AS AUTOS COLLIDE IN FOG IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS

METROPOLIS, Ill., July 6 (AP)—Two cars collided on a fog-covered highway early today, killing six persons.

State policeman Oren Souders said the driver of one car was Earl U. Jetton, 26 years old, Chicago. He and his son, Dale, were killed.

Four of the dead were burned beyond recognition. They were riding in a car with license plates issued in Lee county Mississippi, Souders said. Mississipp' authorities are checking the plates.

The crash occurred on Highway 145 about 10 miles northeast of Metropolis in Massac county. Souders said it appeared that the car from Mississippi exploded.

CROSSES ATLANTIC ALONE IN SLOOP; AT SEA 85 DAYS

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Christopher Grabowski, a Polish air force veteran now a Tunisian citizen, completed yesterday a stormy crossing of the Atlantic alone in a 25-foot sailing boat.

After 85 days at sea, Grabowski quietly docked his sloop, "Tethys"—the name means a female sea titan—at the Coast Guard quarantine station on Staten Island about noon. He had provisions left for only five more days.

Grabowski, 37 years old, who made documentary films for the United States information agency in Tunisia, said he wants to become an American citizen. He sailed from Tangier, Morocco, April 12.

PRESCOTT, Ariz., July 6 (AP)—A birthday celebration ended in the death of six persons when a private plane crashed into lofty Mingus mountain, about 20 miles northeast of this northern Arizona city. Four were children.

The dead were Russell M. Potts, 33 years old, pilot and general manager of Marsh Aviation in Phoenix; Mrs. Atlie Coats, 24, of Blythe, Calif., and her son, Woody, 3; and Tommy, 16, Jerry, 11, and Patrick, 8, all sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Daniels of Prescott.

The party, celebrating Patrick's eighth birthday, had just finished water-skiing and all were wearing bathing suits. The plane took off Saturday evening but was not found until yesterday.

GERMANY TAKES OVER ECONOMIC CONTROL OF SAAR

SAARBRUECKEN, Germany, July 6 (AP)—The industrial Saar basin, long an international bone of contention, returned from French to German economic control today.

The Bonn republic thus moved into the uncontested No. 1 position among Western Europe's industrial powers.

The final settlement of one of Western Europe's big postwar problems came at midnight and ended a complicated 30-month process reuniting the territory with Germany.

The Saar has been a disputed pawn between France and Germany since the days of French King Louis XIV. France occupied it after both world wars. Each time the German-speaking population voted to return to Germany.

The Saar's political return was on Jan. 1, 1957, under a Bonn-Paris agreement when it became West Germany's tenth state.

The difficult economic transformation was to have been spread over a three-year period. Because of French-German cooperation it came six months early.

The day had been kept secret until Saturday noon at French request to forestall currency speculation.

The Saar will remain closely attached to French industries. France needs Saar coal for its iron and steel mills in Lorraine and the Saar needs Lorraine iron ore for its steel mills.

BENSON FOR WHITE HOUSE MEETING ON FARM BILLS

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, returning today from a 10-day European tour, said he would favor a White House conference on farm legislation "if there is any possibility of accomplishing anything."

The proposal to bring major farm organizations together came last week from Representative Charles B. Hoeven (Rep.), Iowa. The farm groups are sharply devided on proposals to deal with farm surplus problems.

Benson, in an airport interview, did not appear hopeful that much could be accomplished at such a conference. But he said he was still "very hopeful" Congress would pass legislation this year on wheat, tobacco and peanuts.

'Copter Rescues Ailing Woman.

PRESTWICK, Scotland, July 6 (UPI)—A United States Air Force helicopter today rescued a dangerously ill woman from an island off the coast of Scotland. She was identified as Mrs. Anne McNeil, suffering from double pneumonia.

CONGRESS URGED TO DELAY SCHOOL FOR DIPLOMATS

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The State Department today asked Congress to postpone action on bills to establish a Foreign Service Academy to train future diplomats.

Loy W. Henderson, Deputy Under Secretary of State, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he felt such an academy "would not be in the best interests of the country or the Foreign Service at this time."

Henderson testified after Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, urged approval of his own bill to set up such an academy for the instruction and training of foreign representatives of the United States Government.

Henderson said the State Department did not advocate outright rejection of Symington's or other proposals, but wanted time to gain "more experience with training facilities" already available, such as its Foreign Service Institute.

He said that through the armed services academies, private educational institutions and the use of the Foreign Service Institute "the qualifications of our officers are being raised each year."

American's Body Found in Alps.

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, July 6 (AP)—The body of Fred Harless, 22-year-old Mormon missionary who disappeared in the Alps on June 26 has been found. Mr. Harless, of Phoenix, Ariz., was the son of former Arizona Congressman Dick Harless.

STATE DEPARTMENT PLANS $37,000,000 AID TO BURMA

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—The State Department announced plans today to give Burma up to $37,000,000 on economic aid over the next four years if Congress approves the funds.

The money would be used for two major development projects—a modern highway linking Rangoon to central Burma, and modern dormitories and classrooms at the University of Rangoon.

Officials said Burma asked for the grant last April. This reversed a six-year-old decision in which Burma had asked the United States to suspend all grant aid. United States aid to Burma from 1950 to 1953 totaled $19,200,000.

YEMEN CHARGES AIR RAID, GROUND ATTACK BY BRITISH

CAIRO, July 6 (AP)—A Yeminite spokesman charged yesterday British planes bombed Yemen territory in the area of Albeida, in the southeastern part of the country.

The Yemenite representative, Hassan Ibrahim, also charged British forces attacked the Halmin area and fought a two-hour battle with a Yemenite tribe there. He claimed the British withdrew after the battle.

Britain denied the Yemeni charges. The British have treaties of protection with small sheikdoms south of Yemen. The rulers of Yemen claim these protectorates as part of Yemen.

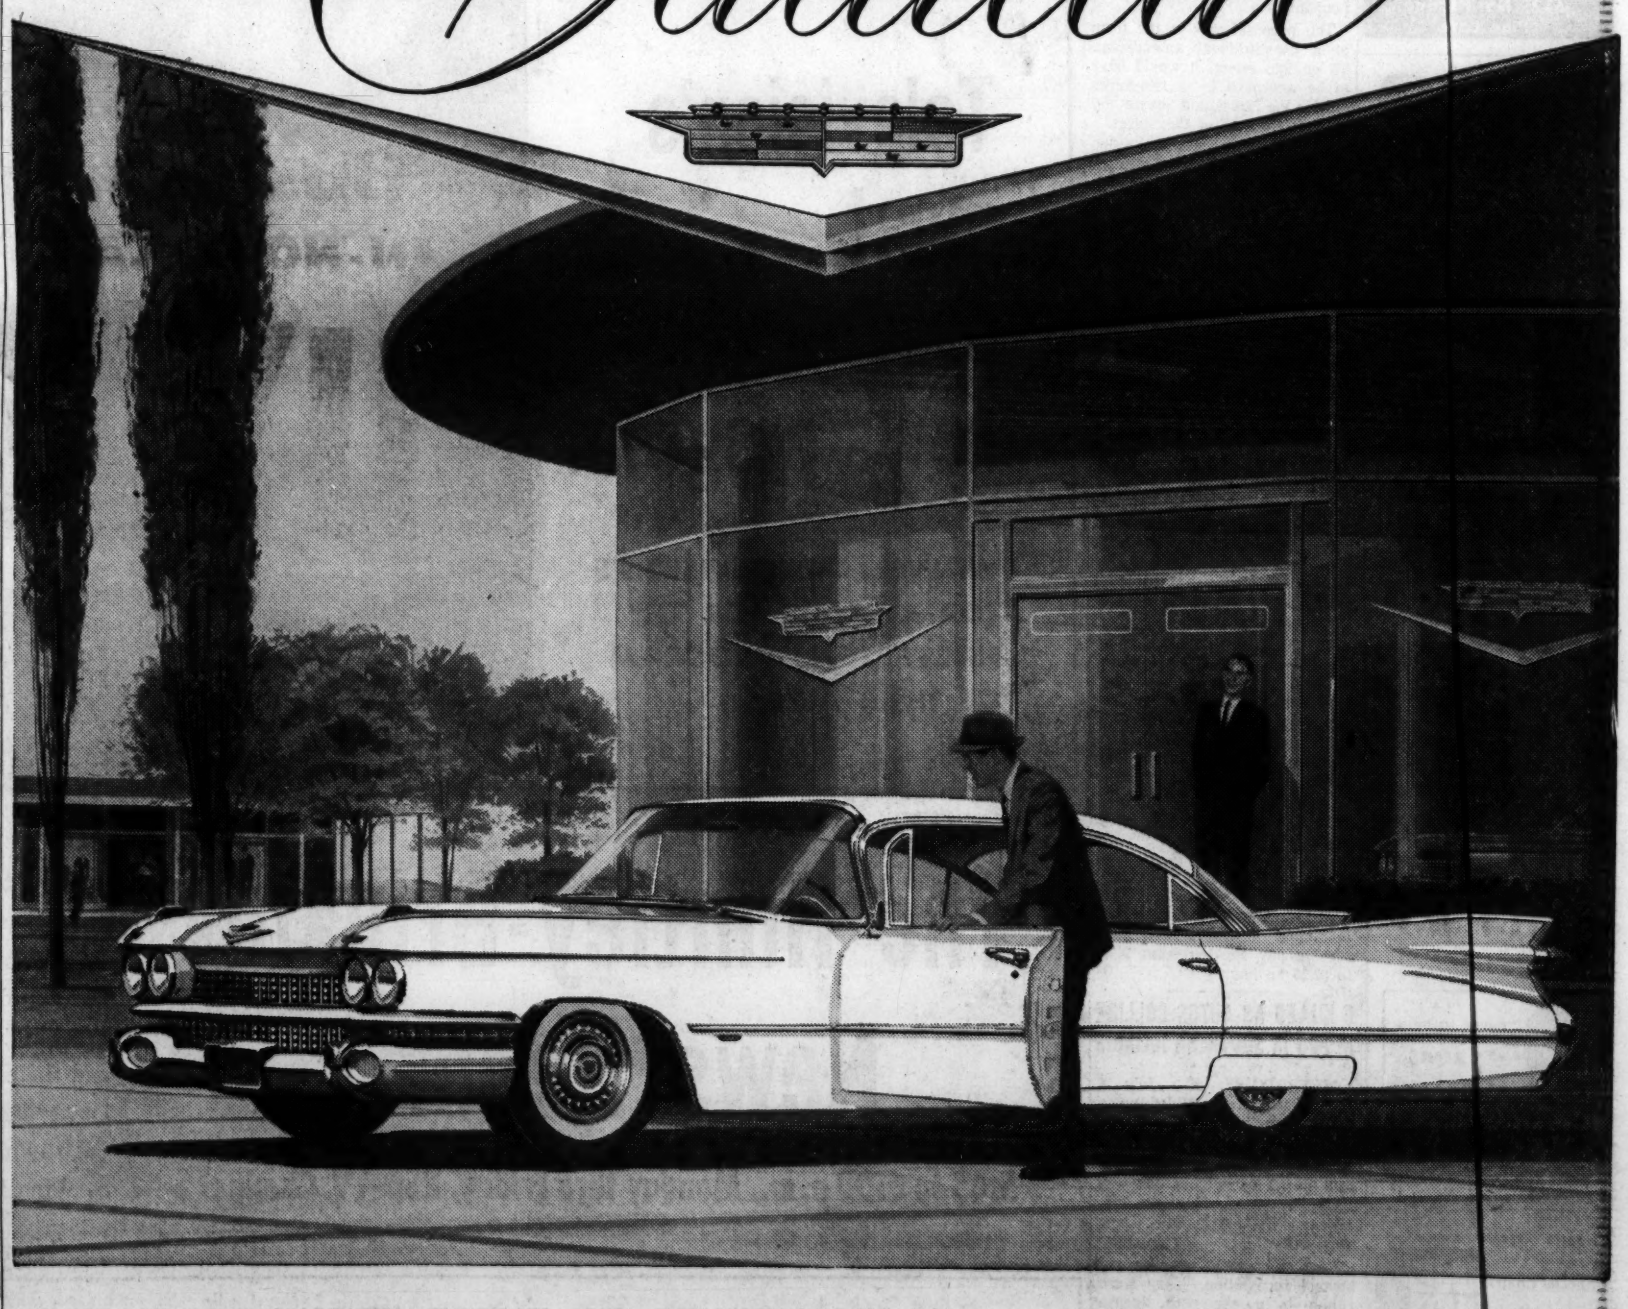
Cadillac



Hoped for the Best... and Got It!

Just a short time ago, he walked into his dealer's showroom—with his hopes high—to see if the time had come for his first Cadillac.

Well—his fondest hopes were realized—and here he is today with the car of his dreams.

What were the facts about Cadillac that made this happy and memorable moment possible? Let us count them off.

First of all, the original cost of a new Cadillac is remarkably modest—so much so, in fact, that many models are actually priced competitively with other American motor cars.

And when you consider the fact that Cadillac's initial price includes so many important and basic features that cost extra with other makes—Cadillac then becomes the price rival of cars of far less stature.

There is also Cadillac's extraordinary economy of ownership. Mile after mile and year after year, the car is amazingly frugal with gasoline and truly marvelous in its dependability.

And then there is the way a Cadillac protects its owner's investment. For such is the demand for Cadillac that the car always returns an exceptionally high percentage of its original cost at the time of resale.

Those are the facts—and the conclusion, we feel, is obvious: if you are considering a motor car—even in the medium price field—you owe yourself a visit to your Cadillac dealer's showroom before you make your decision.

He'll be waiting for you—with the most surprising economy story of the year!

POWDER PUFF DERBY IS OVER FOR 4 PLANES

SPOKANE, Wash., July 6 (AP) —Three more planes crossed the finish line today, bringing to four the number that have hit the tape in the transcontinental Powder Puff Derby.

Arriving this morning were: Louise May Zenek, Tarzana, Calif., pilot, and her co-pilot, Audrey M. Schutte, Canoga Park, Calif; Pilot Marian Schorr Betzler and co-pilot Kathleen Wood, Columbus, O., and Pilot Ruth Nitzen, Pales Verdes Estates, Calif., and co-pilot Carol Kennedy, San Andreas, Calif.

Mrs. Margaret Ringenberg of Grabill, Ind., and her sister-in-law co-pilot, Mrs. Lola Laymon of Fort Wayne, Ind., landed yesterday morning.

A total of 32 planes made it to Chicago yesterday, 12 to Rochester, Minn.; eight to Kokomo, Ind.; six to North Dakota and three to Helena, Mont.

Two contestants are from the St. Louis area. They are Mrs. Mickey Clark, 1 Lake James court, Florissant, Mo., and her co-pilot, Mrs. Olive (Golly) Miner, 2041 Briargate lane, Kirkwood, Mo.

Contestants have until Wednesday noon to arrive here. The winner will be announced Thursday. Placings are figured on a handicap which takes into account elapsed flying time and capabilities of each plane. No night flying is permitted.

INDONESIA PRESS CLEANUP

JAKARTA, July 6 (AP)—Indonesian newspapers were warned yesterday they may lose their permits to publish if they print stories of sex and sadism.

The information ministry said stricter scrutiny will be exercised over newspaper and other periodicals in future. Pictures relating to nudity, kissing, killing, rape and other "immoralties" will be considered objectionable.

HAITI'S NO. 2 LEADER INJURED BY GRENADE

PORT-AU-PRINCE, July 6 (AP) — Jean Magloire, Haiti's minister of interior and national defense, was wounded Saturday night by a grenade.

Magloire, who has been running the country during the illness of President Francois Duvalier, was hit in the back and both legs.

The grenade exploded at 11 p.m. on the roof of the two-story Magloire home in downtown Port-au-Prince. The minister was walking on a wooden balcony when the blast tore a hole in the roof.

Despite his wounds, Magloire said he would attend a military review today marking President Dulavier's return to his duties. The chief of state had been recuperating from a heart attack suffered last May 25.

The attack on Magloire was the latest in a series of bombings for which the government has blamed political foes of Duvalier's regime.

RADIOACTIVE PING-PONG BALL

DEL MAR, Calif., July 6 (AP) — That radioactive ping-pong ball was still missing yesterday, but an Atomic Energy Commission representative told people not to worry.

"It has about as much radioactivity as the dial of a radium wristwatch," said Ray Flowers of the AEC. The ball disappeared Saturday from an AEC exhibit at the southern California exposition and San Diego county fair.

THIRD POLICEMAN KILLED

MOSCOW, July 6 (AP)—The Soviet Trade Union newspaper Trud reported yesterday a third member of one of the voluntary police squads has been stabbed to death trying to stop a brawl in Pervouralsk Sverdlovsk, in the Urals. Two other stabbings of squad members were recently reported, one in Leningrad and the other from Kharkov.

The voluntary police squads were recently formed at the instigation of the cabinet to crack down on drunkenness and other forms of public disorder.

BAR ON NEWSMAN'S TRIP TO CHINA UPHELD

WASHINGTON, July (UPI)—The United States Court of Appeals today upheld the State Department's right to choose the news correspondents it would allow to travel to Communist China.

It did so in ruling, 3 to 0, that the department did not exceed its authority in denying permission to author Waldo Frank to travel in Red China. Frank sought to go to China as a special corespondent for Latin American newspapers, and to lecture at the University of Peiping.

Judge Warren E. Burger said the secretary of state must be allowed "wide latitude" in carrying out foreign policy. He said the "probability that the Communists will try to secure some advantage out of admitting American news reporters to the mainland emphasizes the strictly political nature of the entire problem."

"It is axiomatic that the conduct of foreign affairs necessarily involves flexible measures and policies which can be adjusted to meet changing conditions," Judge Burger wrote.

"Just as Communist China altered its former rigid policy of admitting no American newsmen, this country must be free to alter its policies."

Burger said that the State Department, but certainly not the court, is qualified to say whose presence in China implements its policy.

The State Department had granted permission to 30 correspondents to enter Red China. But the Communist regime subsequently refused to grant visas to all applicants except John Strohm of Newspaper Enterprise Association.

Burger said the department should be allowed to make a distinction between individual reporters and news agencies with a demonstrated interest in foreign news coverage.

3 Dead on Plane.

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, July 6 (AP)—Wreckage of a missing Ellis Airlines plane was spotted yesterday in dense timber 45 miles northwest of here, and a rescue team reported later all three men aboard were killed. The dead were Tom Gaffney, the pilot, and Lee Larson, a fisheries biologist, both of Ketchikan, and George Peterson, a Wrangell logger.

CUBAN OFFICIALS ARRESTED AFTER RIOT IN MIAMI

MIAMI, July 6 (UPI)—Cuban Consul-General Alonso Hidalgo was under arrest today on charges of inciting a riot after pro-Castro Cubans broke up a meeting of 50 Batista followers here. Cuban tourist commissioner Rafael Valdes also was arrested.

Hidalgo was in serious condition in a hospital with head and face injuries suffered in the free-for-all Saturday night. Both Hidalgo and Valdes were released from jail after Havana Mayor Jose Llanusa personally interceded with Miami Mayor Robert King High.

The riot began after occupants of two cars taunted occupants at a house in this city's Cuban section by driving around it and shouting "Long live Russia. Down with Batista."

Thirty minutes later, four carloads of men returned. Hidalgo led them up the steps of the house, where he was attacked. He said he approached the house "to find out what was going on."

GHANA CROWD OBJECTS TO ATOM TEST IN SAHARA

ACCRA, July 6 (AP)—Demonstrators besieged the offices of the French Embassy to Ghana today while their leaders presented a petition protesting a proposed French atom test in the Sahara desert.

The demonstrators, carrying placards, were members of the ruling Convention Peoples party, trade unionists and market women wearing mourning clothes.

In Paris, reliable sources said the French government had rejected a Ghana government protest of July 3 against the proposed tests.

They said the French have taken the position that the projected test area is French territory, that all safety precautions will be taken.

The protest had asked France to "refrain from any action which will bring misery and destruction to the African people."

GRANT FOR STUDY OF HAIR SPRAY'S EFFECT ON LUNGS

The Institute of Experimental Pathology at Jewish Hospital has received a $3000 grant-in-aid from the Tuberculosis and Health Society of St. Louis for studies on possible harmful effects of resins used in hair sprays, it was announced today.

Dr. Herman T. Blumenthal, director of the institute, has been engaged in research for the last two years on effects of resins in hair spray. His associates are Dr. I. J. Flance, director of the Tuberculosis and Health Society, and Dr. Martin Bergmann of Jewish Hospital.

Various resins are being studied, Dr. Blumenthal said, to find out whether they will produce sarcoid lesions in the lungs or lung cancer. Sarcoid is a tuberculous-type disease. Findings may have significance not only in relation to hair spray but to the plastics industry, where workers may need more protection, it was said.

4 DIE IN HOMEMADE BOAT

CORINTH, N.Y., July 6 (AP)—A homemade rowboat carrying two men and six children was swamped yesterday in a mountain lake. The men and two young girls were drowned.

State police said Richard Hustis of Newcomb, swam back and forth to shore pulling his two sons and two other children to safety, but died as he tried to return to the boat for his two daughters. The dead, in addition to Hustis, were Myrtle Hustis, 5 years old; her sister, Jucy, 7; and Jay Dorsett of Corinth.

Play It Cool on a Simmering Summer Day With These Refreshing Foods That Beguile Lagging Appetites

By DOROTHY BRAINERD
Post-Dispatch Food Editor

EVERY OTHER DAY these food pages are filled with new recipes and with information on the principles of cooking approved by such authentic sources as the United States Department of Agriculture, leading universities, and research institutes. But not today. This time we're concerned only with how to help you beat the heat on a simmering summer day.

The pages usually are planned to suggest ways in which foods currently on the "best buys" list in St. Louis markets may be used to best advantage. Today's section was not based upon such sober principles; it's merely composed of bits of miscellany which you might welcome on a July afternoon.

Since long, cool drinks play such an important role, let's start with them. Isn't it refreshing just to look at that picture of a homemaker relaxing with a glass of iced tea? Now there's a beverage with it's own built-in cooling system that really cools you off all the way down and quenches your thirst at the same time.

There's only one secret to making good iced tea. The answer is—measure accurately. Here's a good rule of thumb to follow. Use half again as much tea for iced tea as you do for hot tea to allow for ice dilution. For example, four cups of hot tea require four teabags. Four glasses of iced tea require six teabags.

Here's a good basic recipe to follow to make two quarts (about 10 ice-filled glasses) of iced tea. Bring one quart fresh cold water from the faucet to a boil in a saucepan. Remove from heat and immediately add one-third cup loose tea or 15 teabags. Brew five minutes, uncovered (don't judge the strength by color). Stir and strain into a pitcher holding one quart of cold water.

Cloudiness in iced tea distresses many homemakers. Actually, it does not impair flavor or quality of tea and can be cleared by adding enough boiling water to restore the tea's amber clear color.

There are many pleasant variations on the iced tea theme—the use of spice-flavored or fruit-flavored sugars, or the combination of iced tea with fruit juices to make summertime refreshers such as this one:

Amber Tea Delight: Combine four cups hot tea with one cup sugar, one cup fresh lemon juice and one quart fresh orange juice. Add four 12-ounce cans apricot nectar. Chill. Just before serving, add three quarts ginger ale. Garnish with lemon slices. Yield: 40 to 50 servings.

Iced coffee is another bracing cooler during the hot summer months. One of the very best ways to make iced coffee also is one of the quickest. It simply involves brewing some extra breakfast coffee in the morning, cooling it and freezing it into coffee ice cubes in the refrigerator. When ready to relax with a tall glass of iced coffee brew some fresh hot coffee and pour it into a glass filled with coffee ice cubes. This method, obviously, prevents dilution from melting ice cubes and gives a full-flavored beverage.

If hot coffee is poured over regular ice cubes it is wise to make the coffee extra-strength to avoid a watery brew. Six standard coffee measures (or 12 level measuring tablespoons) of coffee to three measuring cups of water will make a really potent brew for four servings. Pour the hot coffee into tall, ice-filled glasses and serve with sugar sirup (or sugar) and cream.

For a more nourishing version of iced coffee, try this:

Coffee Nectar.

One and one-fourth cups strong cold coffee.
Two scoops coffee ice cream.
Dash of cinnamon.

Put ingredients into an electric drink mixer, cover and whirl to a smooth froth. Divide into two glasses.

"There's nothing like a bowl of hot soup on a cold day" is a familiar expression—and it's just as true in reverse. Truly, there's nothing like a cold soup on a hot day. It's a rather complicated procedure to make an authentic vichyssoise "from scratch," but a very acceptable short-cut version may be made with frozen condensed cream of potato soup.

Vichyssoise.

One can (10¼ ounces) frozen condensed cream of potato soup.
One-half soup can milk.
One-half soup can light cream.

In saucepan heat soup, milk and cream over low heat until soup is completely thawed. Beat until smooth with rotary beater or electric blender. Chill in refrigerator for at least four hours, and serve in well-chilled bowls.

If desired, stir in a dash of nutmeg, thyme or tabasco. Serve topped with chopped chives.

Another good cold soup is this one made with condensed cream of chicken soup.

Summer Soup.

One can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of chicken soup.
One soup can milk.
One-fourth cup chopped cucumber.
One teaspoon chopped fresh dill.
One teaspoon chopped green onion.

In bowl combine soup, milk, cucumber, dill and green onion. Place in refrigerator for at least four hours. Serve in chilled bowls.

Fruit salads are as refreshing as a seaside breeze on a sizzling day. Give your imagination free rein in preparing both the salads and the dressings. From Florida comes this recipe for a fruit salad dressing made with undiluted frozen concentrated orange or grapefruit juice combined with mayonnaise and spices. Ginger, mace, nutmeg, allspice and mint are all delightful flavor additions.

Citrus Florida Fruit Salad Dressing.

One-half (six-ounce can) frozen concentrated orange juice or grapefruit juice.
Three-fourths cup mayonnaise.
One-fourth teaspoon mace.
One-fourth teaspoon ginger.

Blend together undiluted thawed concentrate with mayonnaise. Stir in spices. Serve with citrus fruit salad.

Yield: One and one-half cups.

Note: If desired, three-fourths teaspoon allspice or cloves, one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon or one teaspoon dried or finely chopped fresh mint may be substituted for mace and ginger.

Let Dad try his hand at making this salad—he'll call it his specialty from here on. The combination of shrimp and fresh orange pieces is picturesque with its bright orange and pink coloring; it's tangy from the rich sour cream and fresh lemon juice dressing.

This is a salad "combo" that is popular out in California, where salads are treated with great respect.

California Seafood Salad.

Three cups orange pieces.
Three cups cooked seafood (shrimp, crabmeat, tuna or lobster).
Three pints shredded lettuce.

Combine orange pieces and seafood. Serve on bed of shredded lettuce. Pour enough Sour Cream Dressing over to coat thoroughly.

Sour Cream Dressing.

One cup commercial sour cream.
Three tablespoons fresh lemon juice.
One-half cup salad oil.
One and one-half tablespoons prepared horseradish.
One and one-half teaspoons salt.
One teaspoon dry mustard.
One teaspoon whole dill seed.
One-fourth teaspoon black pepper.
One-fourth cup minced onion.

Combine all ingredients, blending well. Allow to stand in refrigerator for several hours for flavors to blend.

Yield: Two cups dressing. Six to eight servings salad.

Ice cream combined with fruits of the season — there's a dessert to give one a lift on the warmest day.

Old-fashioned peach ice cream is nostalgic as a family album; it's shown here in a modern frame in three combinations to beguile summer appetites.

Lower left is an Old Fashioned Peach float served in a champagne glass. To make it, place a peach half (either fresh or canned) in the bottom of the glass. Add one or two generous scoops of peach ice cream. Add ginger ale (or champagne); garnish with whole ripe berries. It's a dessert that's bubbly, lovely to look at, and delicious to taste.

Directly above the float is Peach Romanoff. To make this distinguished dessert fold one-half cup of sweetened whipped cream into a pint of softened peach ice cream; serve as sauce over brandied peaches.

Right frame in the picture shows a Peach Melba Parfait, patterned after the classic Melba sundae. In a parfait glass place a spoonful of fresh crushed or frozen strawberries or raspberries, then alternate layers of peach ice cream with berries; top with a fresh berry or maraschino cherry.

Colorful Fruit Luncheon Salad

Bright fruits with a creamy wine-flavored dressing make a pretty luncheon salad.

Dip banana quarters in fresh lime or lemon juice and roll in coconut flakes. Drain chilled, canned cling peach halves and fill centers with dark, juicy Bing cherries.

Alternate slices of fresh or canned pineapple and pale-green avocado. Stuff several fresh dates with pecans.

Use a large serving plate, garnish with lettuce and group fruits attractively around a bowl of dressing, made by blending three-ounce package cream cheese with one-fourth cup each crumbled Roquefort cheese, salad oil, sherry wine, and two tablespoons fresh lemon juice.

Season to taste with Worcestershire, salt and pepper, and beat mixture until smooth.

Ice Cream Challenges Talents

If there is one food that is a challenge to latent creative talents, it's ice cream. There are so many ways it can be dressed up, and it is so much fun to concoct the luscious treats.

With home freezers in such wide use, several flavors of ice cream are usually on hand. Stock up on canned fruits or sauces, make full use of the fresh fruits of the season, and with no difficulty at all you can rival the most talented soda fountain expert.

Do remember that ice cream is a perishable food, and to maintain its quality during storage it is important to keep it frozen and exclude the air. Smooth off the surface of the ice cream as it is used, and press foil over the exposed areas.

It is a smart trick to date ice cream cartons as they are placed in the freezer to guard against

Tangy Lemon Cheese Cake

This tangy lemon cheese cake requires no cooking; it is made with a pudding mix and frosted with sour cream.

Delicate, delicious and different is this cheese cake made with lemon instant pudding. Just blend and beat the mixture; no cooking is necessary.

The name "Tangy Lemon Cheese Cake" is based upon the lemon flavor in the pudding mix, plus the additional lemon rind. It is made in a square pan and, when set, frosted with sour cream for extra goodness.

The next time you entertain your card club serve this new cheese cake, and see if it isn't a prize winner.

Tangy Lemon Cheese Cake.

One cup graham cracker crumbs (about 18 crackers, crushed).

Two tablespoons confectioners' sugar.

Four tablespoons melted butter or margarine.

One package (eight ounces) cream cheese.

Two cups milk.

One package lemon instant pudding mix.

One-fourth teaspoon lemon rind.

Combine crumbs, sugar and melted butter; mix well. Press one-half of mixture into an eight by eight by two-inch pan.

Place cream cheese in a bowl and stir with a fork until well softened. Add one-half cup of the milk, a little at a time, blending until mixture is very smooth. Then add remaining one and one-half cups milk, pudding mix and lemon rind. Beat with egg beater just until well mixed, about one minute. Pour over crumbs. Top with sour cream and remaining crumb mixture. Chill until set.

Yield: Eight servings.

Luncheon or Supper Dish

Here is an unusual main dish for luncheon or Sunday supper. Pineapple rings are topped with tuna, then with a cheese puff mixture and baked for 10 minutes.

Looking for an unusual recipe for a main dish for luncheon or a light supper? Here it is—pineapple rings topped with tuna and a cheese mixture.

Pineapple Tuna Cheese Puffs.

One cup sifted flour.

Three-fourths teaspoon baking powder.

One-half cup butter (one stick) softened.

One-half pound sharp Cheddar cheese, grated.

One teaspoon worcestershire sauce.

One tablespoon grated onion.

Dash of cayenne pepper.

Eight large pineapple slices (No. 2½ can).

One seven-ounce can flaked tuna.

Eight large pimiento olives.

Sift flour and baking powder into mixing bowl in which butter, cheese, worcestershire sauce, onion and pepper have been mixed. Blend all together thoroughly. Form ball and refrigerate at least one-half hour.

When ready to bake, lay pineapple slices on cookie sheet. Drain tuna and arrange over pineapple slices.

Divide chilled cheese mixture into eight parts. Flatten each portion into a circle about the size of the pineapple. Push the olive half-way through the center of the cheese circle. Place on pineapple, bringing edge of cheese circle down to meet outer edge of pineapple ring.

Bake in preheated 450 degree oven for 10 minutes. Serve immediately.

Fruit Pie Glaze

Homemade fruit pies are a happy part of summertime. To make them even more attractive, brush the top pastry with undiluted evaporated milk, then sprinkle lightly with granulated sugar. The pie will emerge from the oven glistening prettily with a light shiny glaze.

Coolers for Warm Days

Milk, fruit juice concentrate and sherbet combine to make these frosty floats which are so welcome on a summer's day.

What is more delightful on a summer day than a frosty float? Milk provides the creamy smooth base for these nourishing coolers; scoops of sherbet add flavor and color contrast to the thirst quenchers.

Many fruit flavors blend well with milk; frozen fruit juice concentrates make these beverages easy to prepare and give pure fruit flavor without diluting the milk. A complementary flavor of sherbet may be chosen for the topper.

Three suggestions: Fruit puncch-flavored milk, topped with raspberry sherbet; pineapple sherbet afloat on pineapple-flavored milk; orange-flavored milk topped with orange or lemon sherbet.

Frosty Fruit Punch Float.

One six-ounce can frozen fruit punch concentrate, thawed.
One quart milk.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One pint raspberry sherbet.
Combine fruit punch concentrate, milk and salt and mix well, using rotary beater or blender. Pour into tall glasses. Top with scoops of raspberry sherbet.
Yield. Six servings.

Pineapple Mint Float.

Two quarts milk.
One six-ounce can frozen pineapple juice concentrate, thawed.
One-fourth teaspoon salt.
One-half teaspoon almond extract (optional).
Green food coloring.
One quart pineapple sherbet.
Mint sprigs.
Combine milk, pineapple juice concentrate, salt, almond flavoring and green coloring and mix well. Pour into tall glasses and top with sherbet. Garnish with mint sprigs.
Yield: Six servings.

Honey Orange Punch.

Five cups chilled milk.
One-half cup honey.
One can frozen orange juice concentrate, thawed.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
One pint orange or lemon sherbet.
Combine milk, honey, orange juice concentrate and salt and blend well. Pour into tall, chilled glasses. Top with scoops of sherbet.
Yield: Six servings.

Golden Gate Cooler Served Interesting Way

Here's a smart idea for serving long, cool drinks at a picnic or on the patio. Paint a muffin tray with two-inch depressions white or any other color that complements the color scheme of the patio. Stand paper cold drink cups in the recesses. (If you are artistically inclined, decorate the tray with rose buds or butterflies).

Punch should be ice cold and the pitcher kept filled. Here's an interesting recipe.

Golden Gate Cooler.

Two cups pineapple juice.
One-fourth cup lemon or lime juice.
Two-thirds cup orange juice.
Two tablespoons genadine.
Cherries and sliced lemons.
Combine all ingredients; chill. Serve with ice cubes in gay paper cold drink cups. Top each cup with a slice of lemon which has one-half cherry speared to it with a toothpick.

Shrimp-Stuffed Celery

Fill crisp celery stalks generously with a combination of softened cream cheese mixed with cooked diced shrimp or anchovies, wedges of ripe olives and some snipped chives.

Many-Fruited Beverage

One of the many pleasant things about summer is entertaining on the porch or patio. This calls for something cold to drink, so better keep a supply of ginger ale and other sparkling carbonated beverages in the refrigerator to insure quickly-made drinks in the weeks to come.

These beverages blend with fresh, canned and frozen fruits and juices to make delicious refreshers.

Here is one recipe with which to start your "Summer Drinks" recipe file:

Many-Fruited Beverage.

One can (one pound) drained cocktail fruit.
One-half cup heavy cream.
One-eighth teaspoon cinnamon.
One 28-oz. bottle pale dry ginger ale.
Put contents of can through food mill or sieve, or blend in an electric blender. Add cinnamon and heavy cream.
Divide among six tall glasses. Fill each glass with ice cold ginger ale. Stir gently to mix.

Pound Cake Crunch

Here's a nice trick for a quick dessert. Whip one cup of cold whipping cream until barely stiff. Fold in ¼-cup crushed peanut brittle, a dash of salt, and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Cut a packaged pound cake into medium-thick slices and spoon whipped cream mixture on each slice. Sprinkle crushed peanut brittle on top of each portion and serve.

Chicken Espagnole A Quickie Recipe

Have some cooked chicken on hand? Just open a few cans —one of mushrooms, two of Spanish rice — combine, and preparations are completed for this chicken dish with a Spanish accent.

Chicken Espangnole.

Two cans (15-ounce) Spanish rice.
Salt and pepper to taste.
One-half teaspoon monosodium glutamate.
One can (three-ounce) mushrooms.
One pound cooked chicken, cut in six serving pieces.
Turn Spanish rice into two-quart casserole. Season with salt and pepper if desired; stir in monosodium glutamate.
Add mushrooms (and mushroom liquid, if rice seems dry).
Place chicken on top of rice.
Cover; bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees) 25 to 30 minutes or until heated through.
Yield: six servings.

Ice Cream

overlong storage: 30 days for the freezer, within a week for the ice cube section of the refrigerator. For the latter, put cream into ice cube tray, cover with foil, and lower temperature to keep frozen.

For the specialties shown above, toppings and complementary garnishes include strawberries, raspberries, bananas, shredded coconut, melons and pineapple.

In the foreground are three small square dishes holding banana splits, home style. Small scoops of vanilla, chocolate and strawberry ice cream are the foundation. Far right, chocolate sauce, whipped cream and chopped nuts are added to the fingers of ripe banana. In the center fresh raspberry sauce and whipped cream do the honors. At the left, the square dish has a sauce of crushed pineapple and a peach half.

The soda glass, front left, contains chocolate sauce with vanilla ice cream then a layer of raspberry sauce, more vanilla ice cream, whipped cream and a maraschino cherry.

These are only suggestions; do try your hand at new combinations and discover the fun of a smorgasbord of ice cream treats.

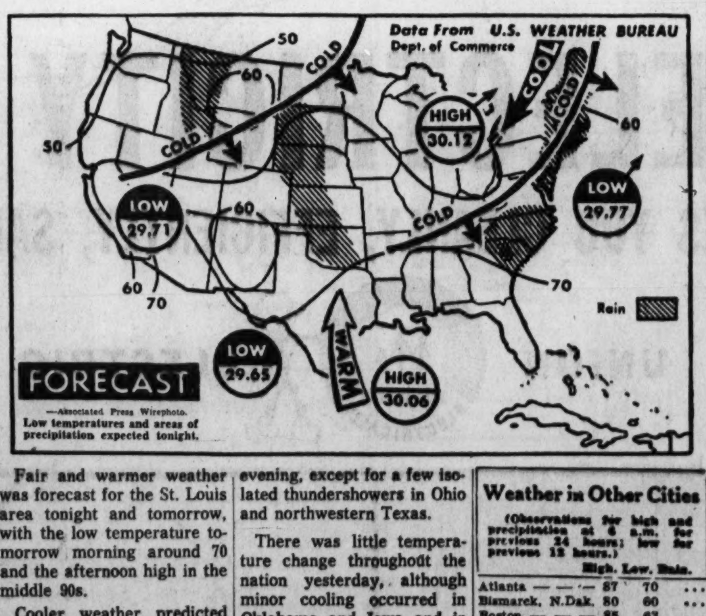
Fair and Warmer



—Associated Press Wirephoto.
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Fair and warmer weather was forecast for the St. Louis area tonight and tomorrow, with the low temperature tomorrow morning around 70 and the afternoon high in the middle 90s.

Cooler weather predicted for Missouri and Illinois yesterday lingered just long enough to clear the skies of clouds and showers. Temperatures climbed into the 80s and lower 90s, with St. Louis leading in both states with a reading of 92.

Light showers fell yesterday in the Pacific Northwest, much of the Ohio valley and in widely scattered sections of the lower Mississippi valley, the southern Plains and southern Kansas. Most of the rain had subsided by evening, except for a few isolated thundershowers in Ohio and northwestern Texas.

There was little temperature change throughout the nation yesterday, although minor cooling occurred in Oklahoma and Iowa and in the Pacific Northwest. A 17-degree drop was reported along the southern shores of Lake Superior.

Highest temperature in the nation yesterday was 111 degrees, recorded at Imperial and Needles, Calif. Lowest reading was 27 at Big Piney, Wyo.

Scattered showers are expected tonight in the north and middle Atlantic states.

Cooling degree days in the St. Louis area yesterday, 16; the month, 53; the season, 737.

DEFENSE RIVALRIES HIT BY SYMINGTON

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI) —Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, said yesterday that the Administration has done "practically nothing" to carry out the Pentagon reorganization law passed by Congress last year.

Symington, Air Force Secretary in the Truman Administration, charged that failure to crack down on interservice rivalries was costing the taxpayers "unbelievable amounts of money." He said 85 cents of every tax dollar goes to pay for past or possible future wars and 60 cents of that is for current military appropriations.

Symington made the statement in a radio-TV interview with Pennsylvania Senators Hugh Scott (Rep.) and Joseph S. Clark (Dem.).

"We are wasting tens of millions of dollars a week because we haven't got the ability or the courage or both to put a stop to these services each trying to put itself in a position where it can fight any possible new war by itself," he said.

"We let each service go along merrily in a new missile field and do really nothing to prevent this tremendous service rivalry which is now in the papers almost every week," Symington said.

Symington mentioned the Defense Reorganization Act, passed with strong Administration support, after Scott suggested that Democrats in Congress should be able to act instead of talk in view of their heavy majorities in Congress.

Commenting on what has been done under the law by what he called "the maladministration of the Department of Defense," Symington said, "The record will show that practically nothing has been done to implement that law."

Deep Differences in Viewpoint Among Supreme Court Justices Reflected in Recent Decisions

Review of Cases in Term Just Ended Shows Chief Justice Warren and Douglas Consistently Aligned With Black in Dissent.

By ANTHONY LEWIS

WASHINGTON, July 6.

THE Supreme Court term that ended last week was one of subsiding controversy without but sharpening conflict within. The Congressional and other criticism directed so heavily at the court in recent years dropped off noticeably. A major reason, evidently, was that the critics were pleased and reassured by what the court said—and did not say—this term.

But the deep differences in viewpoint among the justices themselves were displayed even more starkly than in the past.

Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice William O. Douglas were consistently with Justice Black in dissent, and Justice William J. Brennan Jr. frequently so.

On the other side, as a generality, were Justices Felix Frankfurter, Tom C. Clark, John Marshall Harlan, Charles Evans Whittake. and the member new this term, Potter Stewart.

Of course, the pattern was not always the same, and it was as hazardous as ever to characterize results as "liberal" or "conservative." But there plainly was a core of belief on each side of the court, a common approach.

Thus, despite violent clashes over the powers of legislative investigating committees, the Justices had no trouble agreeing that the investigators had to have fair procedures. They maintained their remarkable unanimity on the racial issue.

The decision which probably had the most sweeping effect of any in the term—the one upsetting the Government's industrial security program—drew only one dissent. But here again the focus was on procedure.

Frequently, then, the court was willing to tell Government, "You can't do it this way; you must use a fairer method." But a majority was unwilling to put up absolute substantive barriers against Government action by saying, "You can't do it at all."

Some thought the court was retreating from recent controversial decisions. Without arguing that matter, it can be said that the dominant mood of the 1958-59 Supreme Court term was one of restraint.

Descriptions of the major decisions follow:

FEDERALISM

Often in the last few years the court has been under attack for assertedly limiting "states' rights." But in three sets of cases this term the court paid great deference to state power—so great, in fact, that even some of the spokesmen for "states' rights" seemed distressed.

In two cases the court held that neither the constitutional prohibition against double jeopardy nor the guarantee of due process prevented the federal and state government from successively prosecuting the same man for the same criminal act.

By a vote of 6 to 3 the court affirmed the federal convictions of two men who had planned a dynamiting despite their prior state conviction for the same act. Justice Black's dissent was joined by Chief Justice Warren and Justice Douglas. (Abbate v. U. S.)

A man who had been acquitted of bank robbery by a federal jury and then convicted of the same robbery in the Illinois courts also lost. This time Justice Brennan joined the dissenters, on the ground that federal officials had inspired the state prosecution to get a "second chance" at the case. (Bartkis v. Illinois.)

Justice Frankfurter wrote for the majority in a decision holding that—notwithstanding the Constitution's bar against "unreasonable searches"—local health officers with evidence of rats in a house need not get a warrant before inspecting it. Justice Douglas's dissent was joined by the Chief Justice and Justices Black and Brennan. (Frank v. Maryland.)

Here again public reaction seemed generally unfavorable. Dale Alford, the segregationist member of Congress from Little Rock who often attacks the court for protecting individuals too much, now denounced it for "destroying the safeguards" of the Constitution.

LEGISLATIVE INVESTIGATIONS

The division among the Justices was nowhere more acutely displayed than in decisions upholding the power of the House Un-American Activities Committee to question a former Vassar instructor about Communism and of New Hampshire's Attorney General to get the guest list of a "world fellowship" summer camp. (Barenblatt v. U.S., Uphaus v. New Hampshire.)

Just two years ago, in the case of John T. Watkins, the court had seemed to put narrow limits on the House committee. But its real holding was only that the committee had to explain to the witness the pertinence of its questions.

This procedural rule had been met in the new case, Justice Harlan said for the majority. And the threat of Communism and the necessary breadth of congressional investigations outbalanced any injury to the teacher's First Amendment rights to free speech and association.

The court was unanimous, however, in upsetting a congressional contempt conviction when it found that the witness had not been told clearly when he was expected to comply with a subpena. (Flaxer v. U.S.)

LOYALTY-SECURITY

In one of the underestimated cases of the term, the court held unanimously that the Interior Department had violated its own regulations when it dismissed a Pacific trust territory teacher on security grounds in 1954. (Vitarelli v. Seaton.)

The case had more importance than immediately recognized because the court read the regulations so strictly. It said they assured employes relevant hearings and the right to cross-examine any non-secret witnesses—rights that have been lacking in many security cases.

RACE RELATIONS

Before the official beginning of the term last October, the court met in special session to consider the Little Rock school situation.

The result was a strong opinion, signed by all nine Justices, reaffirming the decision that public school segregation is unconstitutional and making plain that court orders will not be abandoned because of violent local resistant. (Cooper vs. Aaron.)

But the court again indicated that desegregation may be a gradual process when it upheld the Alabama pupil placement law without dissent. (Shuttlesworth vs. Birmingham.)

FREE SPEECH

The difficulties of balancing the desirability of speech against other interest were indicated by several cases decided the final day of the term.

The court held, 5-to-4, that a broadcasting station forced to give a candidate equal time could not be sued for anything he says. (Farmers Union vs. Day.)

The majority, through Justice Black, emphasized the need to encourage political speech. Justice Frankfurter, dissenting Justices Harlan, Whittaker and Stewart, thought ordinary state libel laws should prevail in the absence of a clear congressional immunity mandate.

A Hawaiian lawyer who made a speech saying that "horrible and shocking" things were happening at a pending Smith Act trial in which she was counsel won a reversal of her suspension from practice for a year. (In re Sawyer.)

All nine members of the court agreed that the movie "Lady Chatterley's Lover" had been unconstitutionally banned by New York. But the Justices could not agree on why, and they took six opinions to say so.

The prevailing opinion, by Justice Stewart, struck down a portion of the New York censorship law that bans movies approving of immoral conduct—adultery in this case. Justice Stewart said the free speech guarantee included the right to advocate immorality.

CRIMINAL LAW.

The so-called Jencks Act, passed by Congress in 1957 to limit the court's decision in the case of Clinton E. Jencks, was upheld in broad terms by five members of the court. Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Douglas and Brennan reserved their views but indicated strong doubts about the statute. (Pelermo v. U. S.)

In the Jencks case the court said that counsels for defense were entitled to see, at trial, pretrial statements by Government witnesses. These could be checked against the witnesses' testimony and any inconsistencies explored in cross-examination.

Congress said that no statements need be produced except those written or approved by the witnesses or substantially verbatim recordings of his oral remarks to a Government agent. Trial judges were directed to excise from any document material unrelated to the witness's trial testimony.

The same four dissented from the court's holding that the Jencks principle did not apply to grand jury minutes. The majority said the defense could not automatically get any witness's grand jury testimony, which related to what he had said at trial. (Pittsburgh Plate Glass v. U. S.).

The court held, 6 to 2, that June 10, 1949, was a "time of peace" within a statute providing civil trials rather than courts-

Asserts Russia Concealed Vast Manpower Weakness After War

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
© New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 6.

AN AUTHORITATIVE PUBLICATION said yesterday that Russia had concealed from the world in the postwar years a manpower weakness so serious that knowledge of the truth might have changed the course of history.

The Soviet Union's male losses in World War II, from all causes, was not 3,000,000, as first estimated, nor 7,000,000, as the West later came to believe, but probably 15,000,000 to 20,000,000, according to experts of the Population Reference Bureau, Inc.

The U.S.S.R., long secretive about its population data, published the preliminary results of a 1959 census in Izvestia last May 10. From these data, demographers have come to astonishing conclusions.

The Population Reference Bureau, Inc., founded in 1929, describes itself as "a nonprofit, scientific, educational organization." It is sponsored by a group of biologists, sociologists and economists and is financed by members, subscribers, individual and corporate contributions and foundation grants.

Bluff and Bluster.

Robert C. Cook, editor of the bureau's publication, Population Bulletin, said in an article that the Soviets had covered the weakness in their bargaining position with bluff and bluster.

"For 10 years after World War II," Cook wrote, "the U.S.S.R. was almost pathologically secretive about population data. She carefully guarded all information and steadily refused to co-operate with the United Nations effort to collect and publish world-wide demographic information.

"The postwar crisis in manpower might be the key to this secretiveness, because the U.S.S.R. certainly was aware that the demographic facts would reveal a serious inherent weakness impairing her bargaining position—a weakness from which she could not quickly recover.

"This might also partly explain Soviet bellicose behavior in postwar years as well as her forceful enslavement of satellite countries such as East Germany and Hungary, which are dubious assets.

Manpower Supplement.

"The satellites create a buffer between the motherland and the West, and they might also represent a supplement to the manpower of the U.S.S.R. in a slave empire, even reluctant workers are better than no workers at all."

Cook noted that not all Russia's losses were caused by enemy action.

"Without diluting the sympathy felt for a wartime ally which suffered enormous military and civilian casualties," he said, "it should be remembered that the Soviets 'liquidated' untold numbers of Russians in forced labor camps during the war, to say nothing of the pre-war purges.

"Now that the census reveals that during the post-war years the U.S.S.R. actually lacked the manpower resources both to rebuild her war-devastated country and to back up a position of military supremacy in Europe, one pertinent question arises:

"How did she accomplish both those objectives?"

Doubts U.S. Knew.

Cook said he doubted the United States intelligence agencies could have had these demographic data. Such information as the Russians possessed had not been published and even they, he said, had not gathered all the facts. Cook thought the United States, at best, could only have had impressions of the gen-

Alford Inquiry Record Kept Under Wraps

Repeated Requests for Transcript Fail to Bring Results.

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1959.)

WASHINGTON.

MEMBERS of the House Elections subcommittee have been hushing up the stenographic transcript of the hearings on the election of Congressman Dale Alford, write-in candidate from Little Rock.

The record of a congressional committee when the hearings are held in public is supposed to be available within a matter of hours, even minutes. The stenographers who take the transcript permit the press to see it immediately.

But not in the case of the write-in friend of Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, who managed to unseat one of the most respected members of Congress, Brooks Hays.

Repeated inquiries for about ten days for permission to look at the transcript brought only repeated runarounds.

Representative Robert Ashmore of South Carolina, who did not want to investigate Alford's election in the first place, referred questions to his clerk, Julian Langstrom.

Langstrom passed it back to other members who, he said, had all the copies. Next day, Langstrom said: "No copies have been returned and there's no way I can get one from a member unless Chairman Ashmore okays it."

Nothing Hidden.

Ashmore, queried again, said: "The hearings have to be corrected. They were public hearings and nothing is being hidden. But they have to be corrected."

Five days later, queried again, Ashmore said: "We're not stalling. We want the transcript completely correct and it takes time to correct. Absolutely no editing. We are not delaying."

Finally, Congressman John Lesinski of Michigan let the cat out of the bag.

"Mr. Alford's attorneys severely cross-examined Congress-

France Asked to Define Demand For Nuclear, Strategic Equality

U.S. Emphasizes Willingness to Continue Talks on Giving Paris More Voice in Western Decisions.

By DANA ADAMS SCHMIDT
© New York Times News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 6.

THE UNITED STATES has asked France to be more precise in its demands to share in tripartite decisions on global strategy and control of nuclear weapons.

Talks among the United States, Britain and France on these questions have stalled, United States oficials said yesterday. The United States is willing to continue them whenever the French define more fully what President de Gaulle had in mind when he raised these issues in his letter last Sept. 24 to President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Macmillan.

A tripartite committee composed of Robert D. Murphy, deputy under secretary of state, Ambassador Herve Alphand of France, and Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia of Britain adjourned several months ago to await French answers to questions raised by the United States.

The United States emphasized in the tripartite talks its basic willingness to consult on strategic nuclear problems. It also emphasized willingness to continue the talks as soon as the French answers were in.

De Gaulle's Main Points.

De Gaulle's main points in his letters to Mr. Eisenhower and Macmillan were that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's scope is geographically limited whereas real strategic problems are global; that the three Western powers should jointly consult and plan global strategy; that France was entitled to participate in decisions on deployment and use of nuclear weapons.

Discussions here showed the French had in mind drawing up a list of positions, objectives and targets so vital to Western defense as to merit defense with nuclear weapons. They wanted also assurance that before nuclear weapons were used by the United States or Britain, France would be consulted, if only by telephone.

This, according to diplomatic informants, was their definition of nuclear parity. They did not ask the United States to share its nuclear "secrets" because sharing of information on nuclear weapons technology is restricted by Congress and the French expect in any case to acquire this information by their own research.

Questions Raised.

The United States, these informants said, raised these questions:

1. It asked how the French meant to carry out such consultation, whether through a new tripartite group or other means. It suggested that tripartite strategic planning might interfere with existing organizations such at NATO and the Southeast Asian defense alliance, and might offend smaller powers.

2. It questioned the practicability under modern conditions of listing positions defensible with nuclear weapons. It doubted whether war was likely to develop in such a way that the places where nuclear weapons might have to be used could be ascertained in advance.

3. It also asked whether the right to consult and be consulted might not also imply the right to say no, and whether this would not mean according to France the right to veto the use of nuclear weapons by the United States or Britain.

Support in Algeria.

Diplomatic informants explained that these French demands together with the French demand for support in Algeria must be considered linked indirectly to recent signs of French recalcitrance on other fronts. The French have withdrawn their contingent from the NATO Mediterranean fleet, have declined proposals for integration (meaning mixing of national units) of Western air defense,

What to Do About Bonds

My thoughts, as an investor, on government interest rates were expressed in a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury. I made the suggestion that government bonds be sold on a variable interest rate basis. If the interest rates were changed every six months, to reflect the price of money on the market, government bonds could be readily sold.

The 2½ per cent bonds of September 1967-72 are now selling for 82.28. That means people who had confidence in the government in the late '40s and early '50s are paying for that confidence at the rate of $18 for each $100 they invested. (Actually, the loss to the investor is more than $18 when you consider the interest lost. It would be nearer $30.)

If that bond were issued on a variable interest rate basis and each six months met the interest rate paid by industry that bond would be selling at par. That type of long-term bond would enable the government to raise all the money it needs readily. The investor would be assured of the going interest rate and no loss on the principal of his investment.

'Hush-Hush' Subject

The cartoon by Mauldin and the accompanying editorial dealing with the dangers of "limited" nuclear war and fall-out from nuclear weapons testing were excellent. Your paper deserves to be commended on the fine coverage it is giving this "hush-hush" subject.

It will indeed be unfortunate if these terrible dangers cause our nation to depart from its historic, democratic ideal that we the people should know the truth in order to chart our course of action.

The situation is well summed up by writer-historian Bruce Catton's statement:

"For the great fact about modern war, even greater than its frightful destructiveness and its calculated, carefully-applied inhumanity, is that it never goes quite where the men who start it intend that it shall go. Men do not control modern war; it controls them."

Joan Paul

The Old St. Louis

I would like to offer a suggestion for a part of the proposed riverfront memorial project.

The plan is a simple one. We should build a replica no more than four blocks square of St. Louis as it was between the period of 1760 and 1800. This Fort St. Louis could contain a trading post, which would barter goods (souvenirs and useful articles) and an inn which would serve food and drink and would also contain sleeping rooms for those who wished to stay overnight.

It would have to be authentic even down to the costumes which would be worn by those who would be employed in the fort. Other cities, notably Williamsburg, have used a similar idea for several years, and it has proved to be a prime tourist attraction. Why can't we do the same? H. B. Rowe

Trees Downtown

Perhaps you will allow me, through your newspaper, to congratulate the Mercantile Trust Co. and the Mayfair Hotel on their charming contribution to the improvement of downtown. The trees are lovely and add so much. Fifth avenue around the 50s and North Michigan avenue in Chicago owe a very large percentage of their attractiveness to their trees.

Now that a start has been made perhaps the idea will be contagious.

Featherbedding Galore

Reader Edgar Boist of Maryville takes issue with your editorial on featherbedding, and goes on to give a number of examples which he claims prove the railroads are free of featherbedding. It appears to me that Mr. Boist wouldn't recognize a feather if he saw one, much less a featherbed.

Mr. Boist cannot really say that he ever saw a fireman on a yard switcher doing a blessed thing; most of them don't try to even stay awake.

Mr. Boist cannot really say that the extra switchman that Arkansas and Indiana laws insist on ever does a thing except to widen the spread of his pants.

These are two issues of featherbedding that must be resolved.

I would also point out that until the operating brotherhoods insist on two drivers in every truck and passenger bus they cannot logically insist on a fireman in the cab of railroad locomotives.

On Whose Side?

After more than six weeks, the House Labor Committee is still struggling with the writing of a labor reform bill. The committee is under intense union pressure. Every member of it, and of course every member of the House, must face the voters next year. Union leaders are making the most of their concentrated power, especially in city districts, to affect the results of congressional elections.

So it is not surprising that the reports from the committee speak of a steady drift toward weakening one clause after another of the Senate-passed bill. The Senate bill itself, in our opinion, does not meet the public demand for a genuine and effective reform measure which adequately corrects the abuses exposed by the McClellan investigation. To water it down still further would represent a humiliating defeat of the public interest by organized group pressure.

Inevitably, the question is now arising: Would not half a loaf be better than none? A bill which carried out some of the needed reforms might very well be preferable to no legislation at all, but individual Representatives must be judged by their individual contributions to the final result. A congressman who votes and works for a watered-down bill instead of a truly effective and comprehensive one must be prepared to go before the voters as a candidate who placed the union lobby's interest above the public interest.

It is not difficult to tell where the public interest lies. It lies first in reasonable but effective reform of internal union organization: in public accountability for union welfare funds and other finances, in protecting the rights of union members from usurpation by union bosses, in making the leaders more directly answerable to the rank-and-file. Secondly, the public interest demands effective legislation against secondary boycotts and "blackmail" picketing.

The first general objective can be attained by adopting the Senate bill's provisions on financial accounting and its bill of rights for union members, preferably with a stronger enforcement clause. The second objective requires rewriting of the Senate measure as it applies to "hot cargo" and blackmail picketing.

The House could find no better guide to legislation on the latter points than Secretary of Labor Mitchell's proposals. Mr. Mitchell is not trying to outlaw legitimate secondary boycotts—those, for example, which are directed against a company's performing struck work—nor is he trying to outlaw legitimate picketing. His proposed amendments would strike only at the kind of boycott by which a union wages a dispute with one employer by penalizing an innocent one, and at the kind of picketing which permits "top-down organizing" aimed at intimidating the employer instead of persuading the employes.

These are the minimum standards of an adequate labor reform bill, and Congressmen will be judged by whether they fight to protect or to tear down these standards. There is no public interest in legislation designed to weaken the right of collective bargaining. There is a strong public interest in legislation to curb the excesses of unscrupulous union leaders like Jimmy Hoffa. Every Congressman should be prepared to let his constituents know whose side he is on.

Role With Some Reward

Perhaps it was for the best that the first Elizabeth so sedulously avoided matrimony. Perhaps she was not really afraid of those old swashbucklers who would gladly marry a queen to seize her crown. Instead, she may have been so well disposed toward men that she would impose on no one of them the less than riotously happy role of prince consort.

That this is a frustrating, self-abnegating position again was demonstrated by Prince Philip as he tagged after the second Elizabeth's progress up the St. Lawrence and the Great Lakes. The only time he got even a medium-sized headline was when he spoiled the royal yacht's paint job. As if the facts of a consort's life were not hard enough all by themselves, there is always a Foreign Office protocol man well within whispering range to remind him that nothing—but nothing—is expected of him except "a kindly smile, small talk, and silence on all controversial subjects." That is like being a floorwalker in a store in which "the customer is always right."

Of course, if Philip feels low about it all, he can recall that most correctly correct of prince consorts, Queen Victoria's Prince Albert. In the most self-effacing way, Albert carried the heavier share of the burden of governing an empire "on which the sun never set." Nor did he go unrewarded. His name was given to an out-of-style coat.

Icy Skyscrapers

If the conquest of Mount Everest six years ago closed out an exciting chapter in the history of mountain climbing, it scarcely froze the spirits of those with a zest for taming the giants. Everest is the tallest, and the remarkable achievement of Edmund Hillary and Tensing Norkay in scaling this icy king is not to be denied. But there are other peaks and other challenges, some even more difficult than Everest.

We were reminded of this not long ago by a report that one more expedition had been turned back in defeat from the slopes of Dhaulagiri, the Himalayan monster of some 26,811 feet which is now the highest unclimbed prominence in the world. It is the seventh tallest of earth's peaks, and its strength lies in its steep and icy upper slopes.

On those dizzy heights there is no place for men to pitch a tent while resting for the final assault; they must dig ice caves. Climbers who have reached Dhaulagiri's upper levels have been holed up for long spells by violent weather and eventually driven by the cold to seek relief below. Experts say that the one hope of victory over Dhaulagiri lies in being able to endure in the caves until a change in the weather makes it feasible to attempt the final assault.

Far more difficult than Dhaulagiri is still another Himalayan height, Ama Dablam, which rears up on the approach route to Everest. At about 22,000 feet Ama Dablam is hardly in the same league with such giants of more than 27,000 feet as K-2, Kanchenjunga and Lhotse I, each of which has been scaled since the conquest of Everest. But Ama Dablam in structure is a sheer skyscraper of ice and rock. It has been described by Sir John Hunt, who led the assault on Everest, as a "giant fang." He gave it as his opinion that the mountain was "utterly inaccessible."

Every peak demands of its would-be conquerors a certain mixture of foresight, endurance and vigilance. Men have met these requirements on Everest and K-2, and no doubt the day will come when Dhaulagiri and Ama Dablam, too, will submit; but it will not be tomorrow.

Sad Case of Apple-Polishing

Students will not suffer the indignity of having to swear that they are loyal to the United States to obtain funds under the National Defense Education Act if Congress follows the Senate Labor Committee. The Senators voted, 12 to 2, to strike out the oath requirement which has kept the law from being nearly as helpful as it might be in the training of scientists, mathematicians and others needed for the national defense. That is a good reason for getting rid of it.

An even better reason is that the loyalty of no citizen should be held suspect without ample cause. What deeper insult can there be than to tell a man that because he is a teacher or a student his patriotism may not be assumed as it would be if he were a banker or a chain store manager?

The best argument of all against this particular test oath, however, is that the framers of the legislation did not want it. According to Daniel P. Moynihan of Syracuse University, the obnoxious requirement was inserted by a committee clerk in an effort to win the favor of Senator Barry Goldwater. When it turned out that Senator Goldwater was not pleased, the clerk left for another job.

Yet this maladroit bit of apple-polishing was not repudiated. Busy committee members let it stand, confident that it would be knocked out on the bill's way to enactment. While it was not wanted, nobody had the courage to say so.

Fortunately Senator Kennedy did have the courage to introduce a repealer. Farmers, small business men and other beneficiaries of federal aid are not asked to take a test oath. This insult to the academic community should be killed. It is a poor way to recruit men for the nation's service by suggesting they may not be loyal to the nation.

A Safer Fourth of July

From the rocky shores of Maine to the sandy beaches of California the weather for the long Fourth of July weekend was ideal for vacationists. A record number of automobiles flowed onto the highways and doubtless a record number of Americans—men, women and children—enjoyed the outdoors. Yet the highway death toll of 260 for the 54-hour period ending Sunday midnight was far below the National Safety Council's estimate of 350.

Vigilance almost everywhere, coupled with tough crackdowns in many states, made the difference. Six states — Alaska, Delaware, North Dakota, New Hampshire, New Mexico and Wyoming—had not a single traffic fatality, and Chicago, whose population exceeds that of many states, had only one. New Mexico, aroused by 15 deaths in the preceding three days, stationed police at every major port of entry and set up roadblocks throughout the interior. New Hampshire, where there have been almost twice as many deaths in 1959 as in the first half of 1958, used a stern "no-fix, no-favors" policy to keep its roads clear of deaths. Illinois with 16 and Missouri with 12 were among the states with high totals.

What the Sun Spots Say

Four weeks more of warm and sticky weather are forecast by Dr. Edward M. Brooks, the St. Louis University geophysicist. Dr. Brooks is a qualified professional meteorologist in his own right, but his predictions are based largely on sun-spot activity—the "sun-spot scientist," the headline writers call him—and the spots reflecting in his crystal ball occasionally provide answers that are less than 100 per cent accurate.

Last September, for example, he forecast a cold winter beginning in January. Well, it was cold but beginning in December; February was above normal temperature-wise. In December, he predicted the rest of the winter would be wet and cold, and he was half right. December and January were cold but they also were dry. That's the way it goes in the forecasting business sometimes.

In May, after peering at the sun and its spots through a 75-power telescope, the professor declared that what he saw pointed overwhelmingly to a cool summer. And for a while it looked as if he had hit it right on the button. May and early June weren't bad at all, and in our view he would have been prudent to stand on that opinion. But there's no denying that it's hot and sticky now. If the sunspots say there will be more of the same, it only goes to show that some weather forecasts tend to be strongly influenced by what the weather already is.

A Wise Senate Move

The Senate is to be congratulated for restoring $48,600,000 of the $76,000,000 cut that the House inflicted on the Federal Aviation Agency's $587,000,000 budget request. We hope the House conferees will concur in this appropriation, which is necessary for vital air safety equipment and for paying the men needed to operate it. The major function of the FAA, it should never be forgotten, is to correct as far as possible the conditions which permitted such catastrophes as the recent Grand Canyon, Las Vegas and Maryland tragedies.

District of Columbia Next?

Now that Hawaii is following Alaska into the Union, is it too much to hope that Congress will, in the weeks that remain in the present session, adopt home rule for the District of Columbia? More than half a million people live within the boundaries of the national capital. All but the few who retain voting residences elsewhere are disfranchised. They live and breathe government but they cannot participate in it. Nor can they do anything effective about the management of the community in which they reside. For Congress is the city council of Washington to the botheration of Congress and the slight of the residents of the District. The way to correct this is to set up a system for home rule and for voting in local and national elections. If the leaders of both parties would get together and agree to do what they know they should do, the status of the District of Columbia would soon cease to mock what we say about belief in democracy.

"WE'LL SERVE IT MY WAY OR NOT AT ALL."

Why the Pennsylvania Wants Passengers

It Has a Billion Dollars Invested in 725 Trains a Day

From The Pennsy, Employe Publication

Any discussion of passenger business can be expected to stir up some comments like, "Of course, the railroad doesn't really want passengers," or, "The railroad is trying to get out of the passenger business."

The Pennsylvania Railroad wants passenger business.

Fully 20 per cent of its total business is passenger business.

The P.R.R. has about a billion dollars invested in passenger equipment and facilities. This is almost a third of the company's total investment in railway property. The railroad has continually put new money into passenger service.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

The railroad's passenger policy is to do everything it can to reduce the yearly deficits that undermine passenger service and therefore the health of the entire railroad. To accomplish this, the P.R.R. intends to eliminate trains that run hopelessly in the red and have no prospect of ever earning their keep. At the same time it intends to build up other trains by improvements in schedules, maintenance, or other factors.

But when a railroad wants to close a branch from which most of the patronage has disappeared, it runs into difficulty. It has to get the approval of state commissions or the Interstate Commerce Commission.

There are often protests by local communities that don't want to lose the prestige of a passenger station, even though it's rarely used.

There are often protests by rail brotherhood representatives.

But the employes' prosperity can't be separated from their company's. That has been quite plain on the Pennsylvania in recent years.

The large amounts of money lost on passenger service during the past decade have so depleted the company's reserves that even a moderate business recession becomes a crisis for the railroad, and thousands of employes must be laid off.

The P.R.R.'s passenger plant was built in the days before the family car and the airline. To insist that the railroad retain every train and station is to ignore the fact that hundreds of miles of super-highways are being built each year and that jet-liners now are roaring between Chicago and New York in less than two hours.

The P.R.R. operates 725 passenger trains a day. In 1958, freight service produced a net railway operating income of $56,000,000; but passenger service wiped out most of this by losing $44,000,000.

A frequently-heard comment is that the passenger deficit is a "paper loss" or "a matter of bookkeeping." The costs solely related to passenger operations, such as wages of trainmen and enginemen and repair of passenger cars, make up more than 80 per cent of the passenger expenses.

The rest is for items which passenger service shares with freight service, such as the cost of maintaining tracks and signal systems. This type of expense is divided between passenger and freight service according to rules set up by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

A second group of critics argues that passenger service shouldn't be charged any part of the general maintenance costs of the railroad, "because the tracks have to be there anyway for freight service."

This argument implies that freight shippers should pay enough to cover all the maintenance costs and thus should subsidize passenger service—an argument the shippers will rebel against.

Besides, it isn't true that "the tracks have to be there anyway." Much of the four-track and three-track portions of the main line could be two-track, or even single-track in some instances, if there were no passenger trains.

Furthermore, a track could be maintained for less money if it were used only for 50-mile-per-hour freight service and there were no 70- or 80-mile-per-hour passenger service.

But when all the expenses common to freight and passenger service are omitted from the calculation and only the direct passenger service expenses are considered, they still amount to more money than the trains bring in.

In 1929, the P.R.R.'s passenger operating profit was calculated at $29,000,000. Deficits appeared during the 1930s, but they were comparatively small. During World War II, when gas rationing reduced auto use, and civilian air accommodations were limited, the P.R.R. again made substantial profits on passenger service, ranging from $31,000,000 in 1942 to $57,000,000 in 1945.

Deficits returned in 1947, when the P.R.R. lost $40,000,000, and they have continued every year since.

The main causes for this change were the increases in operating costs, the inability to raise rates sufficiently, and the loss of passengers to autos, busses and planes.

The total losses in passenger service in the years from 1947 to 1958 reached the staggering sum of $594,000,000.

Express service loses money because of the high cost of handling small packages and because of the competition of parcel post, which charges low rates and operates at a deficit (made up by Government funds). The P.R.R. has proposed that the Government buy the facilities of the Railway Express Agency and merge them with parcel post.

Mail and express are transported by passenger trains. The P.R.R. will consider handling some of this traffic by piggy-back and other freight services.

Senator Eastland Knows From The Chicago Tribune

The Agriculture Department has disclosed that the taxpayers in supporting the price of cotton have also been helping to support Senator Eastland. The Senator has obtained $243,734 in price support loans in the last three years. At the time of the report, about $70,000 of this Government money still was tied up in keeping Eastland cotton off the market, as he had repaid $173,500 of the loans. The taxpayers sometimes get cute little surprises about the farm program, but we don't think this is one of them. Senator Eastland is a smart man. He knows politics, he knows government, he knows cotton, and it seems he also knows a good thing when he sees one.

Between Book Ends Story Teller From the West Indies

TURN AGAIN TIGER, by Samuel Selvon. (St. Martin's Press, 246 pgs., $3.95.)

Once again the West Indies has been used as background for story material by Samuel Selvon for his latest novel, "Turn Again Tiger." A native Trinidadian, the author created characters in surroundings and situations familiar to him in the book. On this point, he is on firm ground.

Samuel Selvon

Mr. Selvon has demonstrated his ability as a storyteller in his previous books, "The Lonely Londoners" and "Ways of Sunlight." In "Turn Again Tiger" he has kept to the theme of interpreting life from the point of view of West Indians—the good and the bad without apology or praise.

The story of this book concerns Tiger's efforts to understand life and himself, and his subsequent coming of age. Tiger, an intelligent, high-spirited and rebellious West Indian, follows his father to an experimental sugar cane field in Five Rivers on Trinidad Island. He is contemptuous of both the indolence and simple ways of his people before gaining a deeper insight into the meaning and understanding of life on the Island.

The author has assembled a host of interesting characters in telling his story, and employs the idiom of his people to create effects. His characterizations of the few white persons, particularly the beautiful wife of the plantation supervisor whose ultimate close relationship with Tiger climaxes the book, are not developed. They appear more as symbols than people.

Of the native population, however, Mr. Selvon knows his subject and makes them come alive in running the gamut from humor and wit to poignancy in his writing. He has probed much deeper into the makeup of people and life on the Island than in his previous books, and has retained the freshness and flavor of another culture.

SCREEN WORLD, 1959, by Daniel Blum. (Chilton Co., Philadelphia, 240 pgs., $5.50.)

For 10 years Daniel Blum has been putting together an annual volume on the world of motion pictures. This one covers the film releases in the 12 months ending, Dec. 31, 1958, promising film personalties of the year, the foreign films and the obituaries. In the latter category are sketches of such screen notables as Ronald Colman, Robert Donat, Jesse Lasky, Marshall Neilan, Paul Panzer, Virginia Pearson, Tyrone Power, Edna Purviance, Marguerite Snow, Estelle Taylor, and Henry B. Warner. The book is a reminder that while the level is not uniformly high many splendid movies are made every year and that some always are outstanding. This volume is dedicated to Dorothy Gish, "a delightful companion and loyal friend."

Democrats Resist Interest Rate Boost

WASHINGTON.

A BALKY AND SUSPICIOUS CONGRESS put President Eisenhower's request for unlimited power to raise the interest rate on Government bonds into a deep freeze over the Fourth of July weekend.

What has happened is that leading Democrats on both House and Senate committees having to do with money, taxes and banking discovered that their party's traditional low-interest-rate policy was in danger of being subverted by what the Eisenhower Treasury Department wanted them to do. The revolt against fast action broke out in the court of first resort, the House Ways and Means Committee. This committee has never been reactionary in the way that its opposite Senate number, the Finance Committee, has been, but it has been carefully kept in the hands of fiscal conservatives.

Mills.

From the start, Chairman Wilbur D. Mills disliked the Eisenhower proposals regarding the higher interest rate, but he has been largely in the hands of the three Texans—Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson—who have been acting in concert to frame the fiscal policies of the Government.

Revolt Against Johnson.

That in this field Anderson's voice has been the most persuasive has long been apparent. A converted Eisenhower Democrat, the quiet Anderson has accomplished the feat of leading Democratic Congresses around by the nose without attracting any particular attention.

Mills knows that the leadership line is co-operation with Anderson, and it is his hope to succeed Rayburn as Speaker. His interest-rate solution was to give the President what he wanted, but to place upon him the specific responsibility for selecting the new and higher rate.

Like most people who try to please everybody, Mills is in the position today of pleasing nobody. House Ways and Means Democrats told him they would not vote for his compromise, and he was forced to recess the committee until this week.

Now Senate Democrats are demanding to be heard before House action places them at a disadvantage in the struggle. For this group, it is a continuation of their strong fight last week against the surrender by Senate conferees to the House position on extension of Korean war excise taxes.

The Senate had originally voted to close certain tax loopholes and compensate for it by reductions of taxes on transportation and communications.

Congress in No Hurry.

They were outraged when the Senate's wishes were scuttled by Senators Harry F. Byrd and Robert S. Kerr, who were their spokesmen in the conference with the House.

In what constitutes the only truly significant revolt of principle against the Johnson leadership so far, the rebels got 35 votes, a majority of their party.

They might have won had it not been for a combination of the blazing heat, the pressure of the July 1 deadline on the excise renewal and the fact that the Southerners were about to bring in a conference report they deemed vital to their farmers.

Several Southerners frankly said they thought the rebels were right but could not vote with them at that point.

No major Government refinancing is due for many months. Congress, therefore, has time to deliberate and obviously is going to take it. The story it expects to develop is that higher Government interest rates set the pace for higher interest rates everywhere, including every kind of payment on public and private debts.

ARTIST GEORGE GROSZ DIES IN W. BERLIN

German-American Painter Had Lived in U.S. Since 1932.

BERLIN, July 6 (AP)—George Grosz, German-American painter, died of a heart attack in West Berlin today, only a few weeks after returning to his homeland. He was 66 years old.

Mr. Grosz left Germany in 1932, after his satirical drawings found disfavor with the Nazi party. He went to the United States and became an American citizen. Last month he returned to Germany.

One reason for his return was that his wife, Eva, has been ill and she wanted to stay with her sister in West Berlin.

Mr. Grosz had been in West Berlin twice for brief visits since World War II. This time, he wanted to open a studio and stay for good. He had planned to return to the United States for about three months every year to teach at the Art Students League in New York City.

Eight days before he left the United States, the American Academy of Arts and Letters gave him its gold medal in recognition of his work. Although he gained fame as satirical painter in Germany, he concentrated on scenery and landscapes in America.

Born into a middle class innkeeper's family, the future artist was fatherless at 6. Cane-wielding Prussian teachers expelled him from school while he was still a youngster.

He studied at Dresden's Royal Academy of Art, and arrived in Berlin just before World War I. A few months on the western front as an enlisted man turned his boyish admiration for the military into undying hatred of war.

He said his postwar technique reflected shock he experienced in the front line trenches on realizing that the Victorian period had been supplanted by a new and frightening era which turned him into a painter of horror.

"I didn't set out to be a painter of brutalities and atrocities. I wanted to be, instead of a caricaturist, a real painter," he once said.

Besides his wife, survivors include his sons, Martin, 24, a guitarist and night club entertainer in Chicago, and Peter, 34, a research engineer in Princeton, N.J.

'RIO RITA' TONIGHT AT MUNICIPAL OPERA

Begins Seven-Night Run—Stephen Douglass and Peggy Bonini Starred.

"Rio Rita," starring Stephen Douglass and Peggy Bonini, will begin a seven-night run at the Municipal Opera in Forest Park tonight at 8:15 o'clock.

Familiar tunes in the show, being presented at the outdoor theater for the sixth time, include the title song and "Following the Sun Around."

The setting is on the banks of the Rio Grande and the story deals with an outlaw who is never seen, an orphan girl who is courted by a Mexican general and a border patrol captain who is trying to capture the girl and the outlaw.

Douglass made his debut at the Municipal Opera as Edvard Grieg in this year's production of "Song of Norway." Miss Bonini appeared here in the 1956 production of "Great Waltz" and the 1957 production of "Naughty Marietta."

One of the features of "Rio Rita" will be the Szony's, a dance team that has appeared in night clubs and theaters throughout the country.

Other principals in the show are Larry Storch, who has performed in movies, on the stage and on television; Tim Herbert, who portrayed Og the Leprechaun in last year's production of "Finian's Rainbow;" Betty O'Neil, who appeared in "Pal Joey" both in New York and on tour, and Mara Lynn, who had parts in the Broadway productions of "Body Beautiful," "New Girl in Town," "Touch and Go" and "Inside U.S.A."

Two Major Protestant Bodies Drafting Merger Constitution

Evangelical and Reformed and Congregational Christian Churches Began Move 17 Years Ago.

OBERLIN, O., July 6 (AP)—Representatives of two major Protestant denominations today began to translate their vision of a united church into concrete terms after 17 years of preliminary planning and effort.

As delegates of the Evangelical and Reformed church and the Congregational Christian Churches went into their first joint business session, their big job was to agree on a common constitution. They also are to act on a proposed statement of faith. The combined group will be known as the United Church of Christ.

Wide attention has focused on the merger because it is the first in this country involving denominations of such differences in organization and background. The combined membership is 2,250,000.

Church Structure.

Congregational Christians, of British origin, are loosely linked with independent boards of autonomous local churches. The Evangelical and Reformed church, with Swiss-German roots, has a pyramid structure.

A proposed constitution would, in general, apply a central governing system to national operations of the church, but leave regional and local units free to rule themselves.

Some Congregationalists have opposed the merger, claiming it would rob individual churches of independence.

The merger, for which negotiations began in 1942, was agreed on in 1957 on a tentative basis, but the actual meshing of machinery of the two bodies has awaited adoption of a constitution.

The process of forging a working union has been marked by ups and downs, including protracted lawsuits brought by opponents. One of them still is pending in the United District Court in New York.

The five-day general synod, including 700 representatives from both groups, opened yesterday.

Christian Church May Join.

Dr. Gaines M. Cook of Indianapolis, executive secretary of the International Convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), said "multitudes of others in the Christian world" are concerned with the venture. His own denomination of more than 2,000,000 members is considering eventually joining the merger. This would produce a denomination of close to 5,000,000, third largest in United States Protestantism, next to the Methods and Southern Baptists.

The Rev. Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg of St. Louis, president of the National Council of Churches, told a meeting last night that "the churches are coming together and they intend to stay together."

He urged churches to work to ease international discord and "lift the entire situation of mankind up above the political and military level into the dimensions of religion and man's faith in God."

"When we begin to balance the niceties of distinction as between a clean bomb and an unclean bomb, or death of thousands as against death by millions, we are reducing man to the level of the obscene—something more than any government has a right to ask of its citizens," he said.

Hemus, Cheered by Hurling, Says 'We'll Be Tougher' Last Half

28,431 See Cardinals And Giants Split Two

By John J. Archibald

A day of baseball was over and Cardinal Manager Solly Hemus headed for the shower as usual—even though most of his sweating had been mental and his exercise consisted largely of squirming in his seat in the roof-top box high above the Busch Stadium diamond. Hemus, suspended for five playing days as a result of his run-in with an umpire Thursday night, had watched his Redbirds look first-rate and then frustrated as they divided a doubleheader with San Francisco.

The over-all view of the ball club must have been good, however. Hemus had some positive comments to make before washing away the woes of the 4-2 loss that followed a 4-2 victory over the Giants in the opener.

"We'll be a lot tougher in the second half," Hemus predicted. "Our young pitchers will be a lot more help to us. With our hitting, we'll be able to give any team a battle."

One of the chief reasons for Hemus's optimism was the second outstanding performance in the last nine days by rookie Ernie Broglio, with a so-so hurling job against the Chicago Cubs in between. On June 27 Broglio hurled a 5-0 two-hitter against Cincinnati and yesterday he helped knock the Giants out of first place by limiting them to six hits and just two runs while again going nine innings.

Season's Biggest Crowd.

If a cloudburst had ended the day's activities after the Cardinals won the opener, the largest crowd of the season, 28,431, would have left in a far happier mood.

On the way home the fans would have been glowing about Broglio's pitching and the thrilling grand-slam blast of Bill White that provided all of the Cardinal runs. The more recent events probably were foremost in their minds, however, with most folks talking only of the lost opportunities of the second contest.

There seemed little doubt that the Redbirds would break through in that one. In inning after inning they put runners in scoring position. 'Frisco starter Sam Jones appeared to be on the ropes from the beginning, yet he held off his ex-teamates for seven frames before Manager Bill Rigney took him out between innings.

The Cards even kayoed old nemesis Stu Miller after Jones left. Don Blasingame, White and Ken Boyer all singled in the ninth to account for the Redbirds' second run. Rigney reached for his ace then, 12-game winner Johnny Antonelli, who took over with one out.

Antonelli got both Stan Musial and pinch-hitter Gino Cimoli on fly balls to end the game. The two runners left stranded made a total of 13 for the Cardinals. Once they were retired with the bases loaded and five other times they left two men on.

Home Run by Mays.

Gary Blaylock started for the Redbirds, but the Giants hit him solidly. After Danny O'Connell opened the game with a single, Willie Mays homered into the left-field seats. Daryl Spencer, who belabored the Birds on Saturday with two homers and five R.B.I.s, singled in the first of his two R.B.I.s in the third inning and that sent Blaylock to the showers.

Lindy McDaniel came in and he turned in another excellent relief job. After retiring Jackie Brandt to end the third inning, McDaniel hurled four more frames and the only run off him was unearned.

Marshall Bridges, another young hurler who makes Manager Hemus's second-half outlook brighter, took over in the eighth and pitched two perfect innings. Bridges struck out three batters and kept the other three from hitting the ball out of the infield.

All the fine help from the bullpen was of no avail, however. The Cardinals were unable to make 10 base hits and six bases on balls good for more than a pair of runs.

Technically, the second half of the season already has begun, with the doubleheader having been the Cards' seventy-eighth and seventy-ninth games, but perhaps Redbird followers will do like Hemus and consider everything before the All-Star game break as having occurred in the first half. So that everything can be looking up for "the next half."

Bill White Enters Select Circle of Grand Slammers

Cardinals' BILL WHITE (right) reaches to grasp the hand of teammate ALEX GRAMMAS after White had belted the first grand-slam home run of his career. The fifth-inning homer provided the Redbirds with all the runs they needed to defeat the San Francisco Giants, 4-2, in the first game of the Sunday doubleheader at Busch Stadium. Then they lost, 4-2, in the second game.

White's Grand-Slam Homer Is His First

Hal Smith isn't wishing anybody bad luck, but he figures there is only one way for him to play in the All-Star Game tomorrow Either Del Crandall or Smokey Burgess will have to get sick.

Although many people have forgotten, the young Cardinal catcher was also a member of the 1957 National League team when the All-Star game was held in St. Louis.

"I didn't play in that one and I guess my chances aren't very good for this one either," said Smith. "But I'll be around in case they need me."

"It was a high fast ball that I hit," said Bill White of the bases-loaded home run he belted in the fifth inning of the first game of Sunday's doubleheader. Jack Sanford had got me out twice before with pitches on which he took something off, so I swung at his first pitch the next time."

It was the first grand slam of White's career. He doubled in a run in the second game and now has 45 RBIs.

White explained that his refusal to shake hands with Giants' Pitcher Sam Jones for a newspaper photo did not mean there is hard feeling between the two players.

"Sam and I kid each other all the time," said White. "I was happy to pose alongside him, but I just didn't see any reason for shaking hands."

Stan Musial played six innings of the first game and all of the nightcap, the first time this season he has done anything more than pinch-hit in a second appearance in a doubleheader. He continued his recent batting surge with a single and a double in two at-bats in the opener, but seemed to lose his sharpness between contests.

In the second game Musial came to bat five times with two men on base. He was purposely passed by Same Jones once, but he went out on easy flies on the other four occasions.

Gino Cimoli played six innings of the opener despite an upset stomach, but was replaced by Curt Flood while the Giants were batting in the seventh. . . . San Francisco's Jim Davenport was hit on the lower forearm by a foul off the bat of Orlando Cepeda and was taken to Jewish Hospital for X-rays. They indicated no serious injury.

A "second wind" helped him get through the last few innings, said Cardinal Pitcher Ernie Broglio.

"I was having trouble breathing around the sixth," said the 200-pound rookie hurler. "When I ran toward first to field a ball, however, I suddenly felt fresh again and my breathing was regular."

Broglio struck out six and walked two.

Plate Umpire Kenny Burkhart made a surprising "interference" call against the Cardinals after Broglio bunted in the fifth inning. Burkhart ruled that Broglio had hampered Catcher Bob Schmidt in his attempt to retrieve the ball. Brogilo and Acting Manager Johnny Keane protested that the batter was merely attempting to get to first base and that Schmidt had actually interfered with the runner.

Birds Get Shannon, 2 Hurlers

Two experienced pitchers and former Cleveland High star Wally Shannon have been brought up by the Cardinals and four members of the team have been assigned to clubs in the Redbird farm system, General Manager Bing Devine announced.

The new Cardinal hurlers are lefthander Dean Stone and righthander Jack Urban, both from Omaha. Shannon, the son of Walter Shannon, supervisor of minor league personnel for the Cardinals, is a second baseman.

Outfielder Bobby Gene Smith and Infielder Lee Tate have been sent to Rochester. Tom Cheney has been assigned to Omaha and Jim O'Rourke, a bonus rookie outfielder, will join the Tulsa team.

Stone and Urban are 28 years old and both have major league experience. Urban, who had a 3-and-4 record with Omaha this year, had a 7-and-4 season with Kansas City in 1957. As a member of the Washington Senators from 1953 to 1956, Stone compiled 23 victories and 31 defeats. His mark with Omaha this season is 9 and 6.

Shannon, who bats left-handed, has a .295 average with Rochester. He is expected to be used as a pinch-hitter.

"Cheney didn't have to go," said Cardinal Manager Solly Hemus. "He could be carried on our roster without penalty until July 31 because it was on that date in 1958 that he was discharged from military service. But Tom feels that he will get more work at Omaha.

'Cheney might even be back this season. He has the makings of a fine pitcher."

Stone, without retiring a batter, was the winning All-Star Game pitcher in 1954, the year the American Leaguers upset the National League team, 11-9, before 68,751 at Cleveland. He also figured in one of the most heated arguments in the history of the inter-league contest.

With Red Schoendienst on third base, Duke Snider batting, Al Dark on first, and two out in the eighth inning, Stone relieved Bob Keegan. As Stone started his third pitch, Schoendienst tried to steal home. The young southpaw hurried his motion and threw to Catcher Yogi Berra in time to get the runner at the plate. The National Leaguers protested that Stone had balked, but Plate Umpire Bill Stewart overruled them. Virgil Trucks replaced Stone at the start of the ninth.

Ingo Drives Car Too Fast for Fans

FALKENBERG, Sweden, July 6 (AP)—Ingemar Johansson, the new world heavyweight boxing champion, yesterday showed he likes speed better than congratulations from his own countrymen.

Ingo unexpectedly showed up at the west coast motor race in Falkenberg, south of his home town of Goteburg.

Publicity conscious organizers had no difficulty persuading him to make a trip around the track in Finn O. C. Bremer's race-trimmed Ferrari with his eye-catching fiancee, Birgit Lundgren, as co-pilot.

Once behind the wheel, Ingo ignored directions to drive slowly so the crowd could have a good look at the couple. He immediately speeded up and completed one lap at top speed.

He got an ovation, of course, but the spectators got only a fleeting glimpse of their new national hero.

Expert observers said he handled the car beautifully.

Brichant Wins Title.

BLANKENBERGHE, Belgium, July 6 (AP)—Jackie Brichant of Belgium won an international tennis tournament here by defeating Mike Franks of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-3.

Drysdale and Wynn To Start Star Game

PITTSBURGH, July 6 (UPI)—Don Drysdale, Los Angeles' fire-balling righthander and Early Wynn, veteran Chicago White Sox workhorse, today were named starting pitchers in tomorrow's twenty-sixth annual All-Star Game.

The selections were announced at a news conference this morning by National League Manager Fred Haney of the Milwaukee Braves and American League pilot Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees.

(The game will be telecast and broadcast by Post-Dispatch Stations KSD-TV and KSD, starting at 12 o'clock noon, St. Louis time).

Haney said Milwaukee's Lew Burdette, hero of the 1957 World Series, would be the National League's second pitcher, "depending on how things go."

This will be Drysdale's first All-Star game appearance. The Dodger hurler, who leads the senior loop in strikeouts with 122, has an 8-6 record this season and an earned run average of 3.31.

Wynn, the "grandaddy" righthander of the American League, has appeared in four All-Star classics and was the winner of last year's game. He leads the American League in victories with an 11-5 mark, and has an earned run average of 3.83.

Wilhelm By-Passed.

Before the announcements, there was speculation that Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm, a National League castoff, would possibly start against Burdette.

But Stengel by-passed Wilhelm, who has won nine games against four losses, because the knuckleballer had pitched six innings yesterday in losing to the Red Sox, 6-3.

Haney and Stengel announced the following batting orders:

National League—John Temple, 2b; Ed Mathews, 3b; Hank Aaron, rf; Willie Mays, cf; Ernie Banks, ss; Orlando Cepeda, 1b; Wally Moon, lf; Dell Crandall, c and Drysdale, p.

American League—Minnie Minoso, lf; Nellie Fox, 2b; Al Kaline, cf; Bill Skowron, 1b; Rocky Colavito, rf; Gus Triandos, c; Harmon Killebrew, 3b; Luis Aparacio, ss, and Wynn, p.

Stengel said "Wynn has beaten me enough times for me to know he's good. Who follows Wynn? Tell me the score and I'll tell you."

Haney said he selected Drysdale because "against a righthanded squad I wanted a righthanded pitcher. If I start my own man (Burdette) everyone says I'm prejudiced. So I'll start him (Drysdale) and come in with my own man."

National 10-13 Favorite.

Odds-makers have installed the National League an early 10-13 favorite to score its 11th victory in the classics which started in 1933.

Vice President Nixon will throw out the first ball.

Stengel won't be worried about what the experts might say in selecting Wynn as starter over other American League pitchers. Last week he was criticized for selecting Ted Williams and Roy Sievers as alternates on his squad.

Braves Drop Wise After Weird Running

MILWAUKEE, July 6 (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves optioned infielder Casey Wise back to their Louisville farm club—less than 24 hours after his weird base running cost the Braves a possible victory at Philadelphia.

Inserted as a pinch runner in the eighth inning with one out Saturday night, Wise scurried from first and passed second on Billy Bruton's apparent double as left fielder Harry Anderson picked up the ball.

Wise paused midway to third base, started forward again, stopped and returned to second base where he bumped into Bruton, as third baseman Gene Freese pursued him with the ball.

As a result, there was a double play on a two-base hit, which was recorded as a single because Wise didn't reach third.

Manager Resigns

ATLANTA, July 6 (AP)—Hubert (Buddy) Bates resigned as manager of the slump-ridden Atlanta Crackers

Australian Cup Team Arrives in America

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Australian Davis Cup Captain Harry Hopman and three members of his team reached here, en route from the Wimbledon championships to Mexico City. They will play Mexico in a first round American Zone Davis Cup series July 17-19.

Accompanying Hopman were Rod Laver, runner-up to Alex Olmedo of Peru in the Wimbledon Men's single championship; Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson. Three other members of the team were due later.

Schuler's Homer Wins For East St. Louis In Inter-City Loop

Paul Schuler's three-run homer in the seventh broke a 4-4 tie and sent East St. Louis to an 8-4 win over Sacred Heart in the Southwestern Illinois Inter-City Baseball League yesterday. With two men on base and the Sacred Heart outfielders playing deep for long-ball hitter John Cronkovich in the eighth, he popped a fly to short left, but Shortstop Dallan Maxvill raced far back for a catch while running away from the infield, wheeled and threw to second base for a double play. Bobby Page in relief of Ron Parker got the win over Toddy Gailius.

Chuck Jones with a three-run homer and Don Hefferly with four hits and five runs batted in paced Collinsville over Highland, 15-6. Saturday night Collinsville came from behind to edge Maryville, 11-9, as Ralph Sackett had four hits and four runs. Jack Kettle of Maryville hit a grand slam and batted in five runs.

Maryville's Dave Carnaghi, Edwardsville High School catcher, hit two home runs and a double Sunday, batting in all his team's runs in a 7-4 win over Greenville.

Leroy Grover Hurls Second No-Hitter

Leroy Grover pitched his second no-hitter as the Southwest Kiwanis Juniors downed the Benld Juniors, 7-0, in a Fourth of July baseball exhibition at Benld, Ill. The 17-year-old righthander fanned 13. Chuck Schmidt clouted a pair of doubles for the winners.

Sports Comment

By Bob Broeg
Post-Dispatch Sports Editor

PITTSBURGH, July 6—If you have the opportunity to dial KSD-TV tomorrow noon for the annual All-Star game—as far as we're concerned the one scheduled next month for Los Angeles is an impostor—you'll see baseball played under the best possible conditions.

Broeg

Forbes Field not only has a scenic backdrop, the green vastness of Schenley Park behind the red-brick left field wall, but it has the most spacious playing surface in the big leagues, providing "a true test of talent," as Manager Solly Hemus of the Cardinals said.

Since the host Pirates pulled down Kiner's Korner, the phony fence within a fence that was built for Hank Greenberg 12 years ago, the Pittsburgh park has offered aid and comfort to the pitchers, a challenge to the hitters and put a premium on speed and defensive ability.

The distance to the right field fence at the foul-line is only 300 fet, but it's a misleading statistic. The wall curves rapidly away, creating a carom worthy of Willie Hoppe as well as ample fielding space. Moreover, from foul-line to right-center there's a screen for which we've never seen the slightest need. That's how few balls are pulled sharply enough to take advantage of the plate-to-fence distance. They always seem to hook foul.

The towering double-decked stands in right field—the distance is deep at the point, eqivalent to 354 feet in right-center at Busch Stadium—furnish a tremendous test. Only five players ever have reached the right field roof — Babe Ruth, Ted Beard, Mickey Mantle (in an exhibition), Wally Moon and Bob Skinner.

1958 Champion Mrs. Conant Sets District Golf Pace With 74

Alton Shooter Has 79

By John J. Archibald

Defending champion Mrs. George K. Conant Jr., St. Louis Country Club, virtually clinched medalist honors in the qualifying for the district women's golf tournament with a two-under-par 74 today at Normandie.

All of the better rated players had completed their 18 hole round and the nearest to Mrs. Conant was a 79 shot by Mrs. Nelson McBrien of Alton's Lockhaven club.

While Mrs. Conant's score was four under the par of 78 listed on the Normandie card, a U.S. Golf Association committee rated the course early this season as par 76 for women.

Among the other leading scorers was an 80 by Miss Kathy Kawcett, Norwood, and an 81 by Mrs. Lucien Fouke, St. Louis Country Club.

The low 16 scorers will qualify for championship play, while others will be grouped in four other flights. Match play will start tomorrow and the tournament will end Friday.

Indians Retain Their 2-Game Edge in A.L.; Braves Regain Lead

DETROIT, July 6 (AP)—Cleveland's Indians breeze into the All-Star game break—and because of it—with a two-game lead in the American League race.

With three days of rest ahead, Injun Manager Joe Gordon used Herb Score and Gary Bell, a pair of starting pitchers, in relief yesterday and it paid off with a 5-4, 10-inning victory at Detroit.

That gave Cleveland a four-game winning string and retained a two-game spread over Chicago's second place White Sox, who beat Kansas City 4-3 in 10 innings.

The Indians also jumped five games ahead of the once-more stumbling New York Yankees, who were knocked off 7-0 by Washington. The Senators, backing Camilo Pascual's four-hit, 10 strikeout pitching with three home runs, moved within two games of fifth place Detroit and within three of the fourth place Yankees.

Last place Boston bounced back from a seven-game skid by beating Baltimore twice, 9-0 and 6-3, under new manager Billy Jurges. The double jolt dropped the third place Orioles 4½ games behind.

Braves Regain Lead.

In the National League, Milwaukee regained first place by whipping Philadelphia, 5-0, behind Carlton Willey's four-hitter. San Francisco split a pair of 4-2 decisions at St. Louis and slipped to second by three percentage points. Los Angeles swept the Chicago Cubs, 4-3 and 5-3. Pittsburgh took two from Cincinnati, 7-5 and 3-2 in 11 innings.

The Indians blew 2-0 and 3-2 leads at Detroit, then tied it 4-all in the eighth and put it away in the 10th on George Strickland's double and an error by Detroit First Baseman Larry Osborne, whose first error had broken a 2-2 tie.

Bell, squaring his record at 8-8 with his second relief victory in as many days, wrapped it up with a hitless two-inning job. He paired with Score to blank the Tigers, down to .500 again with their fourth straight loss, on one hit over the last 3⅓ innings. Tom Morgan (1-3) was the loser in relief.

Luis Aparicio and Nellie Fox, who combined for five of the White Sox' seven hits, singled for the winning run in the 10th. Al Smith's solo homer had tied it in the ninth against loser Ned Garver (6-8)—who was 4-for-4, including a home run, and drove in two Kansas City runs. Aparicio also homered for the White Sox. Turk Lown (5-2) was the winner with four innings of one-hit, shut out relief.

Harmon Killebrew, one game ahead of Babe Ruth's record—60 pace of 1927, hit his twenty-eighth home run and drove in three runs for the Senators, who have won six of their last eight games. Roy Sievers smacked his ninth and Jim Lemon hit his twentieth, with two on, making it a breeze for Pascual (8-7) and giving the Nats 101 homers for the year. Duke Maas (6-5) was the loser.

Baumann Is Victor.

Sam White drove in five runs for the Red Sox in the opener with a pair of two-out hits. Tom Brewer (6-5) blanked the Birds on three singles. Jackie Jensen, who hit his eighteenth home run off loser Hector Brown (5-4) in the opener, had four singles and drove in three runs in the night-cap as Hoyt Wilhelm (9-4) lost his fourth in a row. Frank Baumann (3-1) was the second game winner, allowing only two hits but walking in a run and giving way to Frank Sullivan in the sixth. Gus Triandos hit his twentieth home run, a two-run shot in the seventh, for the Orioles.

A two-run first inning single by Joe Adcock and a pair of runs batted-in by Ed Mathews got the job done for the Braves. Richie Ashburn had half of the Phillies' hits and doubled for their only extra-base hit off Willey (4-2), who walked three. Gene Conley (6-5), and earlier shutout winner over his former Milwaukee mates, gave up 13 hits for the loss.

A tumbling catch by Wally Moon, with two on and two out in the eighth, and Danny McDevitts two-hit, shutout relief over the last four frames saved the opener for the Dodgers and Roger Craig (3-0). Moon singled home the winning run after Charlie Neal and Gil Hodges had homered off loser John Buzhardt (4-4).

A three-run sixth against losing reliever Glen Hobbie (9-7) wrapped up the second game for Los Angeles. Banks hit his twenty-third homer.

Ron Kline (7-6) had a three-hit shutout until Gus Bell's two-run homer in the ninth gave the Reds a tie in the second game. A double by Danny Kravitz, a force out, infield out and Bill Mazeroski's third single then made line a winner with a five-hitter. Orlando Pena (3-6) was the loser in relief. Don Hoak,s bases-empty home run, his eighth, triggered a three-run sixth inning against losing reliever Brooks Lawrence (3-9) that gave the opener to the Pirates.

Sir Hawley Due Here For Derby

By Herman Wecke

Three of the out-of-town nominees for the sixth running of the $15,000 added St. Louis Derby are due at the Cahokia track. The race, which will be run Saturday night, drew 45 nominations.

Sir Hawley, owned by Mrs. Lawrence E. Valier of Hopkins, Mo.; Miss Woodchuck, owned by Harold Shrader, and Preston Madden's Dhaulagiri will come from ThistleDown at Cleveland.

Of the trio, Sir Hawley is rated as the best. The Missouri-owned bay colt finished second to Calumet Stables' On and On in the Ohio Derby, a race in which Dhaulagirl finished in eighth place.

With a record number of 45 nominations, there is a chance that the winner will grab off a record purse. With $3000 to second; $2000 for third; $1000 for fourth and $500 to fifth, the victor with the nomination fees of $1125 is already assured of $9625. It costs $75 to enter and $125 to start in the classic.

The 15,171 fans who attended the Cahokia programs Friday night and Saturday afternoon sent a total of $740,876 through the mutuel windows for an average of better than $48 a person. . . . The betting total for the 50 days and nights totals $12,072,977, a daily average of $241,459.

The July 4 of $411,904 bettered the Independence day total of 1958, which was $372,355. . . . A total of better than $50,000 was wagered on each the seventh and eighth races Saturday. In only one race, the second, did the 1959 total fall below the 1958 figure.

Nine horses have been in the winner's circle on four occasions. . . . They are Busytwinkle, Marion Love, Clynon, Bold Man, Irish Dream, Light Lewis, Chief Please, Laurel Queen and Miss Mildred. . . . Ray Landing, the Stanton (Mo.) jockey, who won the riding title last year, needs only eight victories in the last 10 nights of racing to equal his 1958 total. . . . The nine firsts last week brought Landing's total to 46. . . . A year ago he won with 54 wins. . . . The annual Cahokia horsemen's party will be held tonight.

Miss Hanks Beaten in Net Final

CINCINNATI, July 6 (AP) — Form ran true to form in the women's singles final of the Tri-State tennis championships, when top-ranked Donna Floyd of Arlington, Va., defeated Carol Hanks of St. Louis, who had been seeded second, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

National collegiate champion Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., and San Jose State College won his second tennis tournament in a week as he whipped Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., and Yale in the men's singles finals, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-3.

Dell also was Reed's victim in the final of the NCAA tourney at Evanston, Ill., a week ago.

Reed and Dell were seeded one-two in the tri-state.

In the women's final, Miss Floyd took to a forcing game for the first time in the tournament after Miss Hanks' tremendous forehand shots had given her the first set.

Miss Floyd pulled away by rushing the net and scoring on sharp volleys.

Reed's bid for a share of another tri-state title was lost when John Powless of Flora, Ill., and John Skogstad of Coral Gables, Fla., took the men's doubles championship with a 2-6, 6-4, 8-6 victory over Reed and Grant Golden of Evanston, Ill.

Eastern Soccer Cup To Detroit

BOSTON, July 6 — A husky halfback and an untiring fullback sent Detroit's St. Andrew Scots into the national final in the National Amateur soccer cup series.

The halfback, Bill Clelland, and the back, Owen Tague, led Detroit to a 3-3 tie with the Boston Italia soccer club in the eastern final at nearby Malden yesterday. The tie gave Detroit the two-game, total-goal series, four goals to three. Detroit had won the first game last week 1-0.

(Detroit's opponent in the national final has not been determined. Kutis, the defending champion, meets Chicago's Slovak club at Public Schools Stadium, Saturday night, in a western semifinal. The winner will then oppose the California survivor in the division final. Out of those two matches will come the team that will face the Detroit Scots.)

Clelland, 22, a 6-1, 200-pound halfback, scored Detroit's third goal, a high, hard shot from 30 yards out. And he set up the second goal on a corner kick, turned into a goal by Matt Brown.

Tague, 39-year-old captain of the team, spent the second half intercepting the ball and breaking up the Boston passing attack, he was one of the reasons that goal-tender Norm Clemson had only three saves in the second half.

Detroit took an early two-goal lead on a penalty kick and Matt Brown's boot from 12 yards out. Then a fight broke out and one of Boston's top defensive players, Vittorio Damiano went to the hospital to have five stitches taken in a leg wound.

By comparison, Cosmo Del Anno in the Boston net had 26 saves, 17 of them in the second half. It was his sensational goal-guarding that kept Boston's hopes alive.

Boston tied the score on Walter Weber's penalty kick and Mario Lucci's head shot on a corner kick.

Vienna Eleven Beats New Yorkers, 12-1

NEW YORK, July 6—Winding up their undefeated visit to this city, the speedy Rapid soccer club of Vienna let go all stops in beating the Hapless Haokah-Galicia team, 12 goals to 1, yesterday.

The visitors, who led 8-0 at halftime, had 11 goals to their credit before they permitted their opponents to break through at Zerega Oval in the Bronx. Peter Reiter, playing at inside right for the Rapid club, accounted for six goals.

Spain 2, Turkey 0.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, July 6 (AP)—Spain defeated Turkey 2-0 in a soccer match between the "B" selections of both countries for the Mediterranean Cup.

says Motor Trend magazine

Here, in the magazine's own words, is a report on what they found—taken from page 26 of the June 1959 issue:

"Speaking of cake, here is one you can eat and still have, for this car meets all the requirements of multi-purpose motoring. It is big without being gross, goes very well . . . handles with a positive feather-light touch and rides beautifully, is roomy, well made and detailed—and above all, gives good mileage, which is usually hard to achieve with such lively performance."

"Quick steering, good braking, effortless acceleration, and wide visibility fore and aft make city driving a pleasure. Speed on the highway is deceptive as low road and engine noise and good road-holding characteristics give the illusion that the car is barely moving."

"The Chrysler Windsor is fun to drive. There is plenty of room for passengers and luggage. Handling is not impaired by the overall size . . . Rough roads smooth out well under Chrysler's torsion bar-leaf spring combination, and the shock absorbers continued to do their job after rough treatment both on and off the pavement of the test course."

Drury Beats Parker in Straight Sets in Muny Final

He'll Represent City In U.S. Parks Play

By Harold Flachsbart

Neil Drury, a slender, 6-foot senior at the University of Texas, today was the new Muny tennis champion of St. Louis and will represent the city in the National Public Parks championships at Pittsburgh in August.

The former Country Day School student, who won several Missouri state interscholastic titles as doubles partner with Washing University's Dick Horwitz, captured the Dwight Davis singles title yesterday by beating an amateur who almost could be called "an old pro."

Ward Parker, principal at Columbia Grade School in the St. Louis system, a graying campaigner in his middle forties who has played in hundreds of Muny matches and many national parks events, was the loser in the final, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Drury, whose summer-time employment is with his father, Lew Drury, at a large downtown garage, thought that net play was the decisive factor in the final.

Net Play Decisive.

"I guess almost every point was decided at the net," he said. "The reason I won, I suppose, was that I was able to handle myself at the net and also able to handle Parker when he went up there.

"When you play an experienced player like Parker, you must get him to play your game. If you play his game, you're cooked. I tried to keep my serve steady (he didn't lose it a single time), my volleys to set up points and my passing shots low and easy. If you hit 'em high, Parker can kill you."

Later in the summer Drury plans to play in several Midwest tournaments, including the Indiana State, which he won last year at Evansville.

Marilyn Mueller, the surprise victor Saturday over Merceina Parker in the women's singles final, added another title when she teamed with Dorothy Clayton to win the women's doubles crown. Their final-round victims were top-seeded Lydia Wieberg and Mary Ann Kramer, the Whiz Kids of some years back. Scores were 6-1, 6-1.

Parkers Lose in Doubles.

In a semifinal men's doubles match, Drury and Heinbecker defeated Jim and Ward Parker, 6-2, 6-4, 14-12.

Ward teamed with his wife, Merceina, to defeat Bill Heinbecker and Helen Clayton, 2-6, 7-5, 6-1 in a mixed doubles semifinal.

Title matches in other divisions will be scheduled later.

Tie at Greenbriar

Mr. and Mrs. Miller Hanson shot a net 62 to tie Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Weidlich in mixed two-ball foursome golf at Greenbriar Hills Country Club yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. J. Perry Morgan won the nine-hole event with net 24.

Ex-Champion and New Titleholder

WARD PARKER (left), five times Muny tennis champion, stands beside the new titleholder, NEIL DRURY, as they met for the Dwight F. Davis final on the Jefferson Memorial courts in Forest Park. Drury won, 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Perfect Score For Hinman in Shoot Event

Bob Hinman won the all-gauge championship of the Missouri Eastern Zone and Open skeet meet at the Jennings Gun Club grounds yesterday when he shot the only perfect score, 100, on the final day.

Other all-gauge results: Class AA, Dave Zaiden, 99; Class A Lee Montgomery, 97; Class B, Walter Chatten, Quincy, Ill., Class C, Paul Gildenhaus, 97; Class D, Jack Olsen, 93; Class E, William Mansfield, 94.

Edgar Hess of St. Louis won the Eastern Zone championship in a shootoff with Gildenhaus and Montgomery. Each scored 97 out of 100, and Hess broke 25 of 25 on the shootoff. Montgomery broke 24 and Gildenhaus 23.

Mrs. Jewel Chatten of Quincy won the women's championship with 95, and Dan Voorhees III, age 13, won the junior crown with 91.

The overall high score of the two-day meet was by Gildenhaus, 236 out of 250, in Class AA. In Class A Montgomery had 229; Class B, Hess, 235; Class C Mrs. Chatten, 231; Class D, Mansfield, 230.

Milwaukee Poloists Win.

MILWAUKEE, July 6 (AP) — Milwaukee Polo Club came from behind to score a 9-7 victory over the Chicago Mercurys. The Mercurys, playing with a two goal handicap, were ahead 5-1 at the half and 7-6 at the end of the third chukker. Milwaukee, using only one minute and 40 seconds of the final chukker, scored three goals to gain its victory.

Bluth Is Leader in Pin Series

BROOKLYN, N.Y., July 6 (UPI)—Ray Bluth of St. Louis, held the lead in the weekly "major league bowling" television show today with only two programs remaining.

Bluth defeated Lou Deturris of Richmond Hill, N.Y., 722-628, Saturday night to better a 708 series rolled by Tom Hennessey of St. Louis, four weeks ago.

Second Ward Team Takes League Lead

The Second Ward Democrats took over first place in the Khoury senior Missouri League yesterday by defeating the North Side Yanks, 7-4. The Yanks had been in first.

The Thomas Giants scored the winning run in the last half of the eighth to beat the Oilers, 6-5, and remain in first in the Charles A. Shaw League.

A10-1 win over Hillsboro gave the Times Beach Rams of the Travelers League their sixth win in seven games.

In Khoury junior action, Jim Cochran pitched a no-hitter for John L. and Sons, 10-0, winner over Art's Impalas in the A.F.M. No. 2 League.

of the monument to Barney Dreyfuss, who built the park and Pittsburgh's best ball clubs. And if 365 feet weren't deep and discouraging enough down the left field line, the high scoreboard is smack on the field and even the clock above it is in play.

The batting power of both sides predominantly is right-handed and for most American League hitters this will be their first look at Forbes Field's faraway places. If Harmon Killebrew, Rocky Colavito, Bill Skowron and the rest of Casey Stengel's sluggers clear the wall, they'll have to hit the Bugs Bunny ball right on its sensitive nose.

Both Stengel and Fred Haney, going back in triumph to the town from which he was fired only a few years ago, were saddled with righthanded-hitting lineups, if it can be said to be a problem having the American League hitters mentioned or Hank Aaron, Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda, etc.

It's a fact, anyway, that as selected by the players, the American League will have only one lefthanded hitter—little Nellie Fox—for the first three innings. And the sole southpaw batters on the National League side over that period will be Eddie Mathews and Moon.

The Nationals have a pretty impressive bench of lefthanded hitters, including Stan Musial, Bill White and Joe Cunningham of the Cardinals, Smokey Burgess and Vada Pinson. The American League has fewer lefthanded hitters available, though they're big-name players—Mantle, Ted Williams and Yogi Berra.

A Vote for N.L.

Now we wouldn't think of insulting the reader's intelligence or the All-Stars' ability, but the truth is that just as a crossfire southpaw can make even the best lefthanded hitters wish they'd stayed home with the wife and kiddies, so sidearming righthanders can rock rugged righthanded hitters back on their heels.

We asked Bill Norman, an astute baseball man, whether the righthanded pitchers selected by the American League fit that category. Ol' Will shook his head. No, he couldn't think of any whose very delivery would be as likely to be as bothersome as the Dodgers' rangy Don Drysdale and Phillies' Gene Conley could be in behalf of the National League.

You never can tell about one ball game, but if Haney needs any help from the pressbox with his managing, we'd use Drysdale, Conley and Roy Face; pitching a lefthander only in a spot if necessary, and we'd bet on the Nationals —and pick 'em.

Pete Traina's 2 Homers for 6 RBIs Beat Kutis South

Holder Wins on 4-Hitter

By Bob Posen

Soccer star Pete Traina can "sock" in baseball, too. The second baseman for the Carondelet Sunday Morning Club whacked two homers good for six runs, the margin of victory yesterday over Kutis South, in an important Muny senior South Side League game.

Kutis needed a win to get over the hump in a drive to catch the league-leading C.S.M.A.C., and Harry Lemakis got the second-place team off winging with a leadoff homer in the first inning. Righthander Duke Wodraska held the lead until the fifth when he was knocked out on two-run homers by Larry Smith and Traina.

Lemakis batted in another run in the sixth for Kutis, and it still was anybody's ball game in the eighth when reliever Al Westrich loaded the bases with a walk and two hit batsmen. It looked like he might work out of the trouble when the second out was made, but then Traina, who also won Carondelet's game a week ago with a three-run homer in the eighth against Borbein-Young, slammed a line drive to deep left center field.

The ball landed far out and quickly hopped out of sight, past the water fountain and down the embankment at Carondelet Park. The outfielder taking the relay didn't even have time to make a play—four runs were in and C.S.M.A.C. had iced the game for Wally Holder, who limited Kutis to four hits. So Kutis dropped back to third place, while the Kimacks, a 16-0, five-inning winner over the Hawks, moved up to second, two games behind C.S.M.A.C.

Printers Whip Borbein.

Kutis North remained 1½ games ahead of the Union Printers in the North Side League, crushing the United Auto Workers, 16-2, while the Printers whipped Borbein-Young 14-8. Kutis's 19 hits included four by Hal McBride and a homer by Don Mumm. Scaglione had a three-run homer among the Printers' 17 hits.

Ex-Brownie Ed Albrecht of the Villas blanked the Hoffmeisters, 3-0, on six hits in the Heine Meine League, cutting the margin between th 1-2 teams to 1½ games. Villa Shortstop Jerry Buchek was a defensive standout. The other Meine League game resulted in a second straight Sunday on which the Slays had to forfeit because they were left with only eight players. This time it happened when Catcher Ken Braden, knocked down hard by runner Ray Hrabrowsky as Braden was covering third base, got into a scrap with the Fendlers runner. Umpire Bill Vadalbene put both Braden and Hrabrowsky out of the game. The Fendlers were leading, in the sixth inning, 12-6.

Rollings the Game Hero.

Masters A.C. defeated its nearest rival in the Lemay League, Jefferson, 7-6. Lou Rollings, with two singles and a triple, drove in four runs including the winning one in the top half of the ninth. Center Fielder Rollings then made the game-ending catch of a fly hit over his head. Tom Lagow's homer and Phil Landis's 13-strike-out pitching paced the Vonder Haars over Rosati Knights of Columbus, 10-1.

In the Metroplitan League, pinch-hitter Wilson McCaskill's eleventh-inning sacrifice fly gave the Robins a 6-5 win over the East St. Louis Giants. Robin Pitcher James Bell had a two-run homer. The Blackhawks downed the Rockets, 6-4, with Manager James Walls's two-run homer in the sixth providing the margin. Clarence Carter of the Rockets hit a three-run homer. The Hawks were playing without two regulars who were seriously injured in a car wreck Saturday. One of them was Shortstop Clemmie Cannon, former Lincoln High basketball star.

Keeney-Toelle Wins County League Title

Keeney-Toelle is the first-half champion of the County Baseball League's National Division after defeating Davison, 3-2, in a playoff yesterday at Florissant. Davison won the second game of their doubleheader, which started regular second-half play, 6-4, while Ballwin, undefeated king of the American Division in the first half, started its second half with a 15-4 win over Manchester.

Mallory maintained its lead in the Missouri-Illinois Ban Johnson Baseball League yesterday with a 13-4 win over the Orioles.

Jean Gelner Wins Wichita Net Event

WICHITA, Kan., July 6 (UPI) — Oklahomans yesterday took both ends of the men's finals in the mid-continent tennis tournament, while Jean Gelner of St. Louis scored a mild upset in the women's singles.

Gene Land of Oklahoma City won his third straight mid-continent singles championship by defeating Arnold Short of Bartlesville, Okla., 6-4, 6-3. Land teamed with George Counts of Oklahoma City in the doubles to defeat Short and Wayne Hirst of Oklahoma City, 6-3, 6-3.

Miss Gelner beat Lenora Prosser of Kansas City, Kan., 6-0, 6-0, in the women's singles.

Pick-Off Scramble

Los Angeles Dodgers Shortstop MAURY WILLS not only makes the successful tag of DALE LONG in this pick-off play at second base, but he holds onto the ball as he rolls over. The throw came from Dodgers' Catcher John Roseboro. The Dodgers won the Sunday game at Chicago, 4-3.

St. Gabriel Undefeated In C.Y.C.

St. Gabriel is the only undefeated senior team in Catholic Youth Council baseball today. After the Bishop Winkelmann League leader defeated St. John the Baptist, 7-3, yesterday on one Cherokee Park diamond, Prep Seminary fell from the unbeaten ranks in the Cardinal Glennon League on another Cherokee field.

Resurrection surprised Prep, 11-3, as Phil Rhode and Al Heimos each had three hits, Rhode including a grand slam home run and Heimos a double and a homer. In the same league Ray Boncek had a single, double and triple for St. Anthony in a 19-1 win over St. Michael.

Tom Trost's three hits included a double and homer for Holy Rosary, the Bishop Helmsing League leader, which beat St. Roch, 14-3.

Two no-hit games were recorded in the C.Y.C. juvenile Msgr. Mulally League. Bob Lane of St. Michael struck out nine in his seven-inning no-hitter against St. Hedwig, 4-0, while Ed Jruener of Immaculate Heart of Mary fanned six in a five-inning job, 12-0, against St. Mary Magdalen.

man Hays, which was not according to the rules of the House," he said. "The committee was proceeding in an improper manner. Only House members are allowed to cross-examine, and Alford's attorney was permitted to do so. Furthermore, he attempted to inject a personal fight into the issue.

"I am sorry but I can't get in bad with Ashmore by giving you the hearings," concluded the Congressman from Michigan.

One day later, Lesinski was asked again for the hearings. He replied: "Dear friend, he (Ashmore) is chairman of the committee. This is an important matter. There was a mixup at the beginning and we are trying to straighten it out."

"What was the mixup?" Lesinski was asked.

Lawmaker Irritated.

The Congressman would not explain further. He seemed a bit irritated that anyone should persist in wanting to read the record of a public hearing, paid for by the taxpayers' money, which pertained to one of the most important elections held recently in the South.

Even though the hearings are suppressed, it can be reported that the stickers bearing the printed name of Dale Alford as the write-in candidate arrived at the polling places inside the ballot boxes. Gov. Faubus not only had picked Alford as his candidate but had sent the printed stickers inside the ballot boxes when the boxes were delivered. Some of the election judges even helped voters to put the write-in stickers on the ballots.

Supreme Court

martial for military rape and murder cases at such times. Justices Harlan and Clark, dissenting, said the determination of war and peace had always been the business of the political branches, not the courts. (Lee v. Madigan.)

BUSINESS REGULATION.

The Federal Power Commission found itself at opposite ends of the judicial pendulum during the term.

Its position that natural gas companies with the most common form of contract may raise their rates without prior commission approval was approved by the court, 5-3, to the relief of the anxious gas industry. The dissenters were Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black and Douglas. (United Gas Pipe Line v. Memphis.)

But seven Justices reversed the FPC for not weighing the reasonableness of rates before approving new natural gas supply contracts, the two others joining on narrower grounds. (Atlantic Refining v. New York P.S.C.)

And the court unanimously sustained as constitutional a state law prohibiting a store from lowering prices to meet trading stamp competition. (Safeway Stores v. Oklahoma Retail Grocers.)

ANTI-TRUST LAW.

The court settled one long-debated anti-trust question when it held that a party seeking treble damages for an alleged group boycott by his suppliers need not show any particular injury to the public. (Klor v. Broadway-Hale.)

The lower court had held that the plaintiff had to prove that an injury such as higher prices resulted from the boycott. But the Supreme Court said that Congress, in enacting the anti-trust laws, had found a public injury in the forcing of even a single company out of business by monopolistic practices.

LABOR LAW.

A 5-4 majority delineated more clearly than ever the boundary between state and federal power over labor disputes under the terms of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The rule laid down was that a state court may not award damages for any activity either protected or prohibited by the federal law unless violence is involved. Justice Frankfurter wrote for the majority; Justices Harlan, Clark, Whittaker and Stewart dissented. (San Diego Building Trades v. Garmon.)

ADMIRALTY.

The court held, 5-4, that the statute giving the federal courts jurisdiction over cases "arising under" federal laws did not include cases governed by the nonstatutory maritime law laid down by federal judges. Justice Frankfurter wrote the majority opinion, Justice Brennan the principal dissent, with the Chief Justice and Justices Black and Douglas also dissenting. (Romero v. International Terminal.)

French Parity

have opposed the integration of ground forces, and have declined to permit the United States to store nuclear weapons on French soil.

On the last point the officials noted that the De Gaulle government's position was nothing new. Governments of the Fourth Republic also declined to give the United States nuclear bomb storage rights. The issue came to a head recently, not because of French demands but because the NATO command decided that nuclear bombers and their weapons could no longer remain separated.

Red Manpower

eral condition of the Soviet Union.

In January, the U.S.S.R. population was 208,800,000, with women outnumbering men 55 to 45. The entire disparity in the sex ratio—20,000,000 persons—is concentrated in the ages 32 and over. Among those under 32, according to the Soviet census announcement, the number of males and females is approximately equal.

"The implications of these major revelations are clear enough," Cook added. "At the end of World War II the U.S.S.R. was far weaker in manpower resources than the Western powers assumed. She had then only about 25,000,000 able-bodied males between the ages of 20 and 45, and about 10,000,000 of them were mobilized for military service.

Increase of 38,000,000.

"The new count of 208,800,000 represents an increase of 38,000,000 over the 1939 census. Somewhat less than 20,000,000 of this increase must be attributed to territorial annexations."

Cook commented that the widespread use of women in all labor, from cleaning streets to the professional level, came as much from necessity as it did from the desire to "emancipate" women.

He said the manpower problem had become less acute and "paradoxically, there has recently been rather widespread unemployment, especially among youths graduated from the 10-year general schools, who have been denied enrollment in advanced schools. The pressure on these youngsters to go to work has been severe."

He said that 48 per cent of Russia's population is in the cities, compared with 32 per cent in 1939, showing "how out-dated is the traditional concept of Russia as a vast nation of agricultural peasants."

CORN PRICES SLUMP, WHEAT IS HIGHER

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP) — Heavy selling knocked nearby corn futures prices down sharply today on the Board of Trade following reports of almost ideal growing conditions over the major producing areas.

The July delivery was down two cents a bushel or more at times.

Wheat again was the firmest grain with advances running to major fractions, on a fairly active flour mill and export demand. There still appeared to be very little of the new crop moving into commercial positions although hedge selling was somewhat heavier.

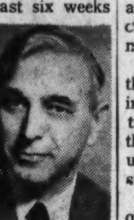
OFFERS FIGURES IN STEEL DISPUTE

By J. A. Livingston

"Throughout the wage dispute with the United Steelworkers union, the steel industry has stood pat on: 'No wage increase, no price increase.'"

That epitomizes what has been going on for the last six weeks between the union and the industry.



J. A. Livingston

Yet, I wrote it seven years ago when Philip Murray was head of the United Steelworkers, not David J. McDonald, and Benjamin Fairless, not Roger Blough, was chairman of United States Steel Corp.

However, the reason for the industry's stand was the same than as now. "The steel industry's strategy," I noted, "has been dictated by feast-and-famine economics. Over the 27-year period from 1925-51, steel companies have averaged only 6 per cent on their net worth as against 10 per cent for the manufacturing industry as a whole." The steel industry, in 1951, was determined to catch up with industry as a whole—to narrow the profit differential.

No Longer a Stepchild.

The strategy has been effective. The steel industry is no longer an industrial stepchild in profits as a per cent of net assets. It has caught up. As the Steelworkers wrung wage increases from the companies, the companies wrung higher prices and profits from steel users.

In 1955, when all manufacturing earned 15 per cent on its net assets, the steel industry earned 15.2 per cent; in 1956, when the fanufacturing rate was 13.9 per cent, the steel industry earned 13.9 per cent. In 1957, manufacturing earned 12.8 per cent, steel 13.2 per cent. But last year, during the recession, there was a reversal — all manufacturing 9.8 per cent, steel 8.2 per cent. But steel has caught up and the catch-up can be visualized:

Period	Profits as % of Net Assets Steel	Profits as % of Net Assets All Mfg.	Steel Profit Rate as % of All Mfg.
1925-29	7.3%	11.0%	66%
1930-34	—0.5	3.0	Minus
1935-39	3.4	8.2	41

1945-49	9.9	14.2	70

About 20 days ago, Raymond P. Brandt, Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, asked President Eisenhower:

"Mr. President, both the steel management and the steel unions are issuing self-serving statistics which are in great conflict. Is there any way that the government can bring out some impartial figures on profits and wages and productivity so the people can understand the issue and make their own decisions?"

The President answered: "I think you have asked the most intelligent question on this particular matter. . . . I haven't thought about it in this particular way . . . but I'll take your suggestion and have it studied."

The above table answers the question. It shows that profits of all industry relative to net assets have increased. As wages advanced, manufacturing companies managed to increase profits per dollar of investment. How? In two ways: By raising prices and by raising productivity. Post-war outlays on new plant layouts and new machinery have enabled workers to turn out more materials and finished products per hour.

The table indicates that the steel industry, since the war, has increased its profit ratio more than industry as a whole. Its profit ratio from 1955-58 was 98 per cent of that of all manufacturing, whereas in 1945-49 it was only 70 per cent.

The steel industry has been able to achieve parity in profits while lifting the average wage to just about tops in the country—more than $3 an hour. It has increased wages 264 per cent since 1939. The corresponding wage increase for manufacturing was 254 per cent.

To Save McDonald's Face.

These conclusions are warranted: The steelworker has gained status and earnings in the war and post-war period. The steel industry, by advancing its profit ratio relative to manufacturing in general, has ceased to be a feast-famine sufferer. This was demonstrated last year, when it made a profit despite a sharp drop in operations. Thus, the strategies of both union and industry have been satisfied.

So, what is the present hassle about? Simply this: One, McDonald, in the good, old labor-union tradition of Samuel Gompers, wants "more." Two, President Eisenhower has made it clear to both the union and the industry that he will regard an increase in prices as an inflationary impetus. Three, this takes away the industry's former leeway.

Blough cannot do what Fairless did—grant a wage increase, pass it on to consumers and so achieve higher profit margins. This time, any wage increase will have to come out of profits. And that hardens the issue. What is the industry willing to pay to save McDonald's face?

STEELS LEAD AS INDUSTRIALS TOP RECENT RECORD

NEW YORK, July 6 (UPI)—Steels put on a late show of strength today as industrial stocks soared to new all-time average highs.

Gains in the steels ran to 5 points in Youngstown, most of it accumulated in the last hour of trading, and to more than 3 in Wheeling and aroud 2 in U.S. Steel.

Litton also put on a late rally to finish with a gain of more than 6 in the electronics. General Motors added 2 in its group. Universal Oil Products was up more than a point in the oils, trading on a late block of 33,300 shares.

The summer rally picked up right where it left off last Thursday before the market closed for the long holiday weekend. There was a little profit-taking in some of the recent favorites but it was pretty easily absorbed.

Non-ferrous metals were in favor as were selected drugs and electronics. Tires, oils and aircrafts were lower.

American Home Products was an individual standout, rising 7 points at its high before running into some mild realizing of profits.

Among the steels, gains of around a point were noted in Armco, Bethlehem, Colorado Fuel & Iron, Republic, and Wheeling Steel—all of which also hit new highs for the year. Alcoa, Reynolds and Kaiser were strong in the aluminums.

The Associaed Press said that oils and aircrafts remained lower and there were losses scattered in various sections of the list as profits were taken.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $1.10 to a record $232.20 with the industrials unchanged, and the utilities up 30 cents.

The rise to historic highs on Thursday, the last pre-weekend session, and the continuance of encouraging news about the economy contributed to a renewed feeling of confidence on Wall street.

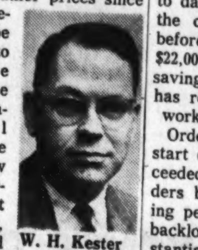
Another Rise in Prices Likely, International Shoe Co. Reports

Firm's President Says New Increase Is Needed Because of Advance in Hide and Leather Costs.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent.

Another advance in shoe prices appears imminent, Henry H. Rand, president of International Shoe Co., said today in his midyear report to stockholders. In April, at the opening of the fall selling season, prices were hiked about five per cent because of the substantial rise in hide prices.

A new increase is needed because of the continued advance in hide and leather prices since April. The report said, "Shoe prices put into effect at the opening of the fall selling season in April were in line with the raw material markets at that time. However, the hide and leather markets have continued to advance until they are again significantly above our present shoe prices."



W. H. Kester

Between mid-April and mid-May hide prices declined as much as 6 cents a pound. Since mid-May prices have risen, with some kinds of hides now at highs for recent years. Leather prices have advanced substantially since April.

Increase in Profits.

The market rise in hide and leather prices, in conjunction with the last-in, first-out (lifo) method of valuation of inventories and small increase in shoe prices, limited the advance in profits, Rand stated. Net income in the six months ended May 31 was $3,881,210, equivalent to $1.16 per share, compared with $3,374,-621 in the corresponding period last year, or $1.01 per share, an increase of 15 per cent.

If the first-in, first-out (fifo) method of inventory valuation had been in use, the company's net income would have been $1,497,035 greater than it was under the "lifo" basis. Net income calculated on a "fifo" basis would have been equivalent to $1.60 per share, the report states.

Apparently this involved explanation to the shareholders was made by Rand because net income rose only at about the same rate as did sales. Usually, profits gain at a faster pace than sales in a recovery period. Net sales in the six months ended May 31 were $134,015,282 compared with $117,069,632 a year earlier, a gain of 14½ per cent. Sales in the first half of the fiscal year were the second highest in the company's history, exceeded only by sales in the first half of fiscal 1956.

Although the "lifo" inventory method had a substantial effect on earnings in the first half of the fiscal year, it also has reduced taxes and provided more working capital than with the "fifo" method calculation. Since "lifo" method was adopted in 1941- 1942, the cumulative effect to date has been a reduction in the company's stated earnings before taxes of approximately $22,000,000. This resulted in a tax saving of about $13,000,000, which has remained in the company's working capital.

Orders received since the start of the season in April exceeded by a large percentage orders booked in the corresponding period of last year and the backlog of unfilled orders is substantially higher than a year ago, Rand reported.

Allegheny Ludlum Steel Corp. has purchased land in the Lindbergh-Warson Industrial Center and will build a new tool steel warehouse there to replace present inadequate facilities, Robert K. Esler, district manager of the company announced. The site for the new building is between the existing building of General Electric Appliance Co. and American Box Board Co. plant on Baur boulevard.

Building plans are being prepared by the company's engineering department in Pittsburgh and contracts will be handled there.

R. J. Bugni has been appointed to the newly created position of works manager of Town and Country Shoes, Inc.

Frederick W. Schulte has been appointed St. Louis district manager for the engineering works division of Dravo Corp.

Raymond L. Seaman has been named general credit manager of International Shoe Co.

Festus J. Krebs, Jr., has been elected vice president of Roman Advertising Co.

Raymond Friedman has been appointed general agent in the St. Louis area for Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Nebraska.

Harry F. Langenberg, a partner of Reinholdt & Gardner, has been elected president of the St. Louis Society of Financial Analysts.

James L. Sloss Jr., secretary and director of Comfort Printing and Stationery Co., has been elected a director of the Columbia Federal Savings and Loan Association of St. Louis.

Elam Grain Co. has made an extended lease agreement for the tenancy of the railroad terminal elevator facilities at 4040 Duncan avenue with the Wabash Railroad, owners.

Beacon for Rescue Craft

Towering column of smoke serves as beacon for vessels moving to the aid of the burning Belgian freighter in the Gulf of Mexico yesterday. Twenty-six crew members were towed in lifeboats to Cameron, La., after the fire broke out yesterday and the remaining 12, including the master, were taken ashore today when efforts to save the vessel were abandoned. Explosions aboard the ship ended efforts to save it after it had been towed to within three miles of the shore. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

Collision Survivor

M. L. Robertson of Jacksonville, Fla., looks over his automobile after a bus crashed into it on highway near Jacksonville early yesterday. Robertson and a passenger crawled uninjured from the wreckage. Left rear wheel of the automobile is underneath the bus. —Associated Press Wirephoto.

Traffic Artery in the Making

Future traffic artery takes shape in aerial view of southwest St. Louis where work is in progress on McCausland avenue improvement. Street now ends at Manchester avenue after running down from Skinker boulevard (top center) and under the Daniel Boone Expressway. Improvement project will extend McCausland from Manchester under Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks and past Arsenal street viaduct in right foreground as part of the program to make the street a continuous north-south thoroughfare.

For Low Level Flight

Twelve-passenger craft built for extreme low level flight rests on Lake Zurich in Switzerland in preparation for tests last week. Air is diverted downward after being sucked into vents in bow, providing lifting power and the cushion of air on which the craft, dubbed a hovercraft, is propelled forward.

'Home' Is a Word With Many Meanings

HOME . . . It is a lot more to me than the pink and black house in which I live. It is contentment, a slowing down of the stresses of making a living. It is a deep, easy chair, and the smell of a roast sizzling in its own juices. It's a familiar bed that knows every inch of a tired body.

JIM BISHOP

More than anything else, home is Gayle, dark-haired and a half a woman, bounding in, running out, playing that insufferable Rock and Roll, shielding her father from the world of women on the one hand, and telling him, like a confidential old crony, that he ought to get married in the next.

It is the thunder of the surf tolling the deep bells at night. It is a rack of unread magazines, a stack of Frankie Carle records, a typewriter, a green telephone, a medicine chest where I can find anything in the dark.

Home is a village a half mile away dotted with familiar faces. It is the rough jest of old friends, a pool table in the back of Jim Sullivan's tavern, an exchange of greetings with Clarence Stevens, the town clerk. It is 10 minutes of browsing in Fowler's hardware store, a little philosophy exchanged with pharmacist Goldberg, a whispered joke in Cy and Art's store.

It is the little river behind the house, racing to the sea, always making it, never making it, always running. It is the hill of Highlands, with its blind lighthouses; it is a pebbly road behind Locust Point where Arthur Brower lives.

Home is the buzz of bees, the smell of trampled sassafrass, honeysuckle after a summer shower. It is clear cool air and a rusty tramp on the horizon rolling to Rio. It's the boardwalk at Asbury Park, a rug auction, a hot dog. It is mass at Holy Cross, the unselfish affection of two police dogs, the sound of 3000 leaves in the poplar tree talking back to a breeze.

Home is my Ginny, 9.8 miles to the west in Lincroft. No father will ever get more love than the girl can give in a glance. Home is her twin daughters, Robin and Pamela, the two-toothed grins, the wet kisses on the cheek, the incessant da-da-da-da. It is Charlie too, their father, a better son than I could hope for.

It is Rumson road, beautiful Rumson road, canopied with oaks, with an honor guard of red maples, and big homes full of small people. Home is the group of breeding farms, the switching tails of mares, the awkward scampering of colts.

Home is also the town of Red Bank, with its shops, its traffic, its heat. Home is Kislin's big store, Joe Irwin's yacht basin with the big boats and the little ones swinging at their moorings. Home is a big seawall across the street, a sea gull gliding up and down the shore, crying for fish she cannot see.

It is Chief Dundas, the friend who lives with me, working on the boat in old slacks and a sweater; it is Marvin Fowler bringing the mail and a smile; it is the frightening wail of the fire siren, crying hurry in the middle of the night.

Home is two wild ducks who fly in twice a week to drink from the fountain on the lawn and waddle around studying what passes for civilization.

It is an inclosed porch with a glider and aluminum chairs; a terrace on top of an old garage with a view of the sea; a cool dark tool shed where nothing is where I left it. Home is a color television set, a pine bar against a picture window, a state of mind.

It is many, many things. It is a picture of Elinor, a brass statue of Our Lady of Guadalupe, a rusty rifle hanging on a den wall. It is many books on many shelves, a ball point pen that refuses to write, a dripping faucet, the hum of an exhaust fan in the kitchen.

It is familiar drapes, the stout figure of Roberta Lane cooking everything a la Lynchburg, a rug with an old stain. Home is a worn pair of moccasins, a soiled bathrobe, an empty Kleenex container, a cherished memento in a bureau drawer.

Home . . .

Youth Parade--Tan 'n' Trim Routine for Summer

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

1. WANT TO BE A SUN-SATIONAL beauty this season? We've invited a panel of Hollywood experts to share their special summer diet and sun tan formula—which are yours free (see P.S.). Remember play clothes put more you in view, so expand your tan 'n' trim routine to include your limbs. Will they pass the summer spotlight? Are they flake-free and does your toe and nail polish match as LUCI BLAIN'S does?

2. ACCOMPANY your "operation streamline" with a beauty rub-down. Legs become glossy and glamorous when a dash of salt is added to your cold cream lotion. If skin is normal, the gentle abrasive action removes dry skin and leaves limbs tingling smooth.

3. TEAMING EXERCISE WITH DIET firms figure and generally eliminates flabby look. Legs and torso particularly benefit from this "stretch-out." While seated on floor, press knees to chest. Then, in a series of slicing kicks, gradually straighten legs until fully elongated. Luci, seen in Allied Artists' "Speed Crazy," practices 10 times.

P.S. A special tan 'n' trim diet is yours free! For the first time you can have the Hollywood experts' special tanning recipe and summer diet. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to "Youth Parade," in care of the Post-Dispatch. Only those inclosing addressed envelope and stamp can be answered.

Mafia in Sicily Has Language of Its Own

This is the story of the Mafia on its own home grounds—Sicily. There, as in the United States, a small group preys on the thousands of innocent, law-abiding citizens. The writer has gone into its mountain heartland to get the inside story of the terror organization. Serialization of the book, "Brotherhood of Evil: The Mafia" starts Sunday in the Post-Dispatch.

By George Weller

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1959.

PALERMO, Sicily, July 6. "CATCHING THE MAFIA mobs would be easy," sighed a crack Italian detective, "if the Sicilians spoke only Italian."

Baffled detectives from Los Angeles to Palermo — American, Italian and Italo-American—all wish they could speak Sicilian.

Listening at open transoms and hotel balconies, crouched over radio pickups in cars in alleys, clamped to headphones in the back room behind an international telephone switchboard: All they hear is the mysterious tongue of the Mafia, practically a language of its own.

Every Sicilian has at least two languages: Sicilian and Italian. The Sicilian dialect has an Italian base, thickly obscured with Arabic, Spanish, Greek and patches of Maltese and Corsican. The Mafiosi as a clan have their own language of coercion. And each of about 50 Mafias has its own private business code, different from its competitors.

What, for example, are "oranges"? The police tappers would like to know.

The Mafiosi of all Italy, a few months ago, had a mania for calling up the Brooklyn phone number of Joseph Profaci, the hoodlum, and talking oranges. Profaci has three relatives in his Mafia-run hometown, Villabate: A baker, a tailor and a mason.

But it wasn't the Profacis who called Joe about oranges. It was Lucky Luciano in Naples, Frank Coppola in Anzio (a deported heroin-hustler) and Nino Cottone, the Villabate-born Mafioso of the Palermo waterfront.

"Were the 'oranges' as sweet as in the old days? How much were they a crate, now, in Palermo? And in New York?"

On and on about "oranges"—at $4 a minute in toll charges.

The detectives figured that with heroin at $4000 a kilo in Sicily, about $1200 could be put in a wax orange, a standard Sicilian product. They broke open many a wax orange for the few weeks—in vain. "Oranges" was something else. Sardine cans, perhaps. Or white plaster statuettes of St. Rosalia, the friend of all Sicilians.

The big-shot mentality of the Mafia mob comes from the two Arab centuries of the Berbers in Western Sicily, when the boss-protector was the sheik.

A Mafia has no members, but "friends of friends," which means the same thing, but is deliberately ambiguous.

When they were professional vigilantes on hire, the Mafiosi called themselves "compagni d'armi"—"comrades in arms." As they went underground they shifted to calling each Mafia a "cosca" or "coscia," meaning a "bunch," as in a bunch of cabbage or cauliflower. Tearing off many leaves from the "cosca" brings you to the heart: The "Capo Mafia," the boss.

A beginner Mafioso is a "picciottu," Sicilian for a "kid," or "character." When raw and untrained, he can be even a "mezzre-Picciottu — "a demi-character."

For 10 or 15 years, in a profitable "cosc" unencumbered by vendettas, the Mafia heeler runs around collecting "pizzu," or "cuts" in cash, wheat, barley or chickens from frightened farmers. When payments lag, he may steal cattle or apply the Mafia's warning of back payments: A favorite dog shot dead or poisoned.

Gradually he gets known as an "indizo," in Italian, "inteso," meaning a guy who "knows," an insider. When he kills, he becomes a "uomo di pancia," "a guy with a hard belly."

By age 40 he becomes a "pezzu di novanta"—a "ninety-piece." This title comes from the dream book that governs the Italian's choice of numbers in the federal lottery. As 17 is misfortune, 22 is madness, and 33 is Christ's age. The number 90 is the highest possible, and means "fear."

A Mafioso may mutter merely "forty-seven," which means "death to the man who speaks."

The highest title, for the "uomu di rispettu," or "man of respect" who directs a Mafia is "don"—a confusing title, since it is the common prefix also for a priest, equivalent to the English "father."

The millionaire, long time "king of the Mafias," "Don" Calogero Vizzini of Villalba, intimate working partner of Lucky Luciano and Vito Genovese, had two brothers who were priests: Don Salvatore Vizzini and Don Giovanni Vizzini. These confusions keep detectives on their toes.

By his intimates on the mob and by leaders of other Mafias, the "Don" is called "Zi'" for "Zio," or "uncle," as "Zi' Calo," for Vizzini. The common "piccioteu," greeting his boss, says, "Baciamu il manu" — "I kiss your hand."

The police are "Zi' Angelo"—"Uncle Angelo"—to the Mafia rather than "pizzardoni"—bodyguards"—as they are in ironic Italian. The Mafia's expression comes from "angelo custode" or "guardian angel."

To kill is generally simply to "sistemare," or "settle." The Mafioso dislikes these explicit terms. To condemn to death he merely names the enemy contemptuously and spits three times. This is his oath, and his enemy's irrevocable sentence.

Sicilians shy from the word "Mafia" and use terms like "the twister caps," or "those with caps worn a la 23" (slanting). For the top Mafioso in the country the euphemism is sometimes "birritti" or beret-wearers" The rural extortionist affects high boots, jodphurs, a corduroy jacket and a beret.

The country Mafias, considering themselves the true aristocrats, call the city Mafias of the markets "pea hagglers."

In Mafia-ridden Favara, on Sicily's south coast, where the dramatist Luigi Pirandello said, "The Mafia would strangle a child for three pennies," a vendetta forced the two rival Mafias to choose gang names.

One Mafia called itself "Pampini" or "leaves" to show membership in the "cosca" or "bunch." The other called itself "Codi Piatti" or "flat tails," to indicate they would wriggle under any obstacle.

Traveling With Children Can Be Fun

By Grace Langdon and Irving W. Stout

"I'M GOING on my vacation pretty soon," announced 6-year-old Richard recently, "and I'm packing all the time now."

"When are you going?" we asked. "Oh, I think August," he answered. "And you are packing already?" we said. "Yes," came the quick reply. "I'm packing and unpacking all the time so I'll be ready." Mother says that is exactly what is happening. We thought perhaps he had just picked August as the vacation time out of the air so to speak. No, that is it.

Richard is an old hand at packing. He has had his own small suitcase since he was 2 and he does his own packing for all the family trips. It is a very traveling family and Mother has thought that part of the fun is for him and his older brother to be responsible for taking along the things they want to have with them.

Children do enjoy packing their own suitcases and there is good learning in it besides the fun. It is an opportunity to help him to learn to do thoughtful planning. It is good, too, for him to have a say-so about the playthings he will take along.

With summer travel days ahead it's time to be thinking how they can be made easy and enjoyable for the youngsters. Incidentally, having them comfortable and content adds as well to grown-up enjoyment, including those being visited and those met en route.

Deciding what toys to take along is one of the first things to think about. The youngster himself is the only one who can know just which ones he wants. They make some strange selections sometimes but what matter? It is fun to slip in some new ones too for a surprise.

If you take puzzles it saves worry about lost pieces to have each in its own bag. A box or two or a picnic basket to keep the toys in saves confusing clutter.

It is a good idea to start off with a lot of fun-things in mind to do en route whether travel is by plane, train, boat or car. Children get tired of watching scenery. If travel is by car there are many games to play by using the numbers on license plates of passing cars.

The mother of three says that one thing that has added to their trips is having each youngster take his own pillow and light blanket. She says, "They settle down to sleep better ever since we began doing that. It's like a touch of home." Another thing these parents do is to make sure to stop every two hours at least to let the youngsters have a run. That is wise. Children are used to being active from daylight to dark and being confined to small space is bound to be tiring to them.

Travel time can be fun for little children and for those who go with them, but it takes planning to make it so.

What Did She Lose?

Dear Ann:

I'M A WIDOW, 33, and for the past eight months I've been dating a bachelor, 37. We are not engaged nor has anything definite been said, although neither of us dates anyone else.

ANN LANDERS

Recently he told me his parents, who live in another state, were planning a visit. The way he announced it, I gathered he was hitting for me to invite them to stay in my home. I have a lovely place which I put on the market for sale last month.

His hints fell on deaf ears as it would have meant taking the house off the market while his folks were in town. Also, I didn't feel that I owed his parents anything, although I suspected they were coming to town to "look me over."

They stayed in town a week. I invited them to dinner but they said they couldn't make it. They came for coffee one evening, however.

It's been three weeks since their departure and I haven't heard a word from my friend. It's obvious I didn't pass the parental inspection.

Do you think I made a mistake by not inviting his parents to stay with me? I miss him. He was my only marriage prospect and now he's gone. Please advise.

—STRAWBERRY BLONDE.

Dear Strawberry: Your friend was presumptuous to expect you to house his parents. You were right to feign deafness. In my opinion you're better off without him. Eight months is a long time for a 37-year-old bachelor to go with a woman and not utter a single syllable about the future. Good riddance.

Dear Ann:

I'M 42 AND BEING MARRIED for the second time. My future husband wants me to wear white because he says it's becoming to me. I've read in your column that it's not proper for a woman who has been married before to wear white. Would it be all right if I wore a street-length white dress? The wedding will be at 3 p.m. I hope you say yes because I want to look my best for him. —EDNA.

Dear Edna: When I advise a widow or divorcee against marrying "in white" I mean the traditional white gown and veil. The white bridal outfit is a symbol of purity and once is the limit. I suggest you wear a white linen suit or a white street length dress. A small hat in a pastel shade with matching gloves would be attractive and it would take you out of the "all white" category.

Finds His Book Has Dog Appeal

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6.

THE FIRST BOOK REVIEWS are in the morning mail. "Travels of a blithe spirit," says the Chicago Tribune critic. That is me. A blithe spirit.

"However," says the critic, "he goes in for short, short sentences. Which makes it like trying to read on a bumpy bus."

I blame this on short, short city editors. "Keep those sentences SHORT!" they cried. They made me what I am today. Like a bus with a flat tire.

We read these reports with an eye to picking up better quotes. Best quotes are excerpted and put on future dust jackets.

If you cut cleverly, it sounds like you are quite a blithe spirit.

". . . Occasionally very funny," says the New York Times man, "but he is an excellent reporter with a light touch."

Now if we knock off everything up to and including the "but," we have a nice thing there. ". . . an excellent reporter with a light touch." Touche? Do you dig?

My favorite critic is a Santa Cruz (Calif.) dog. The lady who owns this dog has written me a letter:

"The dog chewed up the copy I bought. Please have the store send me another one."

There is a dog with a literary taste.

He did not reach for Gibbon's "Decline and Fall." He did not nibble at "Ehrlich's Blackstone," a delicious volume written by J. W. (Jake the Master) Ehrlich, the barrister. (I have chewed it myself. It has a minty taste.)

No, sir. When it comes to flavor, four out of five dogs choose MY book. They choose it over Red Heart.

This is something the critics have overlooked. It is something the publishers have overlooked.

There are something like 36,000,000 dogs in the United States. If every dog would eat one of my books, the result would be staggering. If you have not bought your dog one of these taste thrills, do so immediately.

The Santa Cruz lady does not say why she wants another book. "Have the store send me another book," she says.

At first, I thought the dog had chewed up the book before she could read it and I was flattered. Now it occurs to me she simply wants another book because she loves that dog.

That dog likes to chew my book. And she wants to satisfy his appetite. This does not help my literary ego much. But it is awfully good for book sales. We cannot have everything. Anyway, it is nice to have dogs like you. Even nicer if they like your books, too.

So far, our dog, Inc., has not shown the proper attitude toward this book. He has not chewed a single page. He chews practically everything else and you should see the garden furniture.

This dog is the world's only incorporated dog. To a great extent his income, his daily food, comes from this book. You would think he could be more interested. But no. He chews the expensive garden chairs.

This is certainly a poor example to set to neighboring dogs. It is bad for his corporate interests.

However, we still have the Santa Cruz dog who is CRAZY about this book.

By popular request of millions of dogs, I shall say that one of the chewiest books you could find today is called "The Little World of Stanton Delaphane."

Modesty prevents me from printing the name of the blithe author. But he is "an excellent reporter with a light touch."

How Smut Can Damage Our Children

Psychiatrist Says Sex and Crime Books Can 'Seduce Person to Violence'—Cases Cited

By Alfred C. Roller

SECOND OF THREE ARTICLES

THERE IS NO QUESTION that a mountain of sex and crime books is being served up to today's younger generation, but some people still need to be convinced that they are harmful.

Many take the complacent attitude: So what? The kids have to learn about sex someplace. It might as well be from a girly magazine or some other trash.

But a talk with Dr. Fredric Wertham, New York psychiatrist, a leader in the fight against juvenile delinquency and author of many articles and books on the subject, quickly dispels any doubts that this filth is corrupting the younger generation.

Dr. Wertham, who organized the Lafargue Cilnic in the heart of Harlem, explained that smut can actually "seduce a person to violence."

In his studies Dr. Wertham has examined the whole field of pornography and crime books, and he indicated that he has come across many youngsters who have been stimulated into criminal acts by these books.

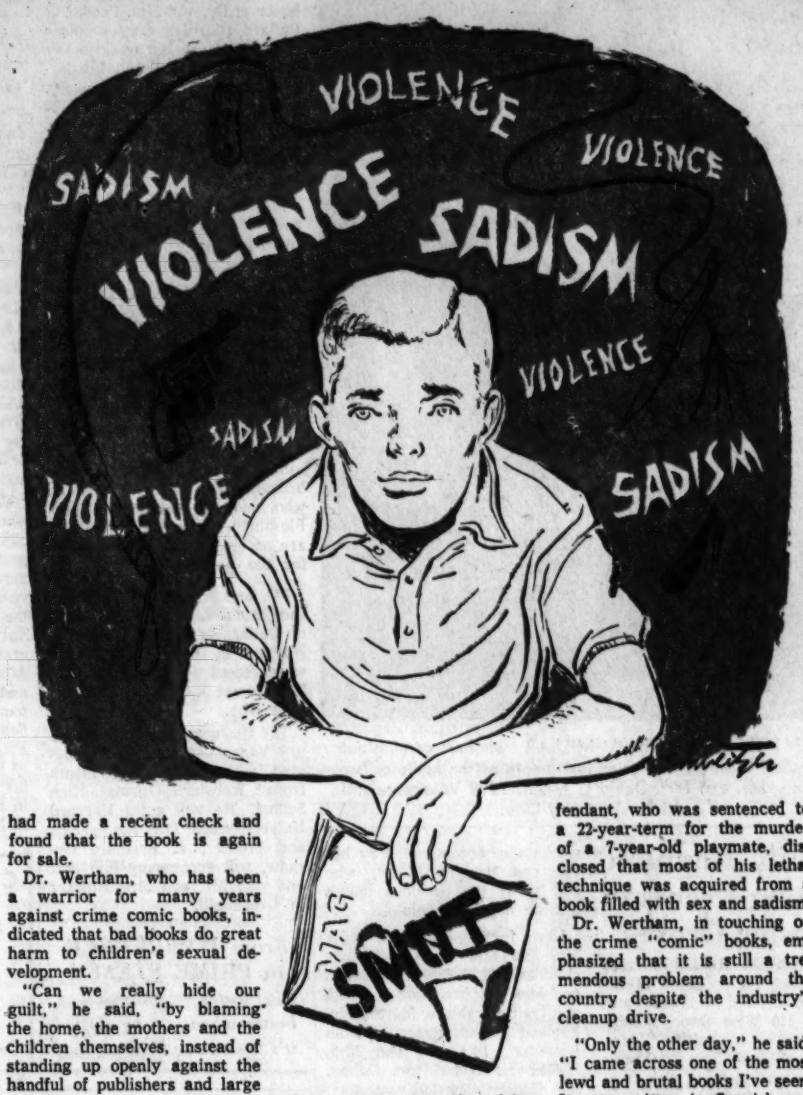
"They glorify sex and crimes," he explained, "and instruct children in perversion, rape, violence, sadism and brutality."

As an example, he cited the cases of two youths, Jack Koslow and Melvin Mittman. They are now serving 10 to 20 years for brutally beating an old man in Brooklyn and dumping him into the East river to drown.

This was the climax to a wave of sadism and crime in which they seized two 16-year-old girls and beat them with a braided horsewhip.

While in jail, the two youths readily admitted to Dr. Wertham they had gotten their cues from a series of lurid, licentious books.

The book, "Nights of Horror," which stressed violence and sadism connected with sex, was subsequently barred in New York, but Dr. Wertham said he had made a recent check and found that the book is again for sale.



Dr. Wertham, who has been a warrior for many years against crime comic books, indicated that bad books do great harm to children's sexual development.

"Can we really hide our guilt," he said, "by blaming the home, the mothers and the children themselves, instead of standing up openly against the handful of publishers and large distributors who have made contributing to the delinquency of minors such a profitable business?"

The doctor explained that "no one can claim that these books alone cause juvenile delinquency, but without reservation one may say that they are an important contributory cause."

At a Chicago murder trial, an undersized 15-year-old defendant, who was sentenced to a 22-year-term for the murder of a 7-year-old playmate, disclosed that most of his lethal technique was acquired from a book filled with sex and sadism.

Dr. Wertham, in touching on the crime "comic" books, emphasized that it is still a tremendous problem around the country despite the industry's cleanup drive.

"Only the other day," he said, "I came across one of the most lewd and brutal books I've seen. It was written in Spanish and was obviously aimed at the Puerto Ricans in New York."

Dr. Wertham is just one of a great army of people from every walk of life who have warned of smut's damaging effect on youngsters.

Psychiatrists stress that you can take a perfectly healthy child and, by continually exposing him to the abnormalities personified in smutty material, turn him into an immoral creature.

A school nurse in Cleveland, Mrs. Margaret Rowland, who said there is a shocking number of school pregnancies, voiced alarm at the change in morals of the younger people and added that lewd magazines available on magazine racks are "ruining physical, mental and moral health in our children."

In speaking of smut, the Rev. Ralph A. Cannon, Methodist pastor in Spartanburg, S.C., and research director of the Churchmen's Commission for Decent Publications, said he was convinced that printed obscenity is a major factor in the development of a distorted attitude toward sex.

Can parents do anything to stop their children from coming into contact with smut?

Dr. Wertham feels they can't. "It must be stopped at the source by removing it from the bookstands through police power," he said. "The laws must be enforced."

Tonight's TV Previews

MONDAY'S top television shows as previewed and selected by TV Key's staff of experts who attend rehearsals, watch screenings and analyze scripts in New York and Hollywood:

WELLS FARGO—"Counterfeiters." (A repeat.) First time round, we said this episode deserved a citation! It's still one of the strangest Westerns we've ever seen. Not a person gets killed, and more than that, not a single shot is fired. This, despite a search for some unscrupulous counterfeiters, an attempted holdup and a prison break. Good performance by John Berardino as the villain. 7:30 p.m., KSD-TV, Channel 5.

GOODYEAR THEATER—"The Guy in Ward 4." (A repeat.) This show has an interesting gimmick, and it's well acted. Story deals with an Air Corps psychiatrist who heals minds; and sends the men back into combat, but he's on the verge of a crack-up himself. Credit Richard Kiley, Charles Aidman and Edward Ryder with some strong characterizations, but the show's basic premise just doesn't ring true. 9:30 p.m., KSD-TV, Channel 5.

JACK PAAR SHOW—Nicest thing about the show tonight is a visit from Carol Burnett, who has done so well in an off-Broadway musical. She'll sing "Puppy Love" and some special stuff all her own. Ad lib team is Jim Moran and Cliff Arquette; Betty Johnson Soloes to "Don't Dream of Anyone But Me" and "Small World," and Jack takes another whack at a skit called "What Was That?" 11 p.m., KSD-TV, Channel 5.

Fat Man on Diet Can Be Desperate

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP).

MY SIX-YEAR-OLD daughter, Tracy, and I were down on the floor struggling for an object she held in her hands.

"Let go, kid," I told her. "I'll give you 50 cents for it."

"No, daddy, no," she cried. "It's mine."

Her small but firm grip tightened.

"Let go, baby," I grated, "or I'll break both your pretty little arms."

"No, daddy, no! It's mine!"

Just then my wife, Frances, entered and looked down at us.

"What are you two fighting over?" she asked absent-mindedly.

"I was just teaching the kid a new judo hold," I said, rising.

"He was not, mommy," said Tracy. "He was trying to take my dessert cookie away from me."

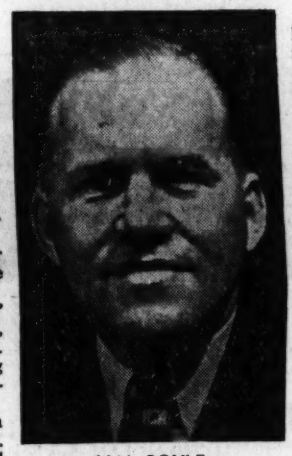
"I'd be ashamed," scolded Frances. "A grown man trying to steal a cookie from his own daughter!"

"I wasn't trying to steal it at all," I answered, hanging my head. "I was only trying to steal half of it."

Actually, that was a fib. I had meant to steal the whole cookie. And I didn't even feel ashamed. A desperate man on a diet knows no shame. All he knows is hunger.

Yep, I'm back on a diet again. This one may set a modern record. I have had to go on a diet every three months since I was married. And I've been married 22 years.

That's been my life for 22 years—three months on the chow wagon, three months off. Three months of building myself up, three months of tearing myself down. Three months of addition, three months of subtraction. Three months of living, three months of dietary dying.



HAL BOYLE

This is my forty-fourth diet. This time I went on it for a different reason. I thought I was getting hard of hearing.

"It's my ears, doc," I told the physician. "I can't seem to hear what people are saying."

"Your ears are okay," he replied, after an examination. "The trouble with you is that you should weigh 170 pounds and you weigh 215. The extra 45 pounds are all on your stomach. It sticks out so far people can't get close enough to make you hear them unless they shout."

"Quit mumbling, doc. I can't understand a word you're saying."

"You heard me!" he shouted, cupping his hands. "Go on a diet!"

And so I have. But every time you go on a diet it gets harder. The forty-fourth time seems to be the hardest of all. Everything reminds you of food. I catch myself stopping outside delicatessen stores just to read the names of the sandwiches in the window.

Twice a day I go out in the kitchen and watch the cat gorge itself. I'm hungry enough to eat a buffalo. That's why I don't dare go to the zoo any more. They have a buffalo there.

Worst of all are the friends who say they know a diet "That will simply melt the pounds away and not leave you hungry."

Liars! Liars! Liars!

"It isn't normal for anyone to be so interested in food after the age of 40," remarked my wife one day.

"Who is really normal over 40 anyway?" I asked her. "It isn't even normal to be 40."

Well, by starving all day and staying awake half the night counting calories instead of sheep, I have taken off 15 of those excess 45 pounds.

My stomach is shrinking. I am beginning to hear people better again. And you know what? Nobody has said one darned thing I haven't heard a million times before in my life.

Is dieting really worthwhile?

Mailbag Bulletins

NEW YORK, July 4 (AP).

THINGS a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

James Hoban, the man who designed the White House, was paid only $500 for the job. . . . One of the best government investments in history.

Do you have trouble sticking to a diet? . . . Some snakes can live from one to two years without food. . . . They absorb the fat from their own bodies.

HAL BOYLE.

Poison Ivy Advice

"Dear Dr. Molner:

I'VE BEEN BOTHERED by ivy poison every summer for the last several years. It hampers my work and makes life miserable in general. I have spent the last several summers lathered in salves, lotions, anything that was recommended. I understand there is now something new that can be taken orally. —H.Y."

You're not alone. But, H.Y., you didn't say whether your work forces you into the fields where poison ivy ambushes you, or whether you get out in the country for some other purpose. Are you a scoutmaster, mushroom hunter, botanist, telephone lineman or what?

Anyway, the majority of us are more or less sensitive to poison ivy. A few are immune. And for the sensitive ones, the best solution is to make sure you know what poison ivy looks like, and then go the other way as soon as you see any.

If you touch any, or are exposed to it, a thorough lathering with laundry soap, as soon as possible, is the best answer. The trouble is you may not know when you've been exposed. A dog or cat may wander through an ivy patch and pick up enough of the poison on its fur so that it rubs off on you. Even the smoke from a bonfire in which ivy is burning can carry the toxin. Either fresh, green ivy leaves or old ones can do the damage.

As to the new medications taken by mouth to prevent ivy trouble, I've heard conflicting reports, and my conclusion is that they are very fine and effective for some people but may not be the answer for all. So, right up to the present time, my counsel is:

If you are sensitive, avoid ivy.

If you do get a rash, various creams and lotions with antihistamines are good for mild cases, and those with zirconium are especially effective. In severe cases, you'll want help from you doctor, with compresses of Burrow's solution or dilute permanganate solution to ease the swelling and itch. Steroid drugs may be needed in very severe cases.

Around your cottage, home, or other place where you spend any time, use chemicals to kill off poison ivy if it is present. Any garden supply store can furnish suitable sprays for this.

In any case, prevention is better than cure. Avoid ivy. If you touch it, remember to use a plentiful lather of laundry soap as soon as you can.

The "oral preventives" are good, but the idea isn't as new as some think—since the Indians used to eat the leaves for this purpose. Doubtless it helped some Indians, and made others miserable.

As a final suggestion, and not the least important, going to an allergist for injections of dilute extracts of the ivy poison is a very good method. The principle is precisely the same as for hay fever sufferers who have protective shots every year, in the late fall or winter, to protect against the next summer's troubles.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, send for my booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," inclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

NEW PAINTING AIDS: A paint brush with individually tapered nylon filaments, first of its kind, is designed to give greater control and paint flow. Each brush filament tapers gradually in thickness from the ferrule to a fine, flexible point at the end. The filaments form a permanently pointed, flexible chisel tip that allows accurate cutting in. . . . A new non-inflammable paint and varnish remover requires no neutralizing agent and will not run even on vertical surfaces. A semi-paste you apply with a brush, it's said to penetrate deep, leave the surface ready for painting.

Family Reunion Among Events in Webster Groves

A FAMILY REUNION took place over the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey P. Truex, 130 West Swon avenue, in honor of his mother, Mrs. Harvey Eldone Truex, who is here for an indefinite visit from her home in Hawaii.

The visitor arrived here a few weeks ago, accompanied by her son and daughter-in-law, who had spent the previous month visiting her in Honolulu.

Here for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Truex's children and their families: Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Russell Smith and their daughters, Martha McFarland and Amy Smith, from Elmhurst, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Eldone H. Truex from Dallas. The visitors departed yesterday.

The senior Mrs. Truex spent several days in Kansas City recently as the Hawaiian delegate to the national convention of the American Association of University Women.

Several parties were given in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Ballard (Carolyn Busse) before their departure last week to live in Chattanooga, Tenn., his former home. The young couple, who had been living here at 9750 Old Warson road, Rock Hill, have purchased a home on Crown Point Road East, Signal Mountain.

Mrs. Ballard's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Busse, 15 Devon road, plan to visit them briefly soon.

Mrs. Ford Pennell, 330 Oakwood avenue, has opened her cottage at Epworth Heights, Ludington, Mich., for the summer. With her at the resort are her younger daughter, Miss Sally Pennell, and son, Eugene Pennell.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Rosebrough Jr. (Nancy Pennell), who have an apartment at 8872 Flamingo court, Audubon Park, are occupying the Pennell home for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Evan V. Nance and their son, Peter Kevan Nance of Dallas, Tex., and Walker J. Hosmer of Greenfield, Mass., were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Gushaw, 1107 Pine Tree lane.

The Gushaws' elder son, Gregory Vance Gushaw, was graduated with honors last month from Webster Groves High School. He will enter Harvard University next fall. His parents and brother, J. Bradford Gushaw, will accompany him east and visit Mr. and Mrs. Hosmer in Greenfield.

Jane Robinson, H. F. Whitney III Are Married

MRS. RAIRIGH ROBINSON, 329 North Euclid avenue, has returned from New York where earlier she attended the wedding of her daughter, Miss Jane Robinson, to Howard Frederic Whitney III. The ceremony, at St. James Protestant Episcopal Church, was performed by the Rev. Dr. Arthur L. Kinsolving and was followed by a reception at the Colony Club.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Knut Berg of Oslo, Norway, who is visiting professor of art at Vassar College, and was attended by Mrs. Berg. The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Daniel Simonds of Boston and Howard F. Whitney Jr., of Avon, Conn., had his father as best man and Roger P. Griswold, Antonio Ponvert and James F. Stebbins as ushers.

The former Miss Robinson, whose father is Philip Robinson of Paris, Tex., has lived in many parts of the world. Her mother moved to St. Louis less than two years ago. The bride attended the College de Marie Jose in Antwerp, Belgium, and was graduated from Birklands, St. Albans, Hertfordshire, England, and Barnard College. Her husband, who attended St. Paul's School, Concord, N.H., and Princeton Unoversity, now goes to Columbia University. He and his bride spent their honeymoon in the Bahamas. They will live in New York.

Miss Mary Burnett Graduates in Mexico

MISS MARY BURNETT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burnett of the Senate Apartments, 265 Union boulevard, who has been attending school in Mexico City for the last year and a half, received her bachelor of arts degree early in June from the College of Mexico City where she majored in Spanish and music. Miss Burnett took her freshman year at Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N. Y. She also attended Washington University.

Mr. and Mrs. Burnett went to Mexico City for her graduation and later accompanied her to Ixtapan, a resort in the mountains. They were joined there by a friend, Mrs. Oran Schee, a former St. Louisan, who now makes her home in Mexico City. Mrs. Schee is the former Tamara Darialova, well known ballet dancer who started her dancing career with the Imperial Ballet of Moscow. She later danced with Anna Pavlowa's ballet. Mrs. Schee, who is the widow of J. Edward Hussey of St. Louis, plans to visit here this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Noonan, 438 California avenue, Webster Groves, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Paschen, 41 Glenhaven, Glendale, have returned home from a visit to Chicago and Evanton. While in Evanston, they attended the graduation of the Noonans' son, Michael Noonan, from Northwestern University.

Martha Carr's
OPINION

Fed Up With His Job

Dear Martha:

MY HUSBAND is always complaining about his job and says he wants to quit and move to the country. Martha, what would we live on? We both have good health now but I am afraid for the future. He has a good paying job but he says its dull and the boss is a petty tyrant and he's fed up. He only has about nine more years until he can retire, but he wants to quit now. What do you think? UPSET.

I suppose every working man and woman decides occasionally to chuck it all and head for the peace and quiet of the countryside. So let him daydream a little. However, be practical, too, and try to keep him from making a wrong move if you can. Remember, though, that he has a right to his opinions, and you shouldn't turn down his idea without at least listening to him. Why not make up a balance sheet? Put down the advantages and disadvantages of both. (Don't load it in your favor, either.) Then dig up some ideas—the Vocational Counseling Service Library at 3836 Lindell boulevard will help you—on other job possibilities which might make him happier. Maybe he can combine his desire to move to a rural area with a money-making vocation. And last, don't let fear handle you. Those who go ahead are the ones who aren't afraid of what lies around the bend.

Dear Martha:

THIS IS to "Mixed Up." I was just like you. I had a married man cry on my shoulder. How abused he was, his wife didn't understand him and all the lies that go with it. Sure, I felt very sorry for him, so sorry that I married him, after she got a divorce. That was two years ago. I wish I could live my life over. I would never make that mistake again. I can't go home, my mother disowned me. I have no money for my child's care, so I am just stuck here while he is out crying on some other woman's shoulder. There are two sides to every story. ANOTHER WOMAN.

Right. The right side and the wrong. It's too bad many people won't slow down though to figure out which is which. They throw away more happiness that way.

Dear Martha:

I AM A WIDOW. What is proper on a wedding invitation? My first name or my husband's? How soon is it proper to have showers for the bride. A MOTHER.

Showers may be planned as soon as the engagement is formally announced. Your husband's name should be on the wedding invitations. Mrs. John Robert Jones requests the honour of your presence. . . ." Not "Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Jones."

Are you planning a party for the kindergarten crowd? Martha Carr's free leaflet, "Let's Have a Party," will help you with ideas for invitations, games, refreshments, favors. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Letter From Little Rock

NEW YORK, July 6.

A LETTER has come to me from the "Women's Emergency Committee to Open Our Schools" in Little Rock, Ark. I publish it here because I think we should know what is being done on such a vital question in this area.

"This letter," it reads, "is being sent to you because as a world traveler and prominent American figure you are often the spokesman and interpreter of events in our country.

"Perhaps you have noticed the news of recent events in Little Rock pertaining to the defeat of three school board members, who had attempted a purge of 44 of our public school teachers. This outrageous action was the incident which roused our citizens to organize. And it is recognized that the recall election could not have been won without our women.

"With a membership of 1500, we have worked since September of 1958 to reopen our four public high schools; to retain our staffs of good teachers; and to regain full accreditation by the North Central Association. Knowing that ours is a task of education, we have sent out hundreds of letters, as individuals and as a committee, urging support of the public schools. We have mailed thousands of information leaflets urging the re-opening of our schools. We run weekly ads in our local newspapers and we have presented radio, television and newspaper material. We have a speakers bureau and a lending library. All our work is volunteer and has been done on a very modest budget.

"It has been a concern of many of us that the unfortunate events in Little Rock were used as the best propaganda tool the Communist countries have had in the last 10 years. We hope you will help us communicate to others the information that hundreds of our citizens are working hard within the framework of law and order, and despite abuse and fear of recrimination to solve the critical situation in which we find ourselves."

TV Problem Solved

Dear George:

MY WORRY IS that people are succumbing to the intellectual anemia of television and aren't reading good literature. I should like to recommend, as a starter, "Peyton Place," a truly sympathetic insight into Americana today. How can we promote reading over the narcotic of television?

Dear Reader: I have very little patience with critics of your ilk. Actually—in only one instance—the TV dramatization of Mike Hammer has caused many nonreaders to turn to Mickey Spillane, people who otherwise would have been deprived. Don't jump to hasty conclusions. Try to "think out" these things.

Dear George:

ALL OF A SUDDEN there are so many little cars on the market I don't know which one to buy. Any suggestions?—BOB.

Dear Bob: Well. How tall are you? Come to think of it, how old are you? There are little cars and little cars.

Dear George:

I don't care what you say, it seems to me that women are getting worse and worse on the beach.—J.A.

Dear J. A. You forgot to inclose your problem.

Dear George:

All I have in the way of stamps is a bureau full of the old three-centers and now that it takes four cents to mail a letter I hate both to go downtown to the post office and to put six cents on an envelope. What about this?—MRS. P.B.

Dear Mrs. B: Write heavier letters, and get your six cents worth.

Mail your problems to George, in care of the Post-Dispatch, and note how much better you feel immediately. If you don't feel better immediately, perhaps you sent the wrong problem. Take two aspirins and try again tomorrow.

Things to Come in Rockets

By I. M. Levitt

Director, Franklin Institute Planetarium, Philadelphia.

IF THE STARTLING developments unfolding in this space age surprise you, prepare for a shock when you discover what our ingenious engineers plan for your future.

One scientist in a position to properly assess the shape of things to come is T. F. Dixon, chief engineer of the Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation.

Under his direction, engineers are assembling a rocket complex of eight 150,000-pound motors to yield a thrust of over 1,000,000 pounds. While it would take a minimum of five years to develop a single engine of this size, by clustering tried and proven motors this thrust can be attained in one to two years. With this type of motor our country could place 10,000 pounds at 22,400 miles in a 24-hour orbit around the earth or land 2000 pounds on the moon.

When a single motor of this type is built, we can put 22,000 pounds into orbit or send a 5000-pound vehicle to another planet. The advanced single motor, because of its greater efficiency, will provide twice the payload capacity for the same gross takeoff weight.

This engine will require a tremendous development effort. Just the power necessary to feed the propellants into the combustion chamber would equal that used by a small city.

Plumbing, valves and other devices completely beyond our current experience must be used. If this motor fires for 120 seconds, the plumbing will have to provide propellants at the rate of 6000 to 8000 pounds a second.

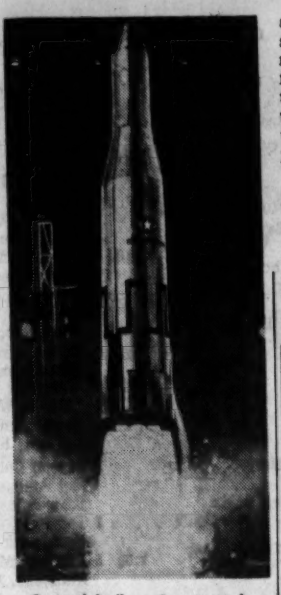
The next logical step, according to Dixon, involves the clustering of the large 1½-megapound thrust rocket motors. Three to five motors can be clustered to give a thrust in excess of 5,000,000 pounds.

When this motor is built, an entire new art of testing will be used. Many of the answers necessary to the successful firing of this motor are not as yet available and will remain unknown until engineers run headlong into the problem.

In 15 to 20 years, engineers expect that a single motor with a thrust of 5,000,000 pounds will be built. These structures will be so massive that they may very well be assembled and fabricated at the launch site in much the same way ships are assembled in shipyards.

This 5,000,000-pound thrust motor will be capable of placing a 260,000-pound payload in a low orbit or putting a 50,000-pound payload on the moon.

Then will come a monumental development of motors with thrusts on the order of 20,000,000 pounds. It may well be that instead of clustering three to five 1,500,000-pound thrust motors, we will cluster from 10 to 12 units.



Crystal ball gazing reveals this monster motor in our future, with thrusts of 20,000,000 pounds. Its tremendous efficiency will enable us to place 200,000 pounds on the moon.

The 20,000,000-pound thrust motor will be an incredible monster, but a most efficient one. It will be capable of placing a 300,000-pound payload in a low orbit or, because of the tremendous increase in efficiency, it can place 200,000 pounds on the moon.

If a trip to the planets is contemplated, it can put a 60,000-pound payload in the vicinity of Mars and return it to Earth.

This the engineer projects in terms of chemical rockets. Unfortunately, chemical rockets are not the most efficient means of propelling objects into space.

Beyond tomorrow we must consider the nuclear rockets which will yield a thrust of about 2½ times the best chemical rockets and the highly effective ion rockets which have fantastic efficiencies, but which cannot as yet produce significant thrusts.

Finally, in the very distant future, there is the fascinating possibility of using thermonuclear and plasma engines. At this time scientists must hope for a technological breakthrough of the first magnitude to harness this type of power on the earth. Once they have succeeded on the earth, they may be able to harness this power source in space.

In time, when we get to orbits around the earth, the small thrust but constant acceleration will be an effective means of traveling to the planets.

TV Notes and Gossip

WHEN FRANK SINATRA does his first show of the coming season for ABC-TV on Oct. 19, his guests will be Bing Crosby and Dean Martin. Sinatra will do four shows for the network during the season.

PERRY COMO plans to originate some of his next season's shows in Hollywood. "The change would be good for all of us," he says, "and give us time to work in our guests a little better. In New York we catch stars on the fly with only a day or two—sometimes less — to rehearse." Como will appear on a Bing Crosby special in Hollywood in September.

THE COMEDY TEAM of Mike Nichols and Elaine May will star in their own special on NBC-TV Nov. 21. They will write the program as well as star in it.

IN THE FIRST "Maverick" play of the new season in September, James Garner will play both Bret Maverick and Maverick's father.

LORRAINE HANSBERRY, author of the current Broadway hit, "Raisin in the Sun," will write the script for the first of Dore Schary's NBC-TV 90-Minute Civil War specials. Schary will produce five shows based on the Civil War for the network.

MEL ALLEN . . . will be chief announcer for All-Star Baseball Game tomorrow. Telecast will be carried by KSD-TV.

ANDY WILLIAMS on his first show on CBS-TV tomorrow night as the summer replacement for the Garry Moore show will have among his guests Janis Paige, Johnny Carson, Eddie Hodges and Peter Appleyard.

The Rings of Saturn

By Ramon Coffman

A QUESTION about landing on Saturn's rings has come from Susan Wiesner, who writes:

"I have read in many books that Saturn's rings are tiny particles, each with its own orbit. If this is true, and if I were in a rocket going to Saturn, could I land on the rings, or would the rocket go right through the rings?"

If you make a trip to Saturn, young lady, I advise you to keep out of the way of the rings! They are believed to be made up of millions of objects (the broken parts of one or more moons). They probably vary from the size of plums or oranges to objects larger than houses.

A rocket speeding toward the surface of Saturn might be ruined if it went through the rings. The smaller objects might have more force than cannon balls, and the larger ones might cause even more damage.

We are without exact information about the larger objects in the rings, but the rings are thin. They have been studied while almost edgewise to the earth. Astronomers with good telescopes have reported losing all sight of the rings when the rings were turned exactly edgewise to the earth.

That suggests a thickness of only five or 10 miles for the rings, and places a limit in the size of the parts. Even if a part had a diameter of a mile or two, it hardly would serve as a safe landing place for a rocket.

If you ever pilot a rocket to Saturn, it will be best to avoid a landing. One trouble is that you would find colder weather than exists at the South Pole of the earth.

You could, however, feel fairly safe if you circled around Saturn while 3000 or 4000 miles above the surface. There is a distance of about 7000 miles between the surface and the lowest part of the lowest ring.

Bill Vaughan Says

"THE MAN of the future will have no toes," a student of human evolution predicts. But there is no need to hasten the process by injudicious use of the power lawnmower.

Something will have to be done about horses on the turnpikes. Word from New York is that one so frightened a tollgate keeper that he turned and bolted.

The little boy down the block, dropped from the 10-year-olds' baseball team's roster, has opened a penny-a-glass lemonade stand, just like a washed-up major leaguer running a bar and grill.

Don't envy the neighbor because his grass is greener. Think how much taller your weeds are.
